Miss Murton and Frederick Gerke Wedded

A brilliant wedding in Portland Friday night was the marriage of Miss Ethelwynne Murton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Murton, and Frederick W. Gerke, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Gerke, at 8:30 o'clock in the First Presbyterian church with Rev. Harold Leonard Bowman officiating.

The church was beautiful in its simplicity of decoration. Two large baskets of immense white peonies guarded the altar and stretching on either side was a graceful arrangement of trailing vine maple.

The wedding party took its place to the strains of wedding marches played by Carl Denton. The bride wore an empire effect gown of ivory satin. A court train and a veil of rare old hand made lace worn by her grandmother 70 years before her in Oxford, England, added much to the beautiful dignity of the gown. A shower bouquet of gardenias, white sweet peas and bride's roses were carried by the bride and a wreath of orange blossoms circled her veil.

Miss Lucille Murton, sister of the bride, and her maid of honor, wore a tiptoe length gown of powder blue crepe with matching slippers and mitts. Her bouquet was of Ophelia roses and pink sweet peas tied with pink ribbons.

The bridesmaids, Miss Thora Boesen and Miss Mary Helen Glasgow each wore bouffant frocks of mousseline De Soie with white tulle skirts and matching slippers. Miss Boesen wore salmon pink and her flowers were blue delphinium and Tullismania roses. Miss Glasgow wore yellow and her flowers were delphinium and yellow roses. A wreath of flat velvet leaves matching the color of their dresses were worn by the maid of honor and the bridesmaids.

Little Miss Marian Gerke wore a white frock of crepe de chine and a wreath of tiny pink rose buds circled her hair. She carried a gay basket of flowers.

Mr. Gerke was attended by William Hammond as best man. Ushers were Richard Collins, Elmer Colwell, Ward Davis, Walter Gerke, Jack Leiter and Frank Lynch.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the Murton home on Overton street, with Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Murton, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Gerke and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Gerke receiving.

Garden flowers made a gay background for the many guests who called. An all white bouquet for the serving table made an impressive and very lovely effect. Here Mrs. Walter Gerke, Mrs. Clarence C. Murton, Jr., Mrs. F. E. Cooper and Mrs. Allen Hemphill alternated in presiding.

Assisting about the rooms were Miss Winifred Graham, Mrs. Walter Fuhrer, Miss Homea Burkhardt, Miss Hazel Ruddell, Miss Monetta Bates and Mrs. Frederick Fritsche.

Following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Gerke left for a short trip north. They will be at home in Seattle during the remainder of the summer and will return to Salem this fall to make their home.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Gerke are well known in Salem where they have a large circle of friends who will welcome them to their new home this fall.

Brilliant Garden Party High Spot of Smart Early Summer Events

COLOR, a riot of it, sparkling gayness, and leisurely chatting marked the garden tea at the home of Mrs. Clifford Brown on Mission street, with Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Chester Cox and Mrs. Donald A. Young as hostesses Friday afternoon complimenting Mrs. Chandler Brown, nee Eleanor Plamondon, a recent bride recently come to make her home in Salem.

The sun came out in warm welcome to the guests and added the one touch needed for a perfect setting for all the lovely beauty of a brilliant garden over whose winding paths maids and matrons of Salem, Portland, Eugene and other nearby towns were waiting to stroll along in sheer organdies, gay silks and lace and flopping, frilly hats.

Smart garden furniture placed added color among the green plants and brightly colored flowers. Two tea tables arranged with a canopy of leaves made unforgettable artistic effects. One was in white with tiny bows of coral ribbon and spritely French bouquets to give a bit of color. The center piece was an old silver boat, heirloom in the Boise family, and this filled with a riot of garden flowers.

The other table was in turquoise — two turquoise colored vases held white canterberry bells and along sides and edges of the table were festoons of smilax.

Alternating at the tables during the afternoon were Mrs. William Brown, Mrs. R. P. Boise, Mrs. Frank Snedcor, Mrs. John McNary, Mrs. David Eyre, Mrs. W. Connell Dyer, Mrs. Paul Wallace and Mrs. T. A. Livesley.

Guests invited to the number of 250, were received by Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Cox, Mrs. Young and the honor guest Mrs. Chandler Brown at the entrance to the garden near the house. A group of prominent maids and matrons assisted in serving.

Among the many out-of-town guests were Mrs. P. N. Plamondon of Seattle, mother of Mrs. Chandler Brown, also two other distinguished guests were Monsieur and Madame Hubert-Robert. Many men called during the later

Group Meets At Reigelman Home

An interesting discussion of stage technique was held Thursday evening at the home of Peter Reigelman by the summer study group of Chemeketa Players. The discussion was led by "Pat" Peterson, associate director, and proved to be a roundtable of dramatic experience.

Next week's session will be led by Nellie Rowland Greene, Chemeketa player, at the home of Gladys Hughey on the Portland road.

Present at the session Thursday evening were Margaret Mary Zerzan, Gladys Hughey, Nellie Rowland Greene, Henry L. Rohrig, Clara Belle Burnside, Alfred Hoffmann, Gladys Burgess, Sue Ditto, Keith Middleton, Vernon Prabh, Lucille English, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Peterson, Lella May.

Students Entertain Mothers and Friends

A group of students of Bertha Ingham Darby entertained at her home Thursday afternoon in compliment to their mothers and friends.

Solo numbers and rhythmic orchestra numbers given by the four youthful students were supplemented by numbers presented by Alice Barkus and Eleanor Wagner, older students of Mrs. Darby.

Younger students acting as hostesses included Lois and Norma Fischer, Louise Close and Elbert McKinley.

Among the most attractive meetings of the year for the Presbyterian Ladies aid society was that for which Mrs. Ella St. Pierre was hostess Wednesday afternoon at her beautiful rural home. A program had been arranged and included a talk on the 13th amendment by Rev. Hugh McCallum and special music by William McGilchrist, Sr. Mrs. St. Pierre was assisted as hostesses by a committee of Mrs. Mary Park, Mrs. Charles Lytle, Mrs. W. N. Savage, Mrs. Jennie Pooler, Mrs. J. C. Duncan, Mrs. J. Skalle, Mrs. C. E. Moody, Mrs. P. R. DuRette, Mrs. J. M. Judson, Mrs. Dan Smith and Mrs. D. H. Mckenzie.

Back To The Sun!

Let Jantzen Show You the Way. . . .

Shelia Terry, Warner's Feature Player, Wears A Jantzen Maillot Swim Suit

Why do movie stars like Jantzen swim suits? First of all they like that snug, skin tight effect of Jantzen suits which promotes ease in swimming. Then too, mould-fit is another feature that appeals because mould-fit suits add to the natural beauty in a most subtle manner. "Back to the sun" is a pioneer fashion with Jantzen. Their Sunaire is the final word in style simplicity in a brassiere type suit. It fits perfectly . . . allowing the maximum freedom and comfort. The maillot or commonly called the Formal is cleverly adjustable so that the individual fit is positively assured. The shoulder straps run through two rings at the back, continuing around to tie as a belt in front. This makes possible three smart back designs: square back, cross strap and the neckline type which allows complete back exposure for an even tan. Many other types of suits such as the distinctive brassiere suit, the Bra-Lift, the standard, etc. Prices range from $3.95 for standard, to novel styles up to . . . $7.50
