Bowman Hurls Tight Ball; Home Runs Account for All Scores Made

WOODLAND, Calif., March 30 (AP)—Portland's Beavers of the Pacific coast league defeated the San Francisco Missions 2-1 in a tight spring training contest here today.

Bowman, who worked five innings on the mound for the Beavers, got eight strikeouts and kept the Missions well in hand. Lieber pitched six innings for the Missions and held the Beavers to one hit. He scored the Missions' only tally with a homer.

Berger knocked one over the fence to bring in a man ahead of him for the Beavers' two runs.

LADIES' DAY GOLF PROGRAM STARTED

Ladies' day on Fridays has become the rule again at the Salem Golf club, the feminine devotees having started their program a week ago. Officers of the club have emphasized that women have the right of way on the course on Fridays.

However it is also pointed out that the ladies' day activity is usually finished by 1 p. m. or a little earlier, and men players are welcome in the afternoon, or at any time so long as they do not infringe on "women's rights" on that day.

In view of the greater patronage by women expected this year after the weather becomes more settled, it may be that there will be no room on the course for "mere males" before 1 p. m. This condition has not yet occurred.

Speeding—Max Shifrin pleaded guilty in justice court yesterday to speeding, and was fined $5 and costs. Fine was remitted and he paid the $4.50 court costs.

Some Clubs Will and Some Won't Serve Beer; None to Sell in Stands, Bleachers

By ALAN GOULD
NEW YORK, March 30 (AP)—Major league club owners today appeared evenly divided on the question of selling beer in the ball parks this season, which starts April 12, five days after the new 3.2 beer becomes nationally legalized.

Five clubs in as many cities have put themselves on record as opposed to selling beer, in or under the stands, but five others, concentrated in the two biggest cities, New York and Chicago, favor dispensing the new beverage to their followers.

The remaining six clubs are non-committal, for various reasons. A majority in both circuits are awaiting the final enactment of state beer control legislation before taking definite action.

Regardless of developments, the word is that no beer will be sold in the parks at Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Washington and Pittsburgh. In explanation of the situation in the two Ohio cities, it is pointed out that the prospective new state law, controlling sales will provide for consuming the brew only at tables.

Even where it is planned to put the beverage on sale, club owners apparently are agreed on a policy of not dispensing it among the customers in the stands, along with peanuts and popcorn. At Chicago, beer will be sold at bars in the White Sox and Cub parks. Club owners of all three metropolitan New York teams, the Yankees, Giants and Dodgers, favor the sale of beer at concession stands, but no definite plans have been made, pending the outcome of a fight over state legislation at Albany.

Col. Ruppert, owner of the world champion Yankees, controls one of the biggest breweries in New York, but he has made a move to put beer on sale at the Yankee stadium for opening day.

CURT COMMENTS

March came in like a lamb and listen to her roar as she goes out. That is, if you are referring to the weather. When you apply the same old adage to local and world events, the picture is reversed. A lot of history was written in the month just ended.

It was on the first day of March, in case you had forgotten, that the bank holiday reached the Pacific coast in its westward sweep; March 2 it hit Salem; March 3 hundreds of people were killed in an earthquake in Japan; March 4 a new president took office and faced the banking crisis which on that day had extended to every state, while the Japanese clinched their attack on Jehol by grabbing the capital.

March 5 was Sunday, but on that day the new president made the bank holiday a federal proposition, and the beer bill loosened up a bit and the entire nation talked scrip; March 7 Portland had a big bank robbery and the state senate voted the sales tax; March 8 the gold hoarders were told where to head in; March 9 congress convened in special session and passed emergency banking legislation within eight hours after the president told it what to do.

And on March 10, the Los Angeles region suffered the most disastrous earthquake that has rocked the nation since 1906, with about 115 deaths and millions of dollars in property damage.

March 11 came the first definite word about resumption of normal banking, and it came about on schedule the first three days of the following week; meanwhile March 13 Oregon State won the coast basketball championship; March 14 a tornado killed a couple

30 Clubs Slated To Start Season In Valley League

At an enthusiastic meeting of Mid-Willamette Valley Baseball association clubs' representatives at Anderson's sport goods store Thursday night, decision was reached to start play in the northern Marion county and Polk-Yamhill divisions April 16, and in the southern Marion and Linn county divisions April 23.

The northern division will include eight clubs, the southern Marion division six, the Polk-Yamhill eight and the Linn division six. Whether Brooks or St. Paul will be the eighth club in the northern division is still unsettled.

Addresses Fraternis—Dr. Frederick J. Libby, secretary of the national council for prevention of war, addressed Fraternis club members at their luncheon at The Spa last night, before his main Salem appearance at the First Methodist church. He was introduced by Dr. Roy M. Lockenour, acting dean of law at Willamette university. J. J. Handsaker, northwest secretary for the council, was a guest of the club.

