Lemery Children Home From School Cause For Reunion

WACONDA, June 21. - Miss Frances Lemery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lemery, left recently for Yellowstone National park after a brief visit here with relatives and friends.

She has taught in the high school at Opheim, Mont., the past three years and this summer, as last, she will be employed in a curlo shop at the national park. Fred Lemery, her brother, a student at O. S. C. is spending the summer months in the mountains, as a forest ranger. George Lemery, another brother, is spending his vacation here with his parents. He is studying for the medical profession at U. of O.

A family reunion was enjoyed while Miss Lemery was here at the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Lemery in Portland.

Roy Campbell has moved his stock of general merchandise into his newly built store at Wacon-

Spring Wheat Crop to Be low, new Heat Wave Noted

CHICAGO, June 21 .- (AP) --Almost the entire list of grains jumped late today to high price records of the season.

Indications pointed to a return of hot weather in the northwest, where recent scorching temperatures and drought were unofficially estimated to have cut United States wheat crop prospects fifty to seventy million bushels. Much notice, too, was taken of a statement by Secretary Wallace of the department of agriculture, that losses of winter wheat, together with damage to spring wheat, meant probably the smallest total domestic wheat crop in a generation. . Friends of higher prices for wheat gave particular emphasis to suggestions voiced by Secretary Wallace that the United States, while holding the domestic price of wheat about $1, might resort to dumping this country's wheat surplus on the world market, if Australia, Argentina and Canada did not see the light at London. June 1 predictions of the pear crop indicate an exceptionally high yield in all three Pacific coast states, but a small yield in the eastern pear sections. It is probable the far west will produce about 80 per cent of the crop

Peppermint Crop Will be Low but Good Price Seen

Peppermint fields in this section hold promise of only about a 50 per cent crop this year, it is now estimated. The crop was severely frozen last winter.

While growers are not optimistic over the yield, the low production may have a silver lining in an increased price. The market is stronger, though movement is nominal. Prices now range from $1.80 to $2 per pound, as compared to $1.50 last season. Nearly 1000 acres of pepper-
