

Local News Briefs

All Plants Improved—All the plants of the Spaulding Logging company throughout the valley have recently undergone extensive repair, repainting and general improvement. It was announced here Friday. Several thousand dollars has been spent by the company's management in order to make its equipment more suitable for business revival. Re-opening of the mill here is talked constantly as an inevitable accompaniment of lowered freight rates on the logs hauled by the firm from Winona to Oiso.

Final Wind-up. A hat free with each suit. G. W. Johnson & Co., 469 State.

To Appear at Dallas.—"The Seven Last Words," a sacred cantata by Theodore DuBois, will be presented at the Dallas Christian church Sunday night by the choir of the First Christian church of Salem. Three soloists, Neil Fleming, baritone; Billie Cupper, soprano, and John Schmidt, tenor, will carry the leading parts. The choir is under direction of Professor Loren Davidson.

Buy the new Thor Washing Machine and receive a full case (40 packages), of Rinsos free. This offer expires May 10. Eoff Electric, Inc., 347 Court.

Status Unchanged—Russell Brooks, member of the American consular service at London, is staying at his post indefinitely, according to the last reports received by his mother, Mrs. Mildred Brooks, county recorder. His status is unaffected by the change of administrations at Washington inasmuch as he is a "career" man and not subject to the shifting when ambassadors and ministers are changed.

Sale ends Saturday. Get a free hat with a suit. G. W. Johnson & Co., 469 State.

Wants Freedom—Bernice Craig filed suit in circuit court here yesterday seeking a divorce from Ernest H. Craig whom she married February 7, 1907, in Iowa City, Iowa. She says Craig is frequently drunk, is abusive to her and claims that April 8 he struck her in the face and hurt her severely. She asks the custody of their three minor children and $30 a month as support funds.

Free, 40 packages of Rinsos with every Thor Washing Machine purchased up to May 10. Eoff Electric, 347 Court.

McGillivray Speaks—Hugh McGillivray, editor of the News-Times at Forest Grove, spoke to the Willamette university student body at the chapel services Friday noon. McGillivray discussed the newspaper publishing business from the standpoint of the reader and the publisher. He was one of a number of alumni of the school who have spoken at recent chapel meetings.

TO OPEN GARDENS FOR BLOSSOM DAY

Gardens at a number of Salem homes will be welcoming visitors next Sunday as one of the special features of Blossom day. Arrangements for the opening of these gardens to the public has been in the hands of Mrs. Dan J. Fry, Sr., who announces that gardens will be open for inspection at the following homes:

T. A. Livesley, George Putnam, U. G. Shipley, Dr. H. J. Clements, D. B. Jarman, Walter T. Jenks to retrofit a dwelling at 247 South High street at cost of $75.

In addition to these home gardens within the city, the gardens of Ernest Iufer, president of the Salem Garden club, will be open to visitors. These gardens are in the Morningside district. Tulips will be in bloom at the W. C. Franklin gardens on the Wallace road, one half mile north of the west end of the Marion-Polk county bridge and will attract many of the blossom sight-seers.

Gasoline Cowboy Squad is Active; 89 Convictions

There have been 89 convictions under the so-called "Gasoline Cowboy" law during the past year, Dr. W. H. Lytle, in charge of the animal husbandry division of the state agricultural department, has reported.

Lytle said that one man had operated for several years with a truck disguised as a bread van. The truck was equipped with slaughtering tools.

The largest theft was reported in central Oregon where 2000 sheep were taken into Idaho and sold.

Justice Court Quiet—Friday was a dull day in the justice court of Miller B. Hayden with no cases heard or complaints filed.

SENIOR VOYVIL TO BE OFFERED SOON

The senior class of Salem high school has chosen the well-known fairy tale "Alice in Wonderland" for the theme of the annual senior voyvil to be presented in the auditorium May 5.

Wilma King, as Alice, will entertain the other characters with a garden tea party. Each character will present a feature number as he makes his appearance on the stage.

The evening's performance will be under the direction of Ruth Johnson, vice president of the senior class. Serving under her are the following: Constance McLeod, Marjorie Humphreys, Eleanor Tridman, Helen Worth, Marie Lippold, Leota Harland and Mildred Erickson.

A chorus under the direction of Mary Jane Lau will also play an important part in the program. The chorus is composed of Stubby Mills, Wilma King, Charles Barclay, Connie McLeod, Kenneth Coffey, Marjorie Kissling, Everett Ramp, Lena Belle Larsen, Leslie Whittington, Edna Kingsley, Ben Thomas, Merriam Williams, Don Doerfler and Bernice Eyerly.

Following the program, a dance will be held in the gymnasium. A Spanish motive will be used with Roy Mack's popular orchestra playing.

