Police Continue Drive Upon Old License Plates

State police Tuesday were assigned to mountain and beach resorts where they continued their drive against automobile owners who have not yet obtained their current license plates or have not made application for them to the secretary of state.

Reports received at state police headquarters Tuesday night indicated that a several hundred provisional arrests were made during the day.

Police said that warrants would be issued today for a large number of automobile owners who previously received provisional arrest tickets and have failed to secure their plates.

The roundup of delinquent automobile owners particularly was effective in western Oregon, state police officials said.

Article by Neil Brown Published By Boston Firm

Under the title, "Lessons of a Century Ago," an article written by Neil Brown, Willamette university graduate, '28, appears in the June issue of "Education," magazine published by the Beacon Press of Boston. Mass. Brown obtained his material from a Noah Webster wooden-back speller published in 1827, now in the possession of Rebecca L. Wilkerson, Salem pioneer, who used it as did her mother before her. Mrs. Wilkerson resides with her daughter, Mrs. Harrison Porter, 590 North Summer street.

"There are two grades (in the old-time log cabin schoolhouse), those who can read and those who cannot," Brown writes. He goes on to describe the public school on the 19th century frontiers.

COLLAPSE SUFFERED BY WIFE OF FACTOR

CHICAGO, July 4.—(AP)—Rella Cohen Factor, wife of the missing John Factor, collapsed today.

Her breakdown on the fourth day since Factor, stock market plunger, disappeared did much to convince authorities Factor's disappearance was a genuine abduction.

For the last two days rumors, hitherto given some credence in police circles, had been prevalent that possibly the "abduction" was staged. Factor is fighting extradition to England on charges of fleeing investors in market operations.

Mrs. Factor, second wife of the one-time barber, was confined to her bed in the Pearson hotel and attended by a physician and nurse.

At the Morrison hotel where Factor maintains a residence, Jerome, 19 year old son of Factor, who himself was a victim of kidnapers several years ago, attorneys and friends of the family maintained a policy of watchful waiting.

Jerome said two telephone calls had been received, either or both possibly not from the kidnapers. One call told the youth to have $75,000 ready as ransom. The other call reportedly informed him to raise $200,000.

ENEMY SNAKES FAIL IN EXPECTED FIGHT

SPRINGVILLE, Tulare County, Calif., July 4.—(AP)—Forty assorted rattlesnakes and king snakes, deadly enemies, were dumped into an arena this afternoon, expected to stage a widely heralded battle royal to climax this city's Independence day celebration.

Nothing happened. The snakes looked at each other and yawned. It was just too hot. The battle royal between 20 king snakes and 20 rattlesnakes, the battle that caused the Los Angeles county humane society to file a futile protest, was just a flop.

It was the first time in the history of Springville, or even of Tulare county, that a king snake refused to take on a rattlesnake, but old timers said this was the hottest day in years.

Construction of Larmer Addition Under Way Today

Construction of two additional stories to the Larmer warehouse, North Liberty street, will get fully under way this morning with a crew of around 15 men going to work under the direction of William Rector, D. A. Larmer, proprietor, announced Tuesday. The job will cost an estimated $15,000.

The two new stories will top the first floor section rebuilt following the fire which razed the warehouse in December 1930. Larmer expects the construction to be completed within six weeks, making it available for storage of 1933 hops.

Body Identified As Man Missing Since April 21

PORTLAND, July 4.—(AP)—A body which harbor police said was identified as that of Frank L. Schellhouse, 64, missing since April 21 from the Portland home of his sister, Mrs. Etta B. Schoop, was recovered from the Willamette river here Monday.

Mrs. Schoop said Schellhouse had a "considerable" sum of money on his person at the time of his disappearance, and it was feared, police said, that he might have been the victim of foul play. The coroner's office reported, however, that no marks indicating violence had been found on his body.

Schellhouse was a retired navy bandmaster.

DEATH THREAT IS FOILED BY POLICE

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 4.—(AP)—Falling into a trap set by police and state troopers in an effort to catch the person who had sent letters demanding $50,000 under threat of death to Norman P. Clement, Gustave Michan, 23, of Lackawanna, N. Y., was arrested near the Buffalo city line early today. Clement is a prominent Buffalo capitalist and charity worker.

The capture came after police, in Clement's big sedan, tossed a packet into the bushes at a spot directed in the letter. Troopers, lying in hiding near the rendezvous, reported that shortly after the dummy package had been tossed from the car Michan crawled cautiously to the spot. As soon as he opened the bundle the troopers closed in.

According to police, the prisoner confessed he had sent the notes, but declared he had no intention of harming Clement if his threats were ignored.

CELEBRATION CROWD SEES AVIATORS DIE

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho, July 4.—(AP)—Ben F. Wing and Frank Warner, both of Idaho Falls, were killed in an airplane accident here this afternoon during a Fourth of July celebration.

Witnesses said the craft went into a nose dive from an altitude of 200 feet. The said they saw it approach the field flying low and apparently in trouble, with the motor cut out. One man was standing on top of the plane, evidently attempting to make some adjustment.

The craft was the property of Rudolph Nelson, farmer of Shelley, Idaho. It had been used to carry passengers during the celebration. Thousands saw the plane land on a vacant lot. Wing, an experienced pilot and owner and operator of a plane, died in a hospital shortly after the crash. Warner, an overseas veteran, was killed instantly.

Later he was brought to the emergency hospital here, where he was given an anti-venom injection. He will suffer no ill effects, emergency hospital attaches said, except the pain from the operation.

Reach for a Lucky

—for always Luckies Please!

My reason for liking Luckies is strictly personal

After all—since I smoke quite a number of cigarettes each day—don't you think it's just as well that I lean in the right direction? Perhaps you'd call my reason for liking "Toasting" the assurance of purity it gives me—for Luckies come in rather close personal contact with me, you know. Just knowing that each puff of Lucky smoke I draw in is pure—it makes the pleasure of fragrant toasted tobacco that much greater. Certainly, purity never hurt anyone! And besides—"Luckies Please!"
