FARMER TO PROFIT BY SALES TAX, HELD

C. C. Chapman Cites Results Expected in Address Before Kivans

The farmer will profit from the passage of a general sales tax, C. C. Chapman, editor of The Oregon Voter, told the Salem Kiwanis club Tuesday noon in an address at the weekly luncheon. Timber owners will be next in line of benefit with merchants most injured since they cannot pass all the tax on to customers because of the property tax offset to the merchant under the 1933 legislative enactment which comes before the voters July 21.

Chapman discussed current developments in the sales tax informally, pointing out that some merchants opposed it while others favored it, that it was easier to raise money to fight the tax utilities could not pass on all the tax because of the property tax offset they would receive.

Chapman said the plight of the counties was growing in intensity because of increasingly heavy tax delinquencies. He said the state's governmental units were in an "arrant logjam" with county, city and school district workers bogged down with warrants which they could not now pass on to creditors, even at a discount.

Unless the sales tax is passed to afford more cash revenues for local governmental units, much higher salary reductions must come, Chapman said. He pleaded for the continuance of reasonable governmental functions, declaring the citizen received a full dollar's worth from every taxation-raised dollar.

In his opening remarks, the speaker jokingly referred to Salem as the "former capital" of Oregon and noted in passing that some state officials still reside here. He also commented on the decline of railroad service to the city, which he opined, might be offset by the move to canalize the Willamette river.

PACIFIC HIGHWAY PROJECT FAVORED

Highly Feasible as Part of Public Works Program, Baldock Declares

Improvement of the Pacific highway through Oregon to place it in condition for permanent use in step with the changes in motor traffic presents one of the most feasible immediate projects for the state through the medium of the public works bill now in congress, State Highway Engineer R. H. Baldock told a chamber of commerce gathering Monday noon.

Mr. Baldock discussed at some length the Oregon highways, a public-owned transportation system. Economic difficulties of the times have halted any building program, and new work can be undertaken only if funds are available through federal aid.

Highways, on which plans have already been made, offer the quickest projects upon which to expend money to get men back to employment, Baldock declared. At the same time, he said a high degree of efficiency must prevail in further highway work, and pointing to the mistaken policy of last year when two and a half million dollars was expended in wasteful methods merely to provide relief.

Baldock hopes to see a four-lane Pacific highway the length of the state to match similar undertakings by Washington and California. A number of permanent improvements already under way, as for instance at Aurora, and between Oregon City and Portland, and Brooks and Aurora, will make a great difference in the travel as early as next July or August, he claimed.

Baldock is hopeful that federal money will be available shortly for continuation of the Brooks-Aurora project.

THREE FILE SUITS SEEKING DIVORCES

Three unhappy members of matrimonial partnerships yesterday filed suit in circuit court here, seeking freedom from their matrimonial bonds.

Because Sadie Ferguson, wife of F. M. Ferguson, has an allegedly bad temper and has three times threatened to shoot her husband, according to his statement, Ferguson asks the court to free him from all legal connection with his wife and to grant him the custody of their 16-year old daughter. The Fergusons were married in Salem June 28, 1915.

Louis Tanzer alleges in his complaint that his wife Dorothea Tanzer, has not been devoted to him and is even now receiving the attention of another man. Tanzer says he and his wife were married February 25, 1930, in Salem and now have two children, one 20 months old and one five months, the children not restraining the mother from leaving home at various times.

Ruth DeGruire asks for freedom from Edward DeGruire, claiming that he deserted her a year ago. They were married May 5, 1930, in Salem. She wants $25 a month alimony, $50 suit money and $100 attorney's fees as well as the return of her maiden name of Ruth Singlettery.

MANY OFFICIALS TO SEEK ADJUSTMENT

Records of the state board of control show that approximately 200 state officials and employees will seek adjustments of their salaries and wages under a new state officials' bill still pending reducing the compensation of these persons from 5 to 30 per cent.

The law authorized the state board of control to make adjustments on the basis of "special fitness, experience, ability and dependability" provided that the total payroll of any department does not exceed the salary budget.

The largest number of adjustments are sought in the state highway department.

Governor Julius L. Meier and Mayor Douglas McKay each issued statements here Tuesday urging the public acceptance of next Saturday, May 13, as "Carnation Day," both executives pointing out that proceeds from sale of flowers then go to the assistance of disabled soldiers and their families.

"We cannot compensate those who suffered disability in the service of the country," read the governor's statement, "but we can do our utmost to contribute to their comfort and prove that they have not been forgotten."

Said Mayor McKay: "Carnation Day is a worthy cause to which we should lend our aid, trusting that all citizens will join generously and cheerfully in the observance of this sale."

Acid Condition Is A Danger Sign

Acid condition means trouble ahead unless it is given immediate attention. It is often caused by mineral shortage—a lack of some of the essential cell-salts needed by your body.

Dozens of local people have ended acid conditions by drinking CAL-O-DINE, a natural mineral water which contains all of the cell-salts and minerals essential to life—in natural form, assimilated by the blood stream. Let us tell you about their results. Get a bottle, today. It is pleasant to drink and a half-gallon will last you a whole month.
