clothes. . . Delaney returned to the statehouse about 7 o'clock this morning and reported to Bligh that he, in company with Mr. Bacon (president of the bank) and two other men had gone to Harwichport to the house of Mr. McMATH conveying a sum of money which he believes to be $80,000.

"This information was reported promptly to us at Harwichport, whereupon Lt. Sherlock and I went to Mr. McMATH's home, where he had an interview with Mr. Lee.

"As a result of this interview and other information . . . we returned and had a second conference with Mr. Lee at the McMATH home at noon.

"After the interview we were told the little girl had been delivered to the father the preceding night (spokesmen for the family said the actual hour was 2:30 a. m.) and the money paid and that in accordance with an agreement made with the kidnappers, the little girl, the father, Cyril Buck and one Harold Sawyer were on the boat 'Bob' (Lee's craft).

for the celebrations thereafter to their children.

These pioneers and their families who make the journey here this year will find several improvements in landscaping and road-building. This work has been placed in charge of J. W. Murray, new caretaker, who landscaped the grounds at the state hospital in Salem 20 years ago.

Mrs. Mary W. Patterson announced that the pioneer mothers' memorial log cabin, erected under the auspices of the Daughters of the American Revolution, will be open for the first time this season during the Founders' day picnic tomorrow.

A program of speaking and music will follow the basket dinner.

NATIONAL CHAMBER BACKING PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP)—The chamber of commerce of the United States aligned itself solidly today behind the proposal for government supervised production and competition control by industry itself, but the administration revealed itself as yet uncommitted to any definite industrial program.

It was made clear today that President Roosevelt has not determined whether he will recommend any such legislation at this session, and that he is watching both the progress of modifying the Black 30-hour work week bill in the house labor committee, and the many variations of the plan for industrial self-control.

TARIFF TRUCE IDEA APPARENTLY LOSER

LONDON, May 5.—(AP)—America's big move for giving the world economic conference a constructive send off by means of a tariff truce failed today to gain the support of the British government.

With other countries awaiting Britain's leading, there appeared no hope tonight of making effective an armistice in the economic warfare among the nations.

No outright refusal of cooperation came from Downing street, where Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald held two long sessions with his cabinet, but it was understood that Sir Robert Vansittart, permanent under-secretary of foreign affairs, had informed Norman H. Davis, president Roosevelt's negotiator, of the inability of the British government to agree to an immediate truce, or even to a truce from the opening of the economic conference, unless Britain's tariff position is protected by safeguards.

A tariff truce with reservations, to an authoritative American press meeting here today, would rob the measure of much of its constructive psychological effect.

PLEAD FOR RELIEF TO FRUIT INDUSTRY

PORTLAND, Ore., May 5.—(AP)—The Oregon cooperative council meeting here today adopted a resolution urging President Roosevelt to do something for agriculture, particularly in regard to the fruit industry of the Pacific northwest.

The resolution read: "We call special attention to the unfavorable position of the fruit industry of the Pacific northwest, due to the heavy tariffs, embargoes and restrictions set up by foreign countries, and urge that these barriers be adjusted in such a manner as to restore normal trade in these and other exportable agricultural commodities."

The council, representing 39 cooperatives with 30,000 members, urged in another resolution that no modifications of the Morgenthau wool plan "as originally drawn be permitted, which would break down orderly cooperative marketing of wools and possibly adversely affect prices paid to growers."

TAX CRUSADE UPON GANGSTER REVIVED

CHICAGO, May 5.—(AP)—An income tax crusade against gangsters and alleged police and political allies, who have squeezed millions of dollars from legitimate business through outlaw labor unions and racketeering trade associations here was under way tonight by the federal government. The move is along the lines of the campaign that sent Al Capone to prison.

The first of a dozen gangsters, police captains, and politicians to go under investigation was reported to be Murray Humphreys, successor to Al Capone as "Public enemy No. 1."

Humphreys, a young man of respectable family and good education, has been charged with being the "man behind the scenes" in 42 bombings since January 1, dozens of kidnappings and the many "one way rides" that have bolstered gangdom's strangle hold by intimidation on certain industries and unions.

Another against whom evidence was reported to have been gathered, is short, portly Thomas Maloy, head of the motion picture operators' union. His income has been estimated in the hundreds of thousands annually.

NEW YORK, May 5.—(AP)—The big push in the financial markets still moved forward today, undisturbed by flurries of heavy profit taking. The stock market pressed still closer to the peak levels of last

Salvation Army Lassies Selling Tags Here Today

Mayor Douglas McKay as chairman of the Salvation Army executive board last night called upon the citizens of Salem to respond generously today to the Army's tag day sale. The Salvation Army "lassies" will be on the streets offering the tags in return for funds with which to carry on the organization's activities here.

"I feel there is a real need for the work of the Salvation Army," Mayor McKay declared. "May I urge Salem citizens to buy the tags; all of the money will go for local work."

BODY OF GANGLAND RIDE VICTIM FOUND

DENVER, Colo., May 5.—(AP)—The body of an unidentified man, apparently the victim of a "one way" gangland ride, was found on a dump on the outskirts of Denver in Adams county tonight.

