Miss Ruth Brauti Writes From Panama

Miss Ruth Brauti, art director of Salem High school, left recently for a tour of art centers of Europe where she will visit and study has written to her sister, Signe Brauti, of her experiences in the Panama canal zone. On her voyage from Los Angeles to Panama one of her fellow passengers was John McCormick.

The passage through the locks, engineering marvel to Miss Brauti, required seven hours and much of that time excessive tropical heat had to be borne. Interesting study in native life and in native vegetation aided in making the crossing highly enjoyable.

Miss Brauti is proceeding direct from Panama to New York city and from there to London at an early date.

Sage Finds Public Education Lacking; Can't Identify Bug

By D. H. Talmadge, Sage of Salem

IS AUTUMN sort of 'dodgin' around nights and mornings, or is imagination playing 'me tricks'?

Anyhow, ranchers report the grain to be filling and ripening earlier than usual, which is sometimes thought to indicate an early fall.

Henry—never mind the name—was down from the hills one day during the past week. I chanced to meet up with him on State street, and we drifted around some. In front of a cafe he stopped, indicating by a jerk of the thumb three people sitting at a table in the window. "There they are," he says, "drinkin' tea!" "Who?" says I. "My neighbor and his wife and mother," says he. "Drinkin' tea! Disgustin'! Two lumps and a slice o' lemon!" "Why, Henry!" says I.

I fear we are not what some folks would term a thoroughly educated people. One day during the week I found a bug on the sidewalk. It was quite a handsome bug, and I enquired around somewhat with a view to determining its who's who and what's what etcetera. The bug looked certain; it was a much prettier bug than the scarab, worn as a charm by the ancient Egyptians. It was quite similar in its general appearance to the Egyptian scarab.

World travelers usually bring scarabs from the tombs of the Pharaohs as gifts to their friends at home. However, I have never known the presentation of a scarab to arouse any intense enthusiasm in the recipient.

Not many of us are interested in bugs unless they sting or bite. A nice, well-behaved, biteless bug is pretty liable to be snubbed, although it may have many engaging qualities. Editorial bugs may be included in this application.

A man told me a story not long ago of an experience in a hotel somewhere up in the north country. His story had to do with bedbugs, and the man barely escaped with his life. It was, as he told it, a very funny story. Humor is sometimes difficult to understand. We laugh heartily at a story about bedbugs, but nobody laughs at the bedbugs themselves.

The appearance of Grover Cleveland Alexander, celebrated pitcher in the baseball game between the House of David team and the locals Tuesday night perked up Salem baseball spirit amazingly. Alexander gave a very satisfactory demonstration of his skill. William Neimeyer, the Commercial street pharmacist, recalls former days in Nebraska, when farmer's son, who was to become one of the greatest baseball players of his time, was play-

Magazine is Devoted to Silver Falls

SILVERTON, July 22.—One of the most delightful things appearing at Silverton for some time was the golden magazine put out by the Kotteck Printery and called "Silver Falls State Park Magazine." Silverton business men sponsored the 12-page magazine, and it was distributed Friday.

The magazine contained a delightful description of the state park above Silverton and of the plans for the dedication to be held Sunday.

It also contained eight pictures of the falls, and a large picture of Silverton's swimming pool in the Coolidge and McClaine park besides a map showing the territory from Eugene to Portland and all roads leading to Silver Falls state park.

GUESTS OF MISS RIDDERS SUVER, July 22.—Miss Lena Ridders has as guest Mr. and Mrs. John Harris and family and Mrs. George Henricson and family of San Francisco. ing with small town teams here and there, preliminary to his disarming of the big league scouts. Grover was born at Elba, Howard county, in 1887, and the neighbors rated him as a time-waster, who devoted hours to the throwing of stones and corns, when he should have been helping with the farm work. It is probable that had the boy not been permitted to cultivate his passion for throwing he would never have been heard of beyond the old home neighborhood.

We don't know so much about one another as we might know. A boy may be thought to be wasting golden moments, when as a matter of fact, he is working out his own salvation.

A local perfume expert tells me of a certain perfume which is so strong that one drop pleasantly scents a bathtubful of water. Like a kind word.

R. A. Harris is one of those refreshing chaps who are forever breaking out in a new spot. His most recent venture in the Kingwood Herald, a weekly at one dollar for 52 weeks, dated at West Salem. Nothing would please me more than to see R. A. make a success of the Herald.

More than 20 years ago, inspired by the silver tongue of Fred Bynon, I bought a town lot in Kingwood. The late Cooke Patton—peace to his ashes—helped me pick it out, and he bought a bit of the adjoining property. We figured that our holdings would be about where the West Salem Ritz-Waldorf would eventually be located. But there was too much "eventually" involved in the proposition, and the dream faded with other dreams. Col. Robertson seems to have been the only one to overcome the "eventually" handicap. Kingwood now has the look of a live community.

