Final Game Super-Thriller Of Unsurpassed Tourney; Astoria Ranks Third

A safe margin. Salem retrieved the ball after the next tipoff and fast-broke with Morley on the scoring end, to make the final margin four points.

Every member of the Salem team distinguished himself; notably Engel and DeJardin, who performed the most important job of guarding and ball-retrieving that has ever been seen in a championship game. Gravely handicapped by loss of every tipoff, the Salem boys had to achieve actual miracles to win.

Deliberately Throw Lincoln Off Stride
But with all their fighting, they were required also to employ exceptional strategy, this consisting in deliberately slowing down the pace in the second half, to pull Lincoln off stride.

Astoria posed out the gamely battling Athena quietest in the third place (gal. 27 to 25, in a game which rivaled the championship contest in everything but importance. They scored point for point in the first half, but with Foster and Mackey potting long shots, Astoria pulled ahead in the closing periods, only to face a determined Athena rally that almost attained its purpose.

ESTATE OF CERMAK SHOWS SHRINKAGE

CHICAGO, March 18—(AP)—A quarter million dollars was the value of the late Mayor Anton J. Cermak's estate as estimated in his will filed for probate today.

Charitable and political contributions and real estate value shrinkage were said by the mayor's associates to have reduced the estate from a value of $600,000 in 1929 when the will was drawn.

The will bequeathed $17,000 to charities, $119,000 to coworkers, former employees, and friends, and the remainder to his family.

St. Joseph's orphanage at Lisle, Ill., the Bohemian Charitable association, and the Bohemian Old People's home and orphan asylum each were left $40,000.

Nieces and nephews received $40,000, his secretary for many years, Henry Sonnenschein, $10,000, and the family of his brother, Joseph Cermak, $45,000.

Three daughters survive Mayor Cermak, whose life was ended by a bullet fired by an assassin at President Roosevelt.

The Cermak homes at Antioch and Lawndale went to Mrs. Floyd Kenlay, a daughter. It was estimated each of the three daughters would receive about $20,000.

Substantial bequests also were made the late mayor's grandchildren.

Luther to Take German Embassy At Washington

BERLIN, March 18—(AP)—Dr. Hans Luther, who resigned yesterday as president of the reichsbank, has been appointed German ambassador at Washington, it was learned today from a high authority.

Official announcement of his appointment was withheld, but the Wolff and Telegraphen-Union news agencies, with the approval of the government press department, disseminated despatches from Washington saying the American government had approved the selection.

For brief terms in 1925 and 1926 Dr. Luther was chancellor of Germany. He became president of the reichsbank in April, 1930, succeeding Dr. Schacht. He was born in Berlin and is 54 years old.

"PRINCESS ANNA" SIGNS UP

Roosevelt, is pictured as she signed her name in the famous guest book of the National Press Club at Washington during a tea in honor of her mother. The book, though small, contains the biggest names in the world, including those in royal, diplomatic and sports circles.

Refinancing of Debt Talked; Legislative Leaders to Push Parity Plans

"We should consolidate all farm credit agencies in one bank like the federal reserve system," he said, adding that "you can't mix commercial banking with agriculture."

Senator Bulkley proposed his measure as a substitute for the administration program. He said it is designed to raise price levels for commodities needed for domestic consumption through a tax on the farmer which would give the government control of the surplus.

How the government would dispose of the surplus, he said, "could be worked out later." He explained acreage reduction would be effected by remitting the tax to farmers who cut their production.

KOO HOLDS JAPAN IS THREAT TO NATIONS

sential to their economic welfare. "In concluding the Washington treaties of 1922, the interested powers therefore desired to guarantee by a solemn international instrument the peace and security of the Pacific basin."

"Japan, a principal signatory power, in invading and occupying Chinese and Manchuria and Jehol, and attempting to create therefrom a so-called independent 'Manchukuo,' is violating the nine-power treaty upon which depends the equilibrium of the far east and demolishing the foundation upon which rests the peace structure of the Pacific...."

