Games Today
Federals at Salem, Olinger field, 2:30 p. m.
Schapps at Eugene.
Bend at Albany.

Backed up by the best wishes of four rival teams, the Salem Senators this afternoon at 2:30 on Olinger field will attempt to halt the winning streak of Wolfer's Federals who are setting too far ahead in the State league to suit the other clubs in the circuit.

Inability to hit the offerings of Ed Demorest cost the Senators their first game with the Federals, for on that occasion "Squeak" Wilson turned in an acceptable job of pitching but his mates were shut out with five hits. Since then the Salem team has been greatly strengthened in the hitting department. Only three of the men who played that opener will start today's game for Salem.

On the other hand the Federals have exactly the same team that played here in the opener, except that Heimbacher will probably play one of the outfield positions, and some pitcher other than Demorest may start.

Brooks Picks Foulk To Tame Senators
Ray Brooks, manager of the Federals, has announced that Foulk, youngster who won the Carl Mays trophy as the most valuable pitcher in the Portland high school league, will take the mound, but the Solons are rather looking for Treadway Charles to step out when the game starts. Other possibilities are Jack Todd, Lefty Leven and Demorest.

Richards will do the catching and the infield will be composed of Courtney, Koch, Leach and Johnson, reading around from first base. Eatch and Jack Wilson will probably be two of the outfielders. "Liz" Wolfer, sponsor of the team, will be here and may play a few innings.

Manager Frank "Burr" Bashor of the Senators has indicated that Wilson, who has been working strenuously this week, will probably be his choice to start today's game, with Al Johnson held in reserve.
Chester has been moved to first base in the last week, and the rest of the infield will probably be Keber, Parrish and Gribble. Scales, Oravec and Manning may cavort in the gardens, with Moyer behind the bat.

Following are the Senators' present batting average:
AB.	H.	Pct.
Chester	4	.500
Keber	16	.375
Manning	17	.353
Gribble	14	.333
Colgan	3	.333
Parrish	3	.333
Scales	21	.286

Gibson	18	.166
Oravec	19	.158
Wilson	15	.2

Scott at 55 Oldest Golf Champ Ever

HOYLAKE, England, June 24.—(AP)—The honorable Michael Scott, at 55 the oldest player ever to win the British amateur golf championship, maintained his championship uncertainty of this sporting classic by decisively beating Thomas A. Bourne, a 30 year old country man, today, 4 and 3, in the 36 hole final match.
Scott was a champion of Australia when Bourne was a babe in arms. He never had advanced beyond the semi-finals before and that happened a dozen years ago. The experts figured he should have been beaten by any of the youngsters he trounced this week, certainly by George T. Dunkan, Jr., of New York, the brilliant American youth, who fell before the veteran in yesterday's semi-finals.
But Scott refused to be beaten, even though he surprised himself, his friends and his opponents. Quiet and dignified, in fact introducing something of the austere atmosphere of the house of lords to the Royal Liverpool links, Scott played carefully and slowly all week. His correct and quite fearless style was rewarded by a triumph such as no man his age ever achieved before. Away back in 1902, Charles Hutchings, at 53, won the amateur crown.

CUPID ON MOUND — GEHRIG FANS

Fast balls, slow balls, balls with inside curves and balls with outside curves might be right up Larrupin Lou Gehrig's alley. But when the star first baseman of the champion New York Yankees was made the target of an arrow by Dan Cupid—well, that was another matter, for a baseball bat is poor protection against such a missile. So Lou was called out on strikes and is here shown with the reason—beautiful Eleanor Twitchell, of Chicago. They will be married at the Windy City at the end of the current season.

Stars Halt Angels
LOS ANGELES, June 24.—(AP)—Hollywood staved off a threatening eighth inning rally and defeated Los Angeles today 4 to 2.

Fay Thomas held them to five hits in the six and two thirds innings he worked. "Buzz" Wetzel pitched two hit ball for Hollywood until the eighth when he argued with an umpire on the fourth ball to Stats, allowed Reese to single and then hit "Tut" Strain at bat.

CURT COMMENTS

When C. K. Logan of the Capital Journal went out to the scene of the Amnsville bank robbery Saturday, the victim, Mrs. Pierce, was on the point of identifying him as the bandit. At least, that's his story, slightly doubtful because the police are looking for a "handsome" lawbreaker. But maybe Carl convinced them they should look for a good looking.

Wes Schulerich, known in these parts chiefly as a footballist, but a big league baseball player for the last couple of seasons, was traded by the Braves to the Phillies about a week ago. The tall-end Phillies are still in the cellar, because they were in so deeply when Wes joined them; but they won seven games in a row and the Oregon boy's big bat helped a lot in that record. He has been collecting a couple or three bingles every day, and one of them usually is for extra bases.

This week's sport program is topsy-turvy, which has been the case ever since school sports ended. Today the Senators will endeavor to bump over the Federals, on Olinger field at 2:30; the Salem Elks have a similarly ambitious project on foot today. Out at the Salem Golf course a mixed two-ball foursome will keep the boys and girls busy, along with completion of the second round of the Bobby Jones tournament. The club team will be playing at Silverton. And any time in the afternoon or evening, you may drop into the clubhouse and find out what Bobby has to say about the down swing, the real business part of the golf swing.

