Audits Duty Made—Regular audits of all school clerk's books have been made annually by the county school superintendent's office since the audit law was enacted, Mrs. Mary H. Fuikerson, county school superintendent said, in reply to a question published this week, in which such a procedure was recommended. She said that some times at the end of the year, warrants issued to a school district clerk had not gone through the routine for payment and been approved by the treasurer. This fact explains discrepancies between school clerk's books and those of the treasurer.

Found Insane—H. C. Reed, Salem man accused of contributing to the delinquency of a 9-year old child, has been adjudged insane and committed to the state hospital, it was stated yesterday by the sheriff's office. Reed was to come before the justice of the peace at 2 p. m. Friday but the commitment did away with the necessity for a further hearing.

Last Day to Register—June 21 is the final day to register for the July 21 special election, U. G. Boyer, county clerk, said yesterday. A considerable number of people are registering daily. Citizens who have not voted in the last two years, who have changed their residence, who have never registered before or women who have changed their names, are all required to register.

GOOSEBERRY PACK TO START MONDAY

Crop Reported Excellent in Hazel Green District; Talk Starch Plant

Gooseberries in the Hazel Green section are excellent this season, and it is held off the harvest will be one of the finest possible, according to Joseph Zelinski, second largest grower in the county. He has two and a half acres of these berries in bearing, from which he expects to harvest six tons this spring. First deliveries of gooseberries will be made to Salem canneries Monday, with both Reid Murdock and Hunt Brothers slated to put up a small pack. Gooseberry prices range all the way from two and a half cents to four cents this year, it is said. In the Kielinski patch, about 15 pickers will be employed, with the going wage the same as for the past few years, 50 cents a hundred. Good pickers make about $4 a day at this figure.

SILVERTON, June 2. — Bond holders of the Silvertown Food Products company will hold a meeting Tuesday, June 6, in the rooms over the Ames Hardware store for the purpose of completing negotiations with the Poto Products company of Portland, in the latter's proposal to open the cannery and start a starch factory here. Members of the Portland company were at Silvertown this week looking over the local plant again and discussing arrangements.

SLAIN MOTHER—MISSING SON

Above are Mrs. Bruce MacDonald, murdered widow of a Flint, Mich., banker, and her seventeen-year-old son, Balfe, who is being sought by police for questioning. The boy vanished the night his mother, a wealthy social leader, was clubbed to death in their valialta home.

GRADING ON NORTH SANTIAM STARTED
 Grading work on the Whitewater creek-Pamela creek section of the North Santiam highway has begun and rock crushing for rocking of the Detroit-Whitewater creek section will soon be begun, members of the county court reported yesterday.

The Guthrie-McDougal company will handle both jobs and will employ 150 men when the work is in full swing but all needed help has been secured and it will be useless for men to seek work, the court reported. A federal government camp at Hoover was visited by the court. Men are living in large army tents and the only wooden building is the commissary. The work is just being organized and the men there were at work yesterday completing the preparation of the camp.

SUMMER CATALOGUE OUT, STATE SCHOOLS
 PORTLAND, June 2 — Three summer catalogues of the Oregon State System of Higher Education are off the college and university presses this week. One bulletin describes the summer offerings of the Oregon State college at Corvallis, one is for the two university sessions at Portland and Eugene and one has been printed jointly for the summer terms and quarters of the three normal schools at Ashland, La Grande and Monmouth. The regular six weeks sessions at all places will begin on June 19 and will close on July 23. These will be followed by a five weeks session at each of the normal schools from July 31 to September 1 and a four weeks post session at Eugene, serving Eugene and Portland, from July the regular sessions at Corvallis, $1 to August 25.

OFFICIALS DUBIOUS OF SEWAGE PROJECT

While better sewage disposal for cities along the Willamette river is needed, Salem's representatives at the conference held Thursday in Salem expressed themselves as dubious about the feasibility of obtaining federal help for the project.

"When we got down to talk practical phases of the problem we met with no satisfactory answers," Douglas McKay, mayor, commented Friday. Such was the report also of Chris J. Kowitz and S. A. Hughes who attended the meeting. None of the three men said they felt that Salem citizens would vote upon themselves a service charge payable monthly for sewage plant disposal costs. The only alternative to such a charge would be a city-wide tax to pay for the sewage plant and city officials felt citizens here were unlikely to add to their present high cost of government, much of which is occasioned by fixed charges of bonded debt.

TREASURE HUNT FOR CHURCH IS PLANNED

"A treasure hunt for a church" that is the unique announcement of Rev. B. Earle Parker, pastor of the First Methodist church. The church conference year is closing, and in an effort to wind up the year with all obligations met, a special gathering will be held Sunday morning.

Members and friends are invited to ransack their home chests and bring in all the old gold and silver they have. A "pirate" treasure chest will be opened and the donations dropped into this chest at the Sunday service. The metal will then be shipped to refineries for turning over to the government or use in the arts and the proceeds returned to the church credit. "It is estimated in a city this size there is $150,000 of old gold and silver which is wholly unused," said Dr. Parker. "We will be content to get only a small portion of this amount."

CIRCLES ATLANTIC ON BUSINESS TRIP

Fred W. Leadbetter, president of the Oregon Pulp & Paper company here, in the last three weeks has been able to make business engagements in this country, in South America and in Europe, according to word received yesterday from his Portland office. He left Miami, Florida, three weeks ago by airplane for Rio de Janeiro, seven days being taken for the trip down the coast. After transacting business in South America, he took a zeppelin across the ocean to Germany and from there flew to England. After doing business in London, he took the Europa to New York City, making the return passage in four days. He is expected back in Portland within a fortnight.

ADS IN CLASSIFIED SECTION EFFECTIVE

Classified advertising has proved its merit in the sale of used automobiles; it could wisely be utilized by dealers in other articles where the buying public wants bargains and enjoys shopping for a specific article, Douglas McKay, proprietor of the Chevrolet sales firm here, told Salem Ad club members Friday noon. McKay, from extensive experience here and in Portland in the sale of used cars, said classified advertising had proved its worth.

WESLEY HEISE GETS JOB ON NEWSPAPER

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis, June 2. — (Special) — Wesley Heise of Salem, who will graduate in commerce at Oregon State college Monday, as a major student in advertising and selling, has been appointed on the advertising staff of the Oregon Journal. He starts work the day following his graduation. This appointment comes as a result of Mr. Heise's activities in advertising while in college. During his senior year he was president of Alpha Delta Sigma, the national professional fraternity in advertising. He also served as national advertising manager on the 1932 Beaver, the all-college year book; advertising manager and in charge of collections on the Oregon State monthly. He has been prominent in musical circles at the college, being a member of Kappa Kappa Psi, the band honorary. Some months ago he rated Ripley's "Believe It or Not" page in the national newspapers. While attending Salem high school, Heise was president of both the junior and senior classes. He was student chairman of the high school finance committee, and worked for four years in the credit department of the Salem Business Men's league.

STEAM PRODUCTION HERE DISCONTINUED

The Portland General Electric company has discontinued the manufacture and sale of steam from its South Liberty street plant here, W. M. Hamilton, manager, said yesterday. The plant will not be operated except in cases of emergency or when the load of the system here demands that electricity be generated here. Actually the steam plant has been only for heating purposes in the last three years. A number of plants in the city which have purchased steam from the power company have made other arrangements. Sale of steam has not been profitable, Mr. Hamilton said, due to the excess size of the boiler for the amount of steam sold, and due to the loss of steam in transmission.

Three men are affected by the closing of the steam plant, having been steadily employed there.