"Japan's complete disregard of her treaty obligations to the United States and the League member states, her continued defiance of the international verdict of 'guilty' and her studied indifference to world opinion, are making it abundantly clear that she proposes to stop at nothing in the prosecution of her ultra-nationalistic policy. Japan is already menacing the life of China; she will menace that of the United States. United Action Urged To Prevent Another War."

"The danger is growing daily. In the interests of the new order of international life and for the peace and security of the Pacific nations, this danger must be arrested. And it cannot be arrested except by common and united international action.

"China is bearing the brunt of the Japanese onslaught on world peace. For 17 months, she has been sacrificing tens of thousands of lives, hundreds of millions of dollars worth of property, whole cities and provinces. This sacrifice is made in order to shield the new structure for peace and security from ignominious demolition, as well as to protect Chinese territory against foreign invasion. In this great defensive 'war,' China is entitled to the moral, diplomatic and economic support of all those powers whose signatories are to be found in the Washington treaties, the covenant of the League of Nations, and the Kellogg-Briand anti-war pact.

"The Stimson note and the Roosevelt declaration on the one hand, and the assembly verdict against Japan on the other, constitute an unbiased record of the

MACDONALD ASSERTS PEACE MOVE URGENT

ament plan Mr. MacDonald recently presented at Geneva.

The two premiers, meeting for the first time in their lives, talked intensively about the whole European situation, including the question of disarmament. They made their beginning on the basis of Mr. MacDonald's statement, issued when he arrived at Ostia by airplane, that "peace must be organized quickly if it is to be organized at all." The meeting took place at Venezia palace.

Mr. MacDonald, it was said, touched without kid gloves on such delicate points as Italy's relations with France and Yugoslavia and Premier Mussolini's intentions in regard to Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany, head of another great fascist government.

The British prime minister explained his mission in Rome thus: "It is to exchange views with Italy's famous chief of intricate problems concerned with the organization of peace that I am here, and I have come with much confidence as to the effect of my visit.

"I am impressed with the difficulties confronting us, but believe that with vigorous cooperation, especially among the great nations of the world, we shall find a way out of our difficulty, both political and economic, and shall make the world a safe and pleasant place for this and future generations.

"We have no time to waste, however. My visit to Geneva and my contacts there with representatives of countries in all parts of the world have impressed me more than ever with the gravity of the problems which confront us."

The school in London where Charlie Chaplin and his brother, Syd Chaplin, were taught for two years is to be closed at the end of June after an existence of 76 years.

PRESIDENT PUSHES NEW DEAL PROGRAM

economy act and Mr. Roosevelt directed Lewis Douglas, director of the budget, to outline lower rates of salaries and veterans' compensation to save approximately $500,000,000.

Also next week the president will receive from his new congress a bill legalizing beer.

Early in the week the final Roosevelt emergency measure will be submitted—a proposal for a reforestation undertaking for the employment of about 200,000 men.

Going from the emergency program the president expects to be ready to call upon congress at once with railroad, banking and unemployment measures of a permanent character.

Senator Nye (R., N.D.) disclosed after a talk with the president today that the chief executive intends to ask congress also for legislation to permit refinancing in general of the debt burdened farmer and small home owner before the end of the session in May.

MONTANA JUDGE CHARGES 'TRADE'

Bourquin Claims Erikson Named Senator by Purchase

HELENA, Mont., March 18—(AP)—Montana's junior senatorship to which John E. Erikson was appointed last Monday on his resignation as governor and the appointment to the governorship of Frank H. Cooney, again became a topic of discussion in the state today when George M. Bourquin, United States district judge, made public a protest against the seating of the former governor.

Judge Bourquin, in a letter written March 15, the second day after Gov. Erikson was appointed to succeed the late Thomas J. Walsh, and airmailed to the senate and to each of its members, gave his view of the situation.

The senate, however, was not in session today and the letter was not available in Washington. In language characteristic of his colorful judicial utterances, Judge Bourquin questioned legality of the procedure by which Senator Erikson received his appointment. He suggested the senate should determine whether the senator's resignation was compensation for his appointment and the appointment consideration for the resignation.

At Washington, Chairman George of the senate elections committee said the senate would not be interested in the charge that a trade was involved in the appointment but would be concerned only "in the proper investigation of corruption on the part of the appointee which would go to his fitness for the seat."
