Hop Lease Case Still in Court

Attorneys were having a hard time late Thursday agreeing on future trial dates for the case of Frank Morley against John Morley which has been on intermittently for days before Judge L. G. Lewelling here. The suit involves a hop lease assigned by the plaintiff to his uncle, Frank Morley claims the assignment was only for one year; defendant asserts it was for the life of the lease which has three years yet to run. One hundred acres of hop land near Silverton are involved and so great is the stake that four attorneys have been retained by each litigant. Defense counsel announced yesterday that it had 14 witnesses yet to present.

Peirce Company Blamed for Any C. P. S. Misdeed

The Albert E. Peirce company, not the Central Public Service corporation is legally liable for any misrepresentations, if such were made, in the sale of the latter's stock. Such is the C. P. S. answer filed Friday in circuit court here. Plaintiffs in the two pending cases are Gundmundur Thoreson and John W. Fishburn. The plaintiff contends all the C. P.
