INTANGIBLE INCOME TAX IS HELD VALID

Ruth C. McPherson Loses in Suit; Multnomah Judge Tucker Affirmed

Constitutionality of the 1931 intangible income tax law was upheld by the Oregon supreme court in an opinion handed down Wednesday in the suit brought by Ruth C. McPherson against the state tax commission.

The opinion was written by Justice Campbell and affirmed by Judge Tucker of the Multnomah county circuit court.

The plaintiff challenged the right of the legislature to impose a tax on her intangible income without exemption "simply because she has a thrifty husband who has an income of more than $2500 a year, and grant an unmarried woman with the same income from the same source an exemption." She declared that such action on the part of the tax commission was a violation of the constitution, which provides that "all taxation shall be uniform on the same class of subjects within the territorial limits of the authority levying the tax."

"We must appreciate the fact that it is very difficult, if not impossible, to construct a revenue raising law, by which it can be demonstrated to a mathematical certainty that the tax burden is laid evenly on each taxpayer according to his ability to pay or benefits received," Justice Campbell's opinion read. "Nor can such an act be so framed as to make the duty of contributing to the cost of government a pleasure to all taxpayers. The average citizen can usually contemplate with undisturbed serenity the law that imposes a tax on the other fellow."

Bank Deposits Released — An order was issued by the state banking board Wednesday releasing an additional 5 per cent of the savings deposits of the Albany State bank. Registration Drops — Registration of voters for the special election July 21 probably will show a reduction of approximately 10 per cent, when compared with that for the general election in November, 1932, it was announced at the state department yesterday. Here's the start-off of the great method—get aboard!

First do some bending. Stand with the toes turned in just a little—slightly pigeon toed and try to touch the floor. Bring the hands down between the legs. Bend to the left then to the right. Feel the strain on the muscles. Do a little twisting. Keep shoulders and hips as straight as possible. Twist at waist. With the right foot describe an arc or circle toeing from front to back. Repeat with left leg. Now it's time for a shower, then breakfast. Feel limber?

Breakfast: Orange or half a grapefruit. Slice of whole wheat bread, half small pat of butter, or small portion of whole wheat cereal with a little thin milk. Coffee, no milk or sugar.

Luncheon: Poached egg on one tablespoon spinach. Sliced beets. Baked apple.

Dinner: Lamb chop, lean, small. Steamed carrots and green peas. Slice tomato, small, no dressing. Sliced fresh pineapple. Black coffee.

At ten p. m. have half a grapefruit. Drink six glasses of water during the day. Glass of hot water with lemon juice on rising, and before the exercises.

$121,951 Is Real Property; Widow Receives Half; 2 Children Quarters

Personal property appraised at $121,951 will be turned over to the three heirs of the late Thomas B.
