COOKING SCHOOL IS OFFERED, SAFEWAY

At Armory April 26, 27, 28; Homemakers' Bureau To be in Charge

Announcement has been made of a forthcoming cooking school to be conducted by the Safeway Stores Homemakers' bureau at the Salem armory three days, April 26, 27 and 28. This is the second school to be put on here by this organization, a very successful school having been conducted in February, 1932. The organization has presented schools in virtually all the cities of the west; and ladies who attended the school last year will be pleased to know of its return this year. The instructor this year will be Mrs. Marian Spencer, who has made an enviable reputation as home economist.

The Safeway Stores Homemakers' bureau is now in its third year of organization; maintains its headquarters in Oakland; and has 80 women employed at its headquarters, and others in other parts of the country. Its founder and director is Mrs. Julia Lee Wright, whose work as cooking school instructor, lecturer and radio broadcaster on cooking and allied matters has made her name familiar to many thousands of women. Last year 160,000 western women attended the cooking schools; and the number will be greatly exceeded this year.

Mrs. Wright has exercised great care in building up her organization. Every one of the home economists employed has either university training or practical experience in the commercial field of home economics. Mrs. Wright herself is a graduate of the University of Washington, and has wide experience in her field. Western women have found the bureau a mine of information on recipes, entertainment ideas, table settings, meal planning and dietetics; and the local cooking school brings the practical results of the bureau investigations and experiments direct to the people.
