DICNICS are in favor even though the days still resemble spring's uncertain weather. But society, like the weather is in wide variety and the fun of summer is finding itself mixed with weddings of June and cards and teas of early spring.

Today two large picnics are scheduled, one the Salem Women's Press club which with families of the club members will motor to Nelscott for the annual picnic enjoyed by this newspaper group of the city, and the second the "Old East School" reunion to be held at the home of Mrs. W. Al Jones at Jonesmere farm.

The latter picnic will be enjoyed at 12 o'clock under the Marker Placed trees in the background of the Jones home where an openair fireplace and flowers and spreading trees will make a By D. A. R. Group perfect setting for informal visiting and "reunion" of old
