

Wildcat Pete and Cyclone Mackey to Clash Tonight

BULLDOG FACES JIM ANDERSON

Tough Truck Driver Comes Back After Two Years To Tame bad boy

Wildcat Pete, with his tricky holds and aggressive style, will move up a notch to the main event in tonight's wrestling show, meeting an opponent who is expected to meet him in the matter of cunning and viciousness. This is Cyclone Mackey of Seattle, who has made a good showing here in his several recent appearances.

Bulldog Jackson will be back in the picture, meeting an opponent practically "made to order" for him, Jimmy Anderson, in the one-hour bout. A mistaken idea has gotten abroad that Bob Anderson, the son of the late Anderson, is to oppose the Bulldog.

Recent converts to mat fandom may not remember Jimmy Anderson, the solidly-built truck driver, but those of longer standing will recall the tough competition he provided for Wildcat McCann and Mervin Barrackman a couple of years ago. Jimmy will be back after a long absence.

KITBALL GAMES ARE THRILLERS

Singer of Converters Hurls No-no Ball; Salem Linen Stops Valley Motor

With two well-played games, each a thriller though in different ways, the Salem Kitball league was formally opened Monday night on Sweetland field, before a fair-sized crowd which is expected to be greatly augmented after the fans get the habit of going, and particularly after night ball under the flood lights is instituted.

H. Singer, pitcher for Western Paper Converter, got off to a good start when he hurled a no-hit, no-run game against Salem Golf club, the Converters winning 7 to 0. The golfers fielded excellently, but could do nothing with Singer's delivery.

Adolph Bone, Goode and L. Singer led the Converters in piling up 17 hits for the victory. Salem Linen Mill nosed out Valley Motor 8 to 7. They played tight ball up to the ninth inning, with the weavers leading 4 to 2; in that frame Salem Linen stepped out and got four runs and they were all needed, for Valley Motor pounded in five in its half.

Wednesday night at 6 o'clock there will be another simultaneous double header, Teachers vs. Knapley Ice and Elks vs. Kay Mills. Western Paper 7 12 1 Salem Golf Club 0 0 1 H. Singer and L. Singer; Lemmon, Mickenhay and DeTennencourt. Salem Linen 8 14 2 Valley Motor 7 14 1 Sardots and McCaffery; M. Ritchie and Bush.

CURT COMMENTS

Mevin Nagel was elected captain of the Salem high school baseball team for next year, at the banquet given for the 1933 state champions by the student body Monday night. If he plays the same kind of ball next season that he did in this state tournament, Mevin should be an inspiration to his team mates. The same could be said of Vern DeJardin who also, we hear, received some votes for captain.

Speakers at the banquet, held at the Spa, were Principal Fred Wolf, Coach Hollis Huntington, Physical Director Vernon Gilmore and Mosher, Thomas, Engel and Kelly of the team. Bob Reed, student body president, was toastmaster.

We heard some good news and some bad news Monday about Johnny Oravec, who is expected to be Willamette's ace ball carrier next fall and has been coveting on the diamond this spring. The Northwest conference cleared up all question of Johnny's eligibility, the question having been raised as to whether he played a minute or so of football for the Manhattan freshmen in 1931. The bad news is that he may have a fractured wrist as result of a mishap in what the sandlotters used to call a "hotbox" play out at the penitentiary Saturday.

The Bearcat athletes will be busy today. Spec Koene will take his ball players to Portland to meet the Irish of Columbia, and Vernon Gilmore will take the university trackmen to Monmouth to find out if their recent victory over the Teachers was an accident.

Cliff Parker, chairman of the American Legion committee which has charge of junior baseball, is planning to call a meeting for discussion of this program for some night this week. Salem will be making a late start, but that's not so serious a matter as all of the boys who are playing ball. The valuable Jefferson contingent is reported all ready to go.

The Senators held a lively workout Sunday. The latest veteran to affix his name to a contract is George Scales, fleet outfielder.
