ON SALARY CHANGES

Investigation to Precede Certifying of State Payrolls, Says

Governor Julius L. Meier yes terday announced that he would not certify the payrolls of any state department under his juris-diction until he had investigated the salaries of all members of the staff where changes from the legislative scale were contem-plated and until he had conferred with the head of the department. The governor had arranged for a conference today with B. H. Baldock, state highway engineer. The 1933 legislative act provided for salary and wage reductions of virtually all state officials and employes ranging from 5 to 30 per cent, but gave the board of control authority to make certain adjustments. The law made it plain that these adjustments should be based on "special fitness, experience, ability and dependability."

Department payrolls in the hands of Governor Meier show that approximately 25 employes of the state highway commission who now receive salaries in excess of $200 a month have asked partial exemption from the full reduction provided in the law. Approximately 245 other employes of the highway department would receive cuts greater than those prescribed by the legislature in case the recommendation of Baldock is accepted. In most cases the latter employes are included in the lower safary brackets.

Rachel Harritt Services Today; Is Oregon-Born

Funeral services for Mrs. Ra-chel Harritt, who died early this week, will be held today from Rigdon's chapel at 1:30 p. m. with Rev. Guy L. Drill as the officiating minister. Interment will be in the Odd Fellows cemetery.

Mrs. Harritt was born November 12, 1852, at the farm home one mile north of Jefferson. She moved with her parents, Hiram A. and Elizabeth J. Johnson, to Salem in 1872 where she spent the remainder of her life. In 1876 she was married to John Earl, who died 14 years later. In 1890 she was again married, this time to John W. Harritt, who died two years ago.

Having mulled over the idea for a novel for four long years, Lester Cohen, author of "Sweep-ings," at the Elsinore today, final-ly quit his editorial job, gave his entire savings to his wife and retired into the seclusion of a cheap hotel room. There he remained cooped up almost constantly for two years until the story was completed. 'Sweepings' is a saga of fatherhood, telling a powerful story of a man who devotes his life to building a great business and wealth for his children, only to find them good material gone to waste—like the sweepings in his department store basement. Besides Lionel Barrymore, the east includes Alan Dinehart, Gloria Stuart, William Gargan, Eric Linden, Gregory Ratoff, Lucien Littlefield and Ninetta Sunderland. John Cromwell directed.

HOHENZOLLERN PRINCE PREFERS LOVE TO THRONE

PRINCE WILHELM. Behind the announcement that Prince Wilhelm of Prussia, eldest son of the German ex-Crown Prince and grandson of the former Kaiser, has renounced his right of succession in order that he may wed his commoner sweetheart, Fraluein Dorothea von Salviati, one can almost hear Cupid chuckle as he chalks up another victory over social barriers. The renunciation of his royal rights is not as empty a gesture as one would suppose on the part of the Prince, for it is well known that he was the member of the Hohensollern family who had been mentioned most favorably as the next ruler of Germany in the event of the restoration of the monarchy. He had the backing of Chancellor Adolf Hitler and his Nazi organization, of which Prince Wilhelm is a member. The Prince's engagement is said to have displeased his grandfather, the ex-Kaiser, mightily. Apparently the former monarch has forgotten that he himself followed a similar course when he married the Princess Hermione. Although, strictly speaking, the princess is not a commoner, she is regarded as such by German monarchists, who made it plain that they would not accept her as Empress if Wilhelm were restored to his "place in the sun." With Prince Wilhelm now out of the running, a restoration of the Hohenzollern dynasty to power in Germany would probably see one of his younger brothers, Prince Friedrich or Hubertus, on the throne. Fraulein Salviati, the Prince's fiances, is a descendant of a noble Italian family which settled in Prussia many generations age. But, as generations are minutes, according to royal atandards, the young woman is still regarded as a foreigner.

A moving picture, finished in Hollywood at 4 o'clock this morning in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studies, will interest millions of Americans and stir up considerable thought, It will interest especially the new President of the United States.

"Gabriel Over the White Heuse" is the title of the picture and story.

The story told in the picture is truly imaginary, but a million Americans will wish for it to Americans will wish average come true.

A new President has been inaugurated, as many have before, and enters the White House to keep promises made privately, after having made numerous promises publicly that are not supposed to be kept.

A professional politician, the new President feeds platitudes to Then comes an accident, the practical politician President is knocked on the head at exactly the right spot. When he recovers his attitude is changed. He becomes a President for the people of the United States instead of being a President for the boxses. His secretary thinks the Lord must have sent down the Angel Gabriel to work the change. He dismisses instantly one of his Cabinet, who suggests calling out the Army to suppress the unemployed. He has previously told reporters "unemployment and crime are local problems," but now discovers that those are problems of the United States Government. Formerly he told reporters "the President must not be quoted." Now he says "the President may be quoted, and I want him to be quoted."

He advises his Cabinet to read the Constitution of the United States, telling them: "You will find that the President has a great deal of power and I mean to use that power."
He does use it.
In fact, he becomes the PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES, not the President of any particular clique or group.

While the members of this cast differ considerably from the cast that opened the season, there are several who have appeared in seven of the nine productions staged by this group since last autumn.

"Harvest of Lies" is light in theme and agreeably refreshing in that it takes the mind away from 'depression" thoughts. Jack and Jerry set out to "settle" Jack's cousin's love affair and wind up in a police raid of a fortune-telling establishment. As a result of the fracas, Jack and Jerry are sentenced to 80 days in jail. But they dare not tell their wives about their plight so they lie . . . and lie . . , and lie.

BEVENS LOOMS UP IN PRACTICE TILT

WOODBURN, May 16. - That he Woodburn American Legion Junior baseball team has a wealth of potential strength was demonstrated Sunday when Pete De-Guire's local youngsters beat the Salem Juniors easily in a practice tilt, 14 to 8.

Bevens of Hubbard loomed up as Woodburn's best bet as a pitcher. He went three innings in the practice game, striking out eight of the nine men who tried to connect with his offerings. Various pitchers were used by both teams. Ryan and Tetter showed up well for Woodburn, Gatchell and Penney went most of the way for Sa-
