PORTLAND, June 7-(AP)-Prices were off today on light weight hens in practically all places with broilers still included to show more than passing weakness as a result of the influx of very small stuff. Only a fair call was showing for spring ducks in the local trade. Young ducks were selling mostly around 14-15c but there was little call for old stock with few arriving. There was little change in local strawberry prices for home grown offerings during the day. Wholesalers offered gold dollars around $2.40-2.50 with Californian around $2. Sales to wholesalers were around $2.15 mostly for dollars.

Asparagus continued in acute shortage with more land flooded. There was scarcely sufficient celery available to base quotation. Country killed meats were

Churning Operations Reaching Peak; Eggs Weak

PORTLAND, June 7-(AP)-Increasing supply of butter was inclined to slow up a trifle the speculative demand for cubes in the local trade. In general there was practically no change in current values for the day insofar as the open market was concerned.

the season. Some local plants report the greatest churning of their history during the last couple of days. Demand for cubes has thus far been sufficient to hold the price intact although here and there are suggestions of slight easiness among timid helders The local market remains one of the best in the country and perhaps the best generally along the coast. Butterfat remains steady. Market for eggs continued to reflect weakness here. Only one distributor was quoting top prices even in a nominal way. Others were openly quoting 1c to 2c dozen below.

PORTLAND, June 7-(AP) -Labish was again the center of attraction in the lettuce market today on the East Side Frmers' Wholesale market. from that section carried on a single handed fight against Seattle competitors. They put the price to 50e crate for good stuff. much better heads than Seattle speculators, who were again trying to wreck the Portland market, were offering. Home grown lettuce and that from The Dalles was priced up to 80-90c crate but there was little business beyond

To Sam Carli of Clackamas, once again belongs the honor of being the first to offer strictly home grown peas and carrots for the season. Peas were in quite liberal abundance and especially from The Dalles. Sales nominally up to 3 1/2 c lb. with the bulk 3-3 1-4c lb. Beets were in much better supply, selling mostly around 35 to 40c dozen bunches with turnips

30 to 35c generally. Carrots were around 30 to 35c generally. Gooseberries were in fair supply around 3-3 1/2 c Ib.

80-Year-Old Woman Picks Wild Berries

WHEATLAND, June 7 - Picking the first wild strawberries for this season on their farm at Wheatland Monday was a novelty enjoyed by Mrs. Amelia Magness, past 80 years of age, in company with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Will Magness and daughters.

She gathered one-half gallon of the berries while the others were picking one gallon.
