BECAUSE the St. Louis Browns figured in the outstanding trading deal of the year, that team will have a lot to live up to when the season starte. And it is upon the trade with the Washington Senators that much of the Browns success or failure depends.

"Reindeer Will" Killifer is Old Man Cunning, himself, and the swap which brought to the Browns Sam West and Carl Reynolds, outfielders, and Lefty Lloyd Brown, pitcher, has also brought the commendation of the fans, who believe the team is strengthened considerably by the south with the best of them, but his lawy value is not of the husky value is not of the hus

Cheesemakers Perk up too Late: Marshfield not Able to hit Loop

Eugene high won fourth place in the state tournament by defeating Tillamook 38 to 23, and Silverton won fifth place by vanquishing Marshfield 33 to 14, in the Saturday forenoon games.

Fritz Kramer's Eugene boys got the jump on Tillamook, largely through Kramer's strategy in assigning his shiftiest man, Mercer, to dog the footsteps of "Dynamite" Baumgartner, the Cheesemakers' scoring ace. Mercer lost in the first half, and the Tillamook boy promptly flipped a field

BENSON TEAM IN STATE TOURNEY

Benson Tech of Portland sent a well-balanced, capable quintet to the state tournament, but it had the misfortune to run up against Salem in the first round and came off second best, later defeating Klamath Falls and losing to Silverton in a close game in the left bracket. The Benson team, top row from the left: Kuvallis, Egelhoff, Coach Frank Johnson, Weichmann, Brenner, Lower row, Campbell, Burns, B. Courtney, F. Courtney.

State champions! Our Salem boys went out there and fought their way to the top, against heavy odds both of size and experience. All honor to them. All honor to Johnny Kelley, adjudged the outstanding player of the tournament; the last of a long line of Kelley brothers who have given their best for Salem high over a long period of years.

Salem's first championship in seven years; the last was won in 1926. Finalists for the last four years, the red and black finally topped the last barrier. All honor to Hollis Huntington, the smart coach who has kept them up there, no matter what the odds.

Several times on this annual occasion we have said a champion team cannot be put together in one year; that champions are not born and are not made; that they grow. This year's Salem team is the exception.

At the start of the season there | Godfrey, year; Mosher, from the reserves but not in the 1932 tournament. When this year's tourney came along Huntington had to depend on these boys and Morley, who had played nothing more exciting than Church league ball; Thomas and Wintermute, from the 1932 B squad: DeJardin, just out of junior high.

Yet DeJardin who had played only a few minutes of high school ball before the tournament, was every inch a champion in the final test; played cool and at the same time inspired ball; Engel played a ter-rific game under the basket; Morley and Wintermute came through with flying colors in the final test; Kelley lived up fully to the honors that had secretly been bestowed upon him early in the day, before the "choosers" saw that final game-

You'll excuse your well wishers, fellows, if we didn't all have the fullest confidence in you. That's not exactly right, either. We knew you would be in there giving every ounce; but there were so many ounces on the other side, it didn't seem possible that yours were

About that all-star team; every man on it who had a chance to show Saturday night, lived up to expectations; Lowell Jenkins of Athena, hobbling on a had leg, held Canessa to one field goal; Kolberg and Wellington were great; we need say nothing more about Kelley. In the final game, two unexpected luminaries appeared; Silver of Lincoln and Engel of Salem. They, perhaps, didn't quite get all the recognition the final game entitled them to.

7-Cent Jump in Gas Expected in City This Morn

Salem service station operators are expecting the price of gasoline to make the seven-cent jump this morning that was announced for yesterday noon but failed to materialize generally. The new prices for first grade motor fuel will be 16 ½ to 17 cents a gallon and 14 cents for third structure

Last night a few stations were displaying the new price quota-tions but the larger operators were still holding at 9 to 10 % cents.

If the price does go to 16 % cents today, it will be back on the level of late last January, just sefore the cutting began.