He had been shot two or three times in the head and police said an examination of the body showed he had been severely beaten. The body, officers said, was tossed on the dump from an automobile, the tracks of which were found nearby.

It was discovered after police received reports a gangland killing was "due" in Denver this week. Detectives said the tip was an anonymous one, and did not reveal how or when it had been received.

Detective Henry Gentry said there were several clues to the man's identity and they were checking to determine what if any connections he had with Denver gangs.

Officers Launch Post-32 Drive Against Sellers

Moving against the sale of intoxicating liquor in Salem, city police last night made their first raid since the arrival of 32 per cent beer. At 7:45 p. m., they arrested Mrs. Dora Price, charging her with selling intoxicating liquor and maintaining a nuisance at 225 Chemekeeta street. William Albert Price also was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct. Upon order of Municipal Judge Poulsen, police released Mrs. Price on $50 bail.

James Price, son of the arrested woman, was still in jail last night, serving out a 10-day sentence for being drunk.

Needham said Peggy told him that she went to school as usual on the day of the kidnaping. At about 10 minutes of 2, some one knocked on the door, the teacher answered it, came back, and said: "Peggy, you're excused now. You may go home."

As she left the class was singing "Rain."
Taking her wraps and lunch-box, she went out and saw a sedan with a negro chauffeur waiting. She had never seen either before. It wasn't far from the door to the car, and she didn't notice the number plates.

The chauffeur said to her: "I'm going to take you home, because there are friends there that want to see you." They drove away in an easterly direction. She noticed a black cloth was hung over the instrument board by court-plaster.

Finally they turned into a small road through some woods and stopped near a cranberry bog. She had never seen the place before.

"While we were riding the man said to me: 'If you make any noise or try to get out, I'll choke you,'" Peggy said.

"He told me to get in the back. I saw ropes and handcuffs on the floor. The man tied a black cloth around my face, so as to blindfold me, made me lie in the back seat, facing the back, tied my arms to my body, put handcuffs on me, and made another tie around my hips."

"He started to stuff clothes in my mouth, but I asked him not to do that, and promised not to make any noise. He didn't stuff any more rags in, but got in the front seat, and backed the car up."

that some time would elapse before a report could be made.

The texts of the complaints submitted by locals were not made public, and it could not be ascertained immediately if the interior secretary had charged that the identical bids for government work might indicate the manufacturers concerned were acting as a "trust."

The trade commission already has gathered extensive data concerning the practices of the cement industry. At the request of the senate a full investigation was made into the industry.

This investigation has been completed, and the commission's report probably will be submitted shortly to the senate. It has never been made public, and its contents will not be made known unless the senate makes it available.

LANDSLIDE FEARED AT SAN CLEMENTE

SAN CLEMENTE, Cal., May 5.—(AP)—Fearing a tremendous landslide, engineers tonight warned all persons to stay clear of a five-acre tract surrounding the $75,000 cliff home of Mayor Thomas F. Murphine of San Clemente, which was partially engulfed when the earth opened beneath it last night.

Experts said a fissure 400 yards long was constantly widening atop the high bluffs overlooking the sea midway between San Diego and Los Angeles. Workers were ordered from the wreckage of the Murphine home, where they were attempting to salvage a $10,000 library and other valuables.

Total damage was estimated at $100,000, including $15,000 damage caused when thousands of tons of rock slid onto the Santa Fe Coast Line tracks at the base of the cliff on which the Murphine mansion stood.

LATEST OF DEBTOR PROTESTS IS FILED

Another of a series of debtors' protests against court actions which have developed in recent weeks, arose Friday when Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Bath filed an objection to the confirmation of a sheriff's sale of April 29, 1933, in which property they owned was sold to the Union Central Life Insurance company. The company had previously sued them to collect a mortgage.

The objectors declared that the property on which the loan was placed was reasonably valued at $5500 in 1928 and that its current value, attested to by Joseph Barber and by Melvin Johnson, local realtors, is $4000. At the sale the property brought only $2264 and a deficiency judgment for $1008 was taken against the Baths.

In objecting to confirming the sale the defendants contend the court should set a minimum price on their property or else delay the sale.

Attached to the objection are four photographs of the house and also a description of the property which is on a well-located lot in Salem. The house is of seven rooms, thoroughly modern, constructed of brick, with a well landscaped yard.

Defendants in filing their case declared the insurance company will realize "an unreasonable and unconscionable profit" from the sale.

DISTRICT NAZARENE RALLY SCHEDULED

The annual district assembly of the North Pacific district of the Church of the Nazarene, meets in Portland next week with Dr. J. W. Goodwin of Pasadena, California, general superintendent, presiding. Dr. J. E. Bates of Portland is district superintendent and Rev. D. Raad Pierce of Vancouver, B. C., is secretary.

Eight delegates from the local church will attend the sessions: Rev. and Mrs. Fletcher Galloway, Mr. and Mrs. L. Van Delinder, John S. Priesen, Mrs. Lonella Hardy, Frank M. Litwiller, and Mrs. M. D. Litwiller.

The 50 voice choir of the local church directed by John S. Priesen is scheduled to appear on that program at Portland Wednesday night and the young people's quartet on Thursday night.
