BEER LICENSING

Reconsideration Move Seen As Possibility Monday At Council Session

Applying for U. S. Loan to Construct Terminal to Be Discussed Also

Sale of 3.2 per cent beer legally in Salem may yet be a fact. Indications last night were that one of the seven aldermen who voted against the beer licensing bill at the last city council meeting might move for reconsideration of the measure at tomorrow night's session.

If such a motion is put and given a majority vote, the council can then proceed to amend the bill as may be desired and bring it to vote on final passage the same night. If such a motion is either not put or voted down, any move to enact a 3.2 beer control ordinance for the city must go through the routine of first, second and third readings.

Members of the council licensing committee, however, do not speak as enthusiastically of city beer legislation as they did two weeks ago. Defeated at that time, they hold to the idea of dropping the matter until after the July 21 special election at which the people will vote on liberalizthe charter prohibition amendment, according to queries put to the committee last night. May Change Bill

If it is Revived Several aldermen, nevertheless, are considering attempting to bring up the bill again, amend it to include restrictions as to opening and closing hours of business places selling beer and as to their locations in regard to schools and churches. There is a feeling among them that the city should be obtaining revenue from the sales of beer now going on under protection of a circuit court injunction against the city. Other matters to face the aldermen tomorrow night may include an economy schedule for operation of street lights, and discussion of applying for R. F. C. loans for construction of the proposed municipal dock and mountain water system.

Reduction in City Light Bill Topic

Although the question of reducing the city's light bill several weeks ago was taken from a special committee and referred to the council's light committee, headed by Alderman F. L. Wilkinson, the latter committee has not yet submitted any recommendations to the council. Reduction of the $25,000 lighting bill can come only through decreasing the number of lamp clusters and corner lights used, according to conferences held with power company officials. One proposition given consideration is that of turning off at least half of the cluster lights and disconnecting many of the corner lights in the residence

Alderman S. A. Hughes, chairman of the utilities committee, last night said his committee would confer here tomorrow with engineers figuring the cost of the was appointed superintendent of dock and terminal to arrive at a the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe decision as to how large a loan railroad, a position he held until will be needed. Roosevelt Forest Army Takes Field

REFORESTATION ROOKIES AT CONDITIONING EXERCISE n dozens of camps all over the country, thousands of young men between the ages of 18 and 25 are getting a taste of real army life, getting up to the bugle and going to bed to the bugle, even eating to the tan-tar-ra-ra of the bugle. They are members of the Civilian Conservation Corps, or, as it is more familiarly known, the reforestation army, recruited from amongst the unemployed to participate in the gigantic forestry program inaugurated by President Roosevelt. Under capable U. S. army instructors, the men are undergoing a preliminary "conditioning" period before starting the actual work for which they are intended. During this training period, strict army discipline is maintained. The men are roused by the strains of reveille at 5:55 a. m., bre akfast on scrambled eggs, coffee and toast (sometimes cereal and bacon are included), after which the business of the day begins. First they are given a series of setting up exercises under army instructors. Then they attend a series of lectures on forestry. These lectures are given by experts on the subject who have been recruited from among the jobless. Then there is time out for recreation, Football and baseball facilities are provided, as well as gymnasium. At Fort Slocum, New Rochelle, N. Y., where nearly 2,000 recruits are encamped, the forestry army is a happy family. Included in the list of rookies are at least one sculptor, storekeepers, postal clerks, telegraph operators, black smiths, barbers and electricians. After the men have completed their course, they will be graded according to qualifications. Some will be appointed clerks. some foremen, but the great majority will be laborers, who will do the actual work of planting and

A. J. Davidson Dies in Less Than day After he Left S. P. & S. Position

PORTLAND, Ore., April 15-(AP)-Within a few hours after he had retired from active railroad life. Alfred James Davidson. died at his home here today. Davidson retired only yesterday, on his 70th birthday, as general manager of the Spokane. Portland and Seattle railroad. He had been in poor health for some time. Death was pronounced due to a heart

Davidson was born in Decatur, Ill., April 14, 1863. Immediately after graduating in 1880 from the high school at Lexington, Ill., he entered railroad work, his first job being with the Chicago and Alton railroad, as station baggageman. Later he became telegraph operator and then station agent for the same company. In 1884 he went to Birds Point, Mo., eventually becoming baggage

In 1881 he was named chief train dispatcher and train master of the San Antonio & Arkansas Pass railroad and five years later superintendent of transportation and later, from 1901 to 1904, as 1904, serving until 1909.

Retiring for a rest, Davidson did not resume active railroad work until 1911, when he came west and entered the service of the Spokane, Portland and Seattle railroad, serving as superinteneral manager and finally as gen-

HASTINGS-ON-HUDSON, N. Y. Son of Alleged Swindler is April 15-(AP)-Leaving their home in the early dawn without telling anyone where they were going, the family of John Vasco had disappeared tonight, adding another strange circumstance to the events arising out of the attempt to remove a tumor from the eye of two-year-old Helen Vasco. Some neighbors said Vasco, his wife and three children, Mary 11, and the twins, Helen and Anna, left their home in an automobile. Others said the Vascos trudged away on foot.

Mrs. Vasco has opposed the plan to remove a tumor on the retina of Helen's left eye, which, doctor's said, will cause her death if left to grow. The father said yesterday he would sanction the operation, but today William Birch, who lives next door to the Vascos, was quoted as saying the father told him he was "not going to have any doctors."
