Corn Drops Nickel as Crop Prospect is Now Auspicious

CHICAGO, May 20-(AP)-Wheat pitched downward today to 61/2 cents below its recent peak. A parallel fall in corn amounted to 5 cents. Many traders said both grains had worked into an overbought condition, and that auspicious crop prospects for spring wheat had piled straw on the camel's back. There were also indications that throughout the com-ing week the weather in the corn belt, which of late has bordered on a calamity, would be nearly ideal.

Hay buying prices-

BOSTON, May 20. - (AP) . Persistent buying during the past week established further advances in prices of domestic wools that have not yet arrived in Boston. some sales realizing 3-4 in the grease over the selling prices of the previous week. A general strengthening was noted in prices of other domestic wools, but advances were not as much as in the case of medium fleeces. Sales on most lines except medium fleeces were comprised largely of small lots of new clip wools that have recently arrived from southwestern states.

Calves, good $4-5, common and medium

24s according to quality.

Peas were around $1.50 sack. Rhubarb and spinach were still weak but sold practically at unchanged values.

PORTLAND, May 20.--(AP)-Premiums were again being offered and paid for top quality butter unwillingness of the produce exchange to show an advance for cubes during the week - end session. Interests which market but little butter on the Portland market and sell the bulk of their supplies in California, were unwilling to allow the local market to show a higher price than the south. even when justified.

the open market were made in some instances 4c lb, higher than highest quotations on the ex-Butterfat continued firm. Market for eggs was showing a steady to firm tone. The best call remains in the top grade stock which was continued chiefly for storages needs. There was