If it were not for the new kitball league opening Tuesday night, under the floodlights if present plans are carried through, and the Senators' midweek game, probably Wednesday but not yet definitely scheduled, the rest of the week would be decidedly dull. There's not even a wrestling show, for, with the Reed-Jones Fourth of July bout definitely booked, promoters despaired of scheduling a prize fight that would attract the fans away from rapt contemplation of that anticipated classic.

The kitball schedule will be made up Monday night, so we can't let you in on that in advance. The proposal is to start games at 8:30 p. m., and to charge a dime to defray the cost of the lights and umpires. Admission was free in the spring season. There may be some variation from the time charge after the league gets an idea of what it may expect in the way of patronage.

Indicating that times are improving, there was a bigger matinee crowd at the circus yesterday than when the big top was set up here a year ago; but we noticed scarcely an adult there unless accompanied by one or more children. We all had to have an excuse; Lee Steiner found a young relative somewhere, but on comparing notes, it turned out we had more excuses than he had.

Hiltbrand Does Well at Traps; Wain Breaks 92

DEL MONTE, Calif., June 24.—(AP)—C. F. Vining, Sacramento, won first honors in the Pacific International trapshoot here today as he broke 97 out of 100 targets.
W. J. Silva, Modesto, broke 94 X 100 to win the preliminary handicap. Frank Troeh, Portland, Ore., shattered 25 straight to win a shoot-off for runner-up after tying C. G. Hiltbrand, Independence, Ore., and H. H. Ford Jr., Redlands, 92.

Other scores included: 100-bird sliding handicap: A. C. McCard, Eugene, Ore., 57. C. G. Hiltbrand, Independence, Ore., 95. Kehne Wain, Salem, Ore., 92.

Gob and Circus Freak Will Settle Old Score and Also World Heavyweight Honors

By EDWARD J. NEIL
NEW YORK, June 24.—(AP)—The most bizarre rivalry in all the fight business—the enmity of a white-eyed sailor and a circus freak—comes to its natural conclusion, the battle pit of the Madison Square Garden bowl on Long Island, Thursday night.
It may be the last stand of the sailor, Jack Sharkey, heavyweight champion of the world, or it may be the end of the myth of the giant Primo Carnera.
Around the 265 pounds of Carnera's bulk, discovered in a circus side show in France where he was bending iron bars across his chest has grown a legend of invincibility that increased last winter when Ernie Schaaf, a stablemate of Sharkey, died here after Primo knocked him out in 13 rounds.
Around the tragedy weaves one of the most spectacular of all the strange angles to a strange fight. The night Schaaf went down under a light left jab, the surface of his brain inflamed by an attack of influenza before he had entered the ring, Sharkey helped carry him to the corner, lugged him in his arms to the dressing room.
And it was Sharkey who met the pale faced Carnera, coming fearfully into the room to see if there wasn't something he could do, met him with a snarl and an oath that sent the huge Italian stumbling away like a great collied dog that had been whipped by its master.
"When the time comes," choked Sharkey that night, blind with rage, "I'll take care of that guy for Ernie."

With his ring career ending by his own hand this September, with every bit of his training aimed toward a knockout victory, Sharkey may have found in the revenge of Schaaf the stimulus he needs to wage a perfect battle. He weighs about 205 pounds, while Carnera, who has dropped as low as 260, may have worked too long and too hard for this struggle.
The better have cut the odds against Carnera to six to five.

FIRE RELIEF GROUP REARRANGES AFFAIRS

The Farmers' Fire Relief association of Butteville is reported to have reestablished its affairs on a sound basis, following the speculations of a trusted employe. The association's latest report shows a reserve fund of more than $20,000 of which $10,635 is cash.
Of a special assessment of $75,000 levied after the officer's theft became known, all but $25,871 has been paid, putting the company in good position.
Directors of the company who are men residing in the Willamette valley are checking fire losses and inspecting fire risks with the result that the company's output on losses has been reduced 50 per cent. Only 75 per cent of the cash value of the property burned is now paid in case of loss.

Applications Up, Work Scarce at Y. M. Job Office

While applications increased 50 per cent, jobs available through the U. S.-Y. M. C. A. employment bureau last week remained unchanged from the previous week, according to D. D. Dotson, assistant manager. New applications for work last week totalled 29, as against 16 the week before.
No women were placed last week but 33 men were sent to work, 15 on state highway jobs, eight at cutting wood, seven to farms and four to common labor.

Acquainted With Statesman Since '54, Says Himes

"My acquaintance with The Statesman began in 1854, as an exchange with the Pioneer and Democrat, Olympia, Washington territory," comments George H. Himes, secretary of the Oregon Pioneer association, in subscribing to the paper for the current year.
"My father, a Henry Clay Whig, the first shoemaker north of the Columbia river, in October of 1854, went to the printing office in Olympia and subscribed for the paper, a hot democratic publication. Every Saturday night thereafter he would go to the Pioneer and Democrat office and get a bundle of exchanges and take them out home, a distance of five miles. That is how I became acquainted with the first Oregon Statesman, A. Bush, editor and proprietor."