Ek Tibbs tells me that the present summer is one of the latest he has ever known. He did not have his flannel nightshirt washed this year until July 3rd.

Transportation is Voted, Aumsville, By 46 to 42 Count

AUMSVILLE, July 22.—A special meeting of the school district was held Friday evening for the purpose of voting on a special tax to furnish transportation for non high school students and children in the district. The vote carried in favor of transportation by 46 for and 42 against.

But figures showed that the school tax would be considerably higher without the non high school students because the four high school teachers had conducted a survey showing that very few students could attend without transportation being furnished.

Springs Bath Causes Bell Great Anxiety

SUBLIMITY, July 22.—Frank Bell had a peculiar experience recently. He went to a hot spring for benefit of the baths, and after taking one discovered he could scarcely hear a thing. In a few days his hearing returned, but in the meantime he was considerably worried.

"No wonder more people buy Buicks than all other eights in its price range combined!"

Public preference for Buick today is so overwhelming that—with 11 eights in its price range to choose from—more people buy Buicks than all of the other 10 combined.

To the man or woman who is not familiar with the new Buick Eight, such dominance may seem almost unbelievable; but to those who have driven this car, and gained even the most casual acquaintance with its capabilities, the reasons for Buick's nationwide leadership are crystal-clear.

"What," you may ask, "is so different about Buick? Why do so many people consider it superior to any other car selling at similar prices?" The answer lies chiefly in principles of design.

Because of its more enduring design and its finer quality, you will enjoy driving a Buick more years and many more thousands of miles than you would want to drive most automobiles. And you can buy it on easy G.M.A.C. terms. As a result, selection of a Buick is an economy as well as an assurance of thorough satisfaction.

LIBERTY, July 22.—A representative from the county relief station visited this community on Thursday and stated plans to send a portable pressure canner into the various communities in Marion county for the purpose of canning produce for families who have been given relief in the past.

Plans at present are for the preserving of vegetables and meats only. The canner has a capacity of 1800 cans per day, in six turnovers each 1 1/2 hours. Twenty-five cans for each member in a family will be allowed. At the rate of 300 cans every 1 1/2 hours, more than 12 families can be cared for during the period, or about 60 families a day.

The cans will be furnished free to these families, who will be required to register with a central committee in their community on a certain date. Registration time and place to be announced later.

People not having produce of their own are expected to make every effort to obtain supplies and have them in readiness on date canner is in the neighborhood.

As payment for cans and labor in putting up the produce a very small amount of the finished supply will be requested. Those formerly given relief are asked to watch for further announcements and make use of this opportunity.

Isaac Otis Castle, retiring from the navy at the age of 74, the oldest man in the service, will arrive today to make his home on his farm at Aumsville, route one, where he will spend the remainder of his life. He bought the farm two years ago planning to spend his retirement there. Awaiting him will be his wife. Accompanying him is his dog, Gilmore, a big St. Bernard, who has been his companion for several years. Gilmore took his discharge along with his master.

Castle's retirement was made the subject of numerous news articles in California papers, which ran sketches of his life and his pictures. He was chief boatswain's mate at the time of his discharge, stationed at San Diego naval base. In honor of his leaving the service a special muster of the crew was called by Captain C. W. Nimitz, and appropriate honors paid Castle.

Castle was born at Arno, Wis., in 1858. He first enlisted in the navy in 1873. His service was not continuous, however, for he farmed near Salem for 40 years. When the war broke out in 1918 he enlisted again, and now is completing 20 years of service which entitles him to retirement pay.

LIFER ATTEMPTS TO FLOAT OUT OF PEN

Chauncey Guyman, 24, serving a life term in the state penitentiary for murder in Lane county, made an unsuccessful attempt to escape early Saturday by submerging himself in the mill race which flows under the institution walls.

Guyman was detected by a guard who gave the alarm. The convict refused to make any statement when taken from the race to the warden's office. Two large bolts stolen from the prison machine shop were found in one of his pockets.

This was the second time that Guyman had attempted to escape during the past year, prison officials said.

Guyman was received at the prison in November, 1931.

Hollister Woman Relieved of Lump on the Stomach and Badly Swollen Legs With Three Treatments of Chinese Herbs

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: May 18, 1931.

I want to express in writing my deep appreciation for the help I have received from H. S. Low, Directing Herbalist of the Sing Herb Company. Their remedies have relieved me of female disorders which began 17 years ago and from which I suffered continually. During this time I received treatment from several doctors but kept steadily getting worse.

Six weeks ago I was confined to my bed and a physician told me an operation was necessary. I had developed a lump on my stomach and my legs were badly swollen.

A friend, Mrs. Elisa Buelna, recommended H. S. Low, Herbalist. After three days' treatment I was entirely relieved of the lump on my stomach and the swollen legs disappeared within a week.

Today I feel well and happy and I am indeed grateful to H. S. Low for having restored my health. I am glad to recommend his herb treatments to any one in need of help.
