

SCOUTS HONOR GUESTS, CAMP

Dance Numbers by Barbara Barnes one Feature for Girl Reserves

CAMP SANTALY, July 22.—Camp Santaly, the Y. W. C. A. camp for girls on the Santiam river was the scene of a very interesting and entertaining program, given for the Boy Scouts from Camp Santiam. The main feature of the evening was a pageant presented by the Girl Reserves. The theme of the pageant was "Happiness," with the ideas of gladness, joy, gaiety, sunshine, cheerfulness, and peppiness being carried on in the speaking parts and the dances.

The guest artist at camp for the entire day was Miss Barbara Barnes, of Salem, who trained the girls and presented them in their dances. Sybil Spears and Frances Alice Kells were the readers and they read several selections, the main one being "Four Hours of Happiness" by B. Williams. The different happy groups were represented by Bernice Boyce, Beulah Pedersen, Barbara Miller, Gertrude Mildred Brooks, Jean Boyce and Doris Gutekunst.

A lovely scarf dance was presented by the girls dressed in snowy white dresses and carrying various colored scarves. Taking part were Harriett Crawford, Patty Jean Manning, Virginia Steed, Sybil Spears, Leone Spaulding, Carol Cook, Dorothy Welch, Norma Jean Gilbertson, Betty Lee Mercer, Frances Dickson, Frances Alice Kells.

Different countries were represented by girls giving dances typical of that country; Beulah Pedersen and Margaret Sorahan as Dutch girls; Virginia Brown and June Lind as Spanish girls; Patty Manning and Jean Boyce as Scotch lassies; Barbara Miller and Gertrude Brooks as English girls; Bernice Boyce and Doris Gutekunst as little Chinese girls.

Two special dances were given by Barbara Miller and Sybil Spears, pupils of Miss Barbara Barnes. Betty Amundson was stage manager; Marjorie Smith assisted with the make-up; and Nancy Price was costume-helper. After the pageant, the Boy Scouts entertained the girls with songs and several stunts, including two dramas entitled "Lilly of the Alley," "The Light-House Tragedy," and a Pop-eye boxing match.

The evening was concluded around the camp-fire with the boys and girls singing their individual goodnight fellowship songs and with taps, blown by Elleen Moore. The Boy Scout quartet sang. There were 33 boys present with their leaders, Don Douris and Ralph Purvine. Guests of the boys who were also at the girls' camp were Mr. and Mrs. Batdorf, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. McWain, Mrs. E. Duncan, and Kirk Bell, all of Salem. Special guests of the girls themselves were Mr. and Mrs. Marion Taylor, of Taylor's Grove, who, with Mr. Albert presented the band to the Y. W. C. A. for Camp Santaly.

SILVER FALLS PARK WILL BE DEDICATED

Guests will take their own lunches, but coffee will be served free. Salem women will be present to assist.
There are two roads to the falls. One road goes through Silverton following up the left bank of Silver creek and reaches north falls first. The other road runs through Waldo hills. Take the Turner road past the penitentiary, turn south at Four Corners, and then the first paved road to the left. It leads to south falls. Both roads are signed all the way. The loop trip may be made.

MOLLINSONS FLYING ACROSS ATLANTIC

Ions of gasoline, which Captain Mollinson believed would provide an 800-mile margin. They expected to reach New York tomorrow night and they planned to rest only a short time before continuing the 23,000-mile adventure.
The weather as they took off was in sharp contrast to the turbulence that caused them to crash their plane on the first attempt June 8. Instead of angry seas and howling winds there was brilliant sun and blue, passive water.

Presbyterians to Observe 5th Year In New Building

The fifth anniversary of the dedication of Salem's new Presbyterian church will be observed at the church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock by a special program, at which Professor Churchill will direct the music and Dr. Grover C. Birchet, pastor, will preach an appropriate sermon.
With a membership of almost 1900 and over 70 officers and teachers engaged in bible school, the Salem church is steadily coming to the front as one of the chief strongholds of Presbyterianism in western Oregon.

