

Bend-Elks Will Make Only Visit of Season Here Sunday

SENATORS FACE VETERAN SQUAD

Several of 1928 Champions In Lineup; Salem Nine Now Strengthened

The only visit of the strong Bend Elks baseball team to Salem this season is scheduled for Sunday when they meet the Senators in a State League game. Bend won from Schapp's in its opening game two weeks ago and dropped a close one to Wolfer's Federals last Sunday but outthit the ex-Babes.

Several of the men who played with the Bend Eagles when they won the Willamette Valley League championship after a playoff with the Senators in 1928, will appear in the Elks' lineup Sunday. They include Eubanks, veteran catcher who managed the team that year; Allen, an outfielder; Hepting, shortstop; and Murphy, a wild Irishman pitcher who was effective in spite of his wildness that season, and is a much more finished chucker now. He pitched last Sunday against the Federals and again Tuesday in a non-league game which the Federals won 5 to 4, and should be in fine form here Sunday.

Russell on third base, another Bend "home guard" who did not play there in 1928, McNeely, second baseman, of a famous baseball family, and McCall at first base complete the Elks' infield. Stinson and Lewis complete the outfield. Against Fouk and De-morest of the Federals Tuesday, all of the Elks hit excepting McNeely and Murphy.

The Senators will present a lineup much changed from that which started the season against the Federals. Manager Basher has not announced his selections and will not until game time, but newcomers who appeared for the first time against Albany last Sunday were Oravec and Pemberton in the outfield, Manning at first base, Gribble at third and Moyer, catcher.

That left only Seales, Keber, Gibson and Wilson of the original batting order. The Senators showed much improved hitting power, Manning and Gribble getting three hits each and most of the others getting a single or more. The changed lineup presents dangerous batsmen right down the order to the pitcher, who is not a weak stickler himself.

Manager Basher is arranging to have a going in the grandstand to signal the time for hitting and fielding practice to cease, so that the delay in starting the opening game will not be repeated. That delay, incidentally, was largely the fault of the visitors who did not arrive in time to start hitting practice when they should. In future, Basher says, such a situation will mean that the visitors' hitting time will be curtailed if necessary to start promptly at 2:30.

Linen Mill Wins 13-Inning Thriller From Pedagogues; Converters Romp, 30 to 0

Kitball fans were numerous at Thursday night's league games and they got the biggest money's worth in the history of the season to date, when Salem Linen Mills and the Teachers engaged in a 13-inning battle, the linen weavers finally breaking the deadlock to win 6 to 5.

The weavers were strong at bat but the pedagogues were superior in about the same degree. Each team scored in the first inning; the linen mill boys went ahead with two in the third but the educators got three in the fourth; one in the sixth and seventh each, but the linen workers ahead again but the Teachers tied it up in the ninth.

In the last half of the 13th Elliott of Salem Linen hit safely, got around to third with one out, and scored on Seguin's outfield grounder which was handled perfectly but not in time.

Features of the game included some spectacular shooting catches by Phil Salstrom of the Teachers' outfield.

Teachers 5 7 1
Salem Linen 6 16 4
Drynan and Ashby; Serdotz and Seguin.

The game at the other end of Sweetland field was as one-sided as that one was close. The Western Paper Converter team romped over the Elks to the tune of 30 to 0. L. Singer and Kitchen of the converters, holding the Bills to one bingle, which was credited to Townsend.

Goode of the converters, hit safely four times for a perfect day at bat, and Bone got four out of seven but reached the paths every time he went to bat. The Elks committed 10 errors.

Western Paper 30 21 1
Elks 0 1 10
L. Singer, Kitchen and H. Singer; Lemmon, Hesseman and Cross.

Tonight Western Paper and Pade's will play, a game which is expected to prove exceptionally close. Capital Journal and Teachers will clash in the other contest.

CURT COMMENTS

A "Bobby Jones" handicap tournament, similar to one held two years ago, will be staged as the best major event at the Salem Golf club. It will start Sunday, coincident with the introduction of the new Bobby Jones series of golf instruction pictures at the Elsinore. The theater management is cooperating in the staging of the tournament and will provide the championship trophy.

Title of the picture series is "How to Break Ninety," and the golfers who have that accomplishment yet to achieve, ought to have all the best of it in the tourney. That is, if they attend the theatre faithfully each week. Starting as high handicap players, they will all be shooting under 90, by following Bobby's advice, before the contest is finished.

The tournament is open to all golfers, whether members of the club or not, and will necessarily be confined to Salem golfers. The qualifying round starts Sunday and will be terminated the following Saturday night.

This series of pictures is entirely different from the first series Jones prepared, which was declared to be the most popular series of "shorts" ever shown in a Salem theatre. In this group of pictures Jones starts from the bottom, stressing fundamentals. However, there is even more comedy woven into this series than in the first. Slow motion and stop-photography is used extensively.

So "Red" Rupert is to be the new athletic coach at Albany college. Boasting football and baseball players will be nothing new to Red, and we expect to see some colorful teams. Red is also something of a philosopher, and should feel right at home in a collegiate atmosphere.

KAPLAN BESTS LARGE TEUTON

Meniscus Cartilage Blow Decisive; Newton Wins Over Chub Patchin

A blow delivered by Abe Kaplan upon the meniscus cartilage of "Dutch" Stahl put the German out of the running in the second round of the main event at the armory last night. The boys, heavyweights who had evidently done most of their training on certain yeast-containing beverages, to judge from the distended paunches, put on a rather sluggish match. They spent most of their time on the floor agonizing each other in close embraces.

Stahl took the first fall in 12:30 with a headlock. Early in the second round Referee Verne Harrington plunged into Kaplan's midriff and belabored him, warning the Jew against choking. The boys broke, and Stahl staggered around the ring, with Abe roughing him up continuously. Kaplan finally knocked the German down, gazed at him intently for a moment, and took the fall with a wind lock. Stahl was unable to return because of his injured meniscus. For the benefit of the uninitiated, the meniscus is a triangular cartilage which is located between the jaw and cheekbone.

In the opening match, Joe Gardiner bit, scratched, and cried his way to the winning fall in 12:45. He settled the affair by dropping Jess McCann on his head. He tried for a flying scissor, lost it, whirled McCann around, and dumped him, holding him with a body press.

Prof Newton decided the draw match of two weeks ago by taking the best two out of three falls from Chub Patchin. Patchin seemed to have Newton tied up several times, but he couldn't take the punishment administered by Newton with his bowline hold. Newton took the first fall in 12:50 with a hammer throw. In the second round Patchin took the fall with a flying leg punch in 4:10. Newton won the deciding fall with a Boston crab in eight minutes.