Barbara Lewis Better — Decided improvement in the condition of Barbara Lewis, six, was reported yesterday to her father, Dr. George Lewis here. The attending surgeon at Portland said her condition was far better since she was given another blood transfusion Wednesday.

'FRISCO' TO BOSS KLAMATH JUNIORS

Leo "Frisco" Edwards, for many years prominent in baseball circles here, has departed for Klamath Falls, where he will take charge of American Legion Junior ball for the Klamath Falls post. That city has ambitions to produce an exceptionally strong team this year, as the state legion convention will be held there and probably the state finals in junior ball.

"Frisco" coached the Silverton junior ball team which won the northwest regional championship three years ago, and the Salem team which went to the state finals in 1931.

Speculation concerning Edwards' possible connection with the Salem Senators again this year following two seasons in which he had little to do with the local team's activity, is set at rest by his departure. He managed the Senators several seasons.

JENNE RESIGNS AS COACH AT PACIFIC

PORTLAND, March 30 (AP)—Eldon Jenne yesterday turned in his resignation as athletic director and head coach at Pacific university of Forest Grove, Ore., it was learned here today.

His resignation, which is to become effective at the end of this school year, was given, he said, because of illness in his family. Jenne is serving his third year at Pacific.

Hugh Boyd, principal of Washington high school of Portland, said today that his school will recommend to the school board that Jenne be returned as head football coach. Before going to Pacific Jenne was mentor at Washington high. The school board is the body that must pass final judgment on his return. Ray Wolf is at present coach at Washington.

SHORTAGE IN POLK FUNDS IS REVEALED

It was found that there was no record in the county books of a payment from Marion county in 1931 toward the cost of operation of the Independence ferry during 1930. A check of Marion county records showed that on January 8, 1931, a warrant had been issued to the Polk county clerk for $1064.21, and that this had been returned for cancellation on January 31, 1931. This item also appeared on the photostatic copy of the bank account as a deposit on January 29, 1931.

With the checked payments from the city of Dallas, the gasoline refund check, and the ferry check, a total of $6458.74 was traceable to the special bank account of the clerk. The payment of $3400 to the treasurer was the only item to balance against these deposits, leaving the shortage which Black admitted of $2058.74.

Auditor Rowell was ordered to make a complete check of the special account for the entire period which Black had carried it, with the idea that other shortages might be brought to light.

A summary of the deposits for the eight years shows that approximately $65,000 has passed through the special account. This summary is as follows:

1925	$4,287.89
1926	2,298.72
1927	3,904.91
1928	5,312.85
1929	$ 5,935.89
1930	17,053.49
1931	25,517.19
1932	2,469.76

As the special account was used in part as a revolving fund from which assigned county warrants were paid and supposedly redeposited it is difficult to establish just what outside items made up the various deposits.

Also the manner in which money was taken from the special fund and used for other purposes is a matter for conjecture. The reconditioned bank check summary for 1931 proved baffling to the grand jury in 1932 as the items listed there appeared bona fide. Despite this, there was an admitted shortage of over $2000 during the year, and there was no apparent way of determining how many small items of gravel purchase by private individuals and gas purchase by county employees may have gone into the account.

The county is protected to the extent of shortages which can be proven, by a surety bond for the amount of $15,000 a year. As soon as Auditor Rowell completes his investigation, District Attorney Barnhart plans to submit his find-annuity as a chief. A flag was also given him.

"Another illustration of Cassino's help against hostile attacks is told by Clarke in Pioneer Days of Oregon History. The story thus related is that shortly after the Hudson's Bay company changed its trading post from Astoria to Vancouver a war party was formed by the Wasco Indians in the vicinity of The Dalles to proceed down the river and capture Vancouver. A friendly Cascade chief sent a messenger to Dr. McLoughlin to warn him of the attack.

"McLoughlin went off to find Klesno, chief of the Malinwas who lived in one of the villages nearby on the Columbia to have him get together as many of his war canoes and warriors as possible, fully armed and equipped, and come to Vancouver to the rescue. The same afternoon Klesno's war fleet of 30 canoes and hundreds of warriors was safely hidden in an inlet below Vancouver. McLoughlin sent down plenty of good food for their use, while Klesno himself was cordially received and hospitably entertained at the fort.

"According to this story, Dr. McLoughlin and Cassino succeeded in so impressing the Wasco Indians with a show of force that no battle ensued.

"It is evident that Cassino could always be counted on to help against attacks of hostile tribes. There is no record that he ever plotted against the whites or did anything to violate their confidence in him. But occasionally we find him engaged in wars of his own with other tribes."