The anniversary committee includes Mrs. Roy A. Klein, Mrs. S. H. Boorman, Mrs. Elizabeth Marcus, J. P. Bates and J. J. Fitzsimons.

REVIVAL OF HORSE RACING HERE SEEN

Building of Mile Track by Labor day Here Asked; Many Horses Entered

The only mile race track in Oregon may be located on the state fairgrounds here, ready for use on Labor day, the first day of the state fair, if a proposal of the Oregon state racing commission is followed.
The request for a mile track instead of the half-mile oval was made at a meeting of the racing commission in Portland, Thursday, according to Max Gehlhar, state fair director, who attended the meeting.

Gehlhar said he was considering the recommendation of the commission but several obstacles to the plan presented themselves. Engineering difficulties and the cost were problems, he said. The present track and new grandstand on the fairgrounds occupies the old mile track.

"It is the belief of the racing commission," the fair director said, "that the state could well afford to spend a little money on its fairground racing plant, since already $250,000 has been invested there. The chairman of the commission, Senator Julian McFadden of Corvallis, declared that a mile track could be constructed at the fairgrounds not to exceed 10 per cent of the cost of a mile track any place else in the state."
Should the fairground track be lengthened to the racing commission declared that Oregon would have the best horse-racing track on the Pacific coast, north of the Mexican border. The "cushioning" or top soil of the present fairground track is considered the best in the state.

Also, if the recommendations are carried out, the racing commission has visions of bringing nation-wide attention to the Salem track as was earned by the old Lone Oak track of some years ago. The mile track was abandoned about 13 years ago.

With the revival of horse racing in Oregon and the subsequent use of the fairground track, a new problem has presented itself, Gehlhar declared. Some years ago the solitary oak tree died, from whence the track got its name. Now he's searching for a new name for the track. Something euphonious such as Tanforan will be acceptable, and suggestions will be appreciated, he said.

More than 300 of the fastest horses in the United States will be entered in the state fair's six-day meet, the fair director said. Entries are still pouring in, evidencing the interest taken in the sport under Oregon's new legalized racing law. The problem of stabling so many race horses has been adequately taken care of with the renovating of several stock barns at the fairgrounds. Stalls have also been installed in the stadium.

Also with the announcement of the state fair's racing meet comes the appointment of Dr. W. H. Lytle as superintendent of speedway events.
"Dr. Lytle knows his horses," Gehlhar said, "and his presence at the track will insure speedy races on time."

GOSS HELD GUILTY IN VAGRANCY CASE

"The false and frame-up nature of the charges against Goss is shown by the fact that the statements concerning the County Court of Marion county which he made, and on which the charges are based, were not original with Goss and were based on statements appearing in the Salem newspapers.
"We therefore demand that these charges be dropped and that O. H. Goss be immediately and unconditionally released."

FORGOTTEN MAN IS PAINTED BY FILMS

Barthelmess Creates Fine Characterization in Elsinore Picture

A daring screen record of these hectic times gives Richard Barthelmess the material for his latest First National production, "Heroes for Sale," which opens today at the Elsinore theatre.

The story, which was written by the late Wilson Misner, mines no words or situations in portraying the career of a "forgotten man." The action commences with the world war in which the main character, played by Richard Barthelmess, is rewarded for his bravery with wounds that leave him a wreck of his former self. His efforts to rehabilitate himself lead him into many adventures and into a stirring romance until he is caught in the tide of the "breadline" class.

Considered one of Barthelmess' finest characterizations to date, "Heroes for Sale," also boasts a cast of highly competent supporting players, each of whom is given a chance for splendid work. Loretta Young plays the leading feminine role, while Allyn MacMahon, Gordon Westcott, Robert Barrat and Bertton Churchill play other important roles.

The Warner Bros.-First National trend of following front page headlines for story material is quite evident in this film. The stark realism of the life and struggles and romance of a veteran, from the time of the world war to the present day is the basis of this production.

