The early part of the afternoon session, held at the Woodman hall, was devoted to regular business of the convention. This included the report of the credentials committee and appointment of committees by the district guardian. At 4:30, the fuvenile ritual was exemplified and this was followed by a discussion of the ritual.

At 6:30, the first of two convention banquets was held at the Dallas Christian church. The banquet was followed by a program including a solo by Mrs. A. J. Cleveland, the harmonica trio, and two songs by the audience.

The evening session began at 8 o'clock with a solo by Joseph Hartley, followed by a tap dance by Melva Robinson. The district officers exemplified the circle ritual which was followed by a discussion of this ritual. A report the local circle and Mrs. Teason of the Woodcraft home council Second Convention