OLEO REFERENDUM PETITIONS PUSHED

Petitions asking that the oleomargarine tax law passed by the legislature go on the July 21 statewide ballot, were being circulated in the downtown district yesterday by paid solicitors. The tax imposes a four-cent a pound charge on all oleomargarine sold in the state. The original bill excluded oleo made from animal fats but this was stricken from the bill by the legislature.

A measure providing a higher tax on oleo was submitted to the voters at the general election last November but failed to pass. Opponents of the oleo tax claim it imposes a heavy sales tax on an article of food used by many needy families.

The Oregon Dairymen's association is a strong supporter of the tax on oleomargarine.

MARRIAGE LICENSE BUSINESS PICKS UP

Marriage license business, quiet for the last fortnight at the courthouse here, went up yesterday as the dollar went down, prospective newlyweds evidently thinking now was the time for two to live as cheaply as one.

Licenses were issued by the county clerk's office to the following couples: Paul Resau, 30, 2422 North-east 59th avenue, Portland, a salesman, to Marjorie Schaefer, 27, 2134 Grand avenue, Portland, a housekeeper.

Alvin H. Hartley, route 1, Brooks, a laborer, to Vivian M. Freed, route 9, Salem, a housekeeper.

Arthur M. Frederickson, 33, 610 Main street, Klamath Falls, to Gladys Rice, 18, 335 South 9th street, Klamath Falls, a housekeeper.

Hawleys Due in City by Tonight

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hawley are due in Salem from Washington late today, friends here were advised yesterday. They arrive this morning in Portland on a train from the east. The former congressman expects to make his home in Salem, it is understood. He has announced no definite plans for the future. He owns a home here on Oak street.

POSTMASTERS ARE FEELING CHEERFUL

Farley Statement Assures Republican Incumbents of Full Tenure

Republican postmasters throughout the county are feeling noticeably improved in spirit following a public statement this week by Postmaster General Farley, who declared these men would not be removed during the term for which they were appointed. Farley's only qualification to the statement was that the men must have a proved record of efficiency.

Before the postmaster general made his statement, many of the postmasters felt their removal was imminent since a strongly democratic congress might do away with civil service provisions affecting postmasters. In that event commissions held by the postmasters, ranging from 1933 to 1935 in expiration date, would be valueless.

In the Harding administration, postmasters named by President Wilson held office until their terms expired. The democratic party, Farley pointed out, was a leader in the move to put all post-office workers under civil service.

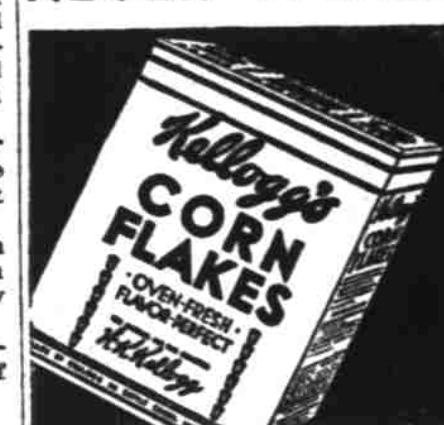

Locally W. A. Delsell is the most mentioned candidate for postmaster. It has been stated that he would be named assistant collector of internal revenue in Portland until Postmaster John Farrar's term expires. Delsell served a number of years as postmaster at Klamath Falls.

LUMBER LOOKS UP IN BAKER VICINITY

An early revival in lumber manufacture in the Baker, Ore., area is expected this spring, Lucien Arant, manager of the Baker Democrat-Herald, reported yesterday while in Salem from Monmouth where he has been visiting this week with his mother. Arant was with the Morning Oregonian before going to Baker in 1925.

As a whole, Baker has suffered less from depression than any other large eastern Oregon community, Arant commented. However many families have been out of work and during the past winter relief has been granted by public agencies to 30 per cent of the workers in the city. Gold mining has been going on

Leap From Third Story Window is Cause of Injury

Topographic Map Of Rogue Valley Will be Finished

Work on a topographic map, embracing the entire Rogue River valley, is to be resumed within the next two or three weeks, it was announced at the offices of the state engineer Friday. The work will be in charge of the topographic division of the department of the interior. The project was undertaken a year ago but work was suspended later. The map will contain valuable information regarding all irrigation and drainage districts.

On one February day Nebraska farmers ordered 10,000 transplant and seedling trees.

Leap From Third Story Window is Cause of Injury

In an apparent attempt to escape or else to take his own life, Dean McGrew, committed to the state hospital last month after being here only a few days from Los Angeles, leaped from a third story of the institution early Friday and suffered a fractured leg and other injuries. His recovery is expected.