William A. Wellman, who was responsible for many screen successes noted for their realism, handled the direction.

Sylvia Sidney, starred in the title role of Theodore Dreiser's famous story, "Jennie Gerhardt," and Donald Cook in the featured male lead on the screen of the Elsinore theatre Friday and Saturday.

Norma Shearer, Tad Alexander, and Clark Gable in "Strange Interlude" which is now showing at the Hollywood.

X-Ray Improvement Claimed
That they have improved the Rontgen X-ray machine for the purpose of diagnosis, is the claim of Dr. Assody and Professor Zilab, of Budapest, Hungary. They have produced x-ray photographs by a process which is said to show far more detail than any other. With their apparatus it is possible to observe minute developments in the internal organs. They hope to diagnose tuberculosis, cancer and other maladies now classed as "incurable."

STRANGE INTERLUDE BILLED, HOLLYWOOD

The brilliant Eugene O'Neill drama, "Strange Interlude," which ran for a year and a half on Broadway, comes to the screen here with Norma Shearer playing the intensely emotional heroine, Nina Leeds, and Clark Gable cast as Doctor Ned Darrell, whose influence plays havoc with her life. The picture will open today at the Hollywood theatre.

As a play, "Strange Interlude," was probably the most discussed and highly praised stage work in the history of the American drama. Its amazing use of spoken thoughts or "asides" has been retained in the screen version, necessitating the use of two separate sound systems to record dialogue. Of additional interest is the fact that the action of the plot covers some 30 years, requiring nine different transformations of character to denote the aging of the principals.

STEIWER PROMISES ATTENTION TO LOAN

Salem's application for a $2,000,000 water works loan from the public works administration will be promptly handled if it requires any attention at Washington, D. C., Senator Steiwer yesterday telegraphed the Salem Trades and Labor council yesterday. The council had telegraphed the senator, asking him to push approval of the loan.

Senator Steiwer's message read: "Responding your wire I contacted office public works administration and find Salem application for municipal water project will not be handled from Washington in first instance but will be referred to field administration for study and report. This official has not been appointed but it is hoped will be very soon. When appointed he should be approached in behalf prompt consideration of application. I have advised Colonel Waite my interest this matter and an assured application will be promptly handled if it requires my attention here kindly regards."

DELEGATION ENJOYS HEARTY RECEPTION

Eastern Oregonians Enthuse Over Early Completion Of North Santiam

The Marion county delegation calling on central Oregon towns to find out public sentiment there respecting early completion of the North Santiam road is highly pleased with the reception accorded and the enthusiasm with which people of Bend and other points are looking forward to the opening of this road to traffic. They volunteered to go to bat with the highway commission to get allocation of the $250,000 needed to complete the road within a year. The road is regarded as of prime importance to central Oregon because it will give the shortest and fastest route to the state capital and to Portland.

The party left here Wednesday and stopped at Redmond, Prineville and Bend interviewing public officials and prominent citizens in all places. Returning on Thursday County Engineer Swart left Judge Siegmund and W. M. Hamilton out at the summit on the new road, then went back to Sisters and started out over the old Santiam highway.

This road follows the general route of the South Santiam highway which the state and Linn county are building. To get down Seven-mile mountain Swart used brakes and low gear, so steep was the grade. The new grade takes up Sheep creek and makes a big loop to gain elevation in getting up the mountain, then drops down to the junction. Swart took the two Silverton men, Mr. Adams and Mr. Starr to their homes Thursday night.

Siegmund and Hamilton hiked from the top of the hill over the route of the new road. They spent Thursday night at the road camp at Big Meadows where Port Bros. have a clearing camp. The next day they hiked on down to Whitewater creek where work is now in progress. Mr. Swart came up Friday afternoon and brought them back to Salem.

Rapid progress is being made on the bridge over the Whitewater, said Swart. Graveling is now being spread on the Detroit-Whitewater section of the road.
