OF SUNDAY SERVICE Like Fish? Maybe That Garden Does

WEST SALEM, April 7-Some West Salem gardeners who are not too busy, and have rather shallow soil are following the ancient Indian custom and planting a fish in each hill before planting their seed.

It is easy to get a large catch of rather bony fish that are not very good for eating, but make a richer seed bed for vegetables. One home owner stated this week that he could get about as many fish of this class as he cared to carry home, and that his kitchen garden could profit by the fishing trip.
