

WHEAT IS CUT ALMOST HALF

Under Allotment Figures Announced for Oregon by New Program

Marion county's 373,731 bushels of wheat for 1933 allotted under the domestic wheat program is just about one-half of the five-year average of 616,185 bushels produced in this area. The same applies for the allotments made for Linn and Polk counties.

The Linn county allotment is 255,405 bushels, as compared to the five-year average production of 472,982 bushels; and Polk's new allotment is 204,994 bushels, compared to 581,256 on the five-year figuring.

The entire state's allotment is about 50 per cent of the five-year average, or an allotment of 11,450,535 bushels, compared to 21,204,994 bushels grown annually on the average calculation.

The government will pay 28 cents a bushel for acreage reduced, which means the allotment program will bring wheat growers here $79,367.12 for the 283,454 bushels lost. For Linn county, the allotment moneys will be $69,921, and for Polk $49,110.04.

The allotment and five-year average for Oregon counties follow:

CALL FOR REPEAL CONVENTION SENT

Meeting Here August 7 to Be Brief; Official Vote is Delayed

The call to the 116 delegates to the state constitutional convention August 7 at Salem was sent out by the executive offices Friday. The time for the meeting to be held in the house of representatives at the state capitol was set at 2:30 p. m.

The business of formally casting Oregon's vote for repeal of the 19th amendment was expected to take but a short time, particularly after selection of a chairman. The task could be completed during the afternoon, it was expected.

The call to the delegates will be mailed out at once, without waiting for the official canvass of votes which was not expected to change results of the unofficial vote. Five delegates will vote against repeal while 116 will favor it, should all delegates attend. A majority of those attending is necessary to decide the vote.

Thirty counties have already sent in official counts on the repeal of the 19th amendment. The committee selected by Governor Meier late yesterday to study legislation for control of liquor sales when the 18th amendment is repealed, was expected to call a meeting within a short time. Two of the committee, Amedee M. Smith and Isaac Staples are dry, while the others were declared either active or inactive wets.

The committee of 11 consists of four attorneys, two doctors, two housewives, two business men and one druggist. The attorneys are John A. Laing, Roscoe C. Nelson, John J. Beckman of Portland and Jay Upton of Bend. The doctors are Dr. William S. Knox, chairman, and Dr. Ralph Fenton of Portland, Amedee M. Smith, president of the Portland chamber of commerce and Isaac Staples, state senator, come under the business men classification.

Mrs. David Hoveman of Portland, and Mrs. Gordon Voorhies of Medford are the two women, while Frank Peterson is the druggist on the committee.

'DOUBLE HARNESS' FILM AT ELSINORE

William Powell, Ann Harding Star in Problem Play Of Modern Marriage

Is today's daughter safe because a minister has uttered certain words which privilege her to wear a wedding ring and use another name? Are there as many enticements for the married man as there are for the modern bachelor? How wrong are the parents who oftentimes say, "Thank goodness, they're safely married?"

Pre- and post-marital problems of a present-day couple fall beneath a revealing searchlight in "Double Harness," co-starring Ann Harding and William Powell at the Elsinore today.

The RKO-Radio Picture presents Joan Colby, a modern maiden with conventional ideas about marriage; and John Fletcher, bachelor rake. Feminine artifices lure John into matrimony with Joan.

Marriage is irksome to Fletcher, torn from the freedom of bachelorhood. Learning of Joan's deception to decoy him to the altar, John has an excuse to kick over the traces. He returns to a mistress while Joan is faced with a new test of her resources. These complications end in a surprise climax.

Joan and John are portrayed by Ann Harding and William Powell in "Double Harness," directed by John Cromwell. Lillian Bond, Henry Stephenson, George Meeker, Lucile Browne and Reginald Owen are in support.

Here is the one and only Ann Harding and William Powell and they are teamed together for the first time in "Double Harness," now showing at the Elsinore theatre.

And so "42nd Street" sings its way to fame and glory and much talk just because of such people as these two youngsters—you will see them at the Hollywood beginning today.

The well known and much loved Sally Eilers and James Dunn in their fifth starring success "Hold Me Tight," now showing at the Grand theatre.

CAMP ACTIVITIES FOR BOYS STARTED

Hike for Specimens, Light House Trip and Sports All Enjoyed

By DAVE COMPTON

Y. M. C. A. CAMP, OCEANSIDE, July 29.—Now that one of "Pop Crary's" well breakfasts is under the belt of every boy in camp, they are feeling much better. Tents are beginning to look like millionaires' mansions, and everything is looking swell around the camp.

Wednesday our camp activities started. The nature study class headed by Prof. H. M. DuBois of Portland, took a short hike up the road looking at the flowers, trees, shrubs, plants and rock formations. Everybody seemed to be very busy hunting for specimens down deep in the bushes. Thursday morning a beach trip was planned for the nature class by Mr. DuBois.

Wednesday afternoon a hike to Oceanside was enjoyed by all. Swimming and baseball took the limelight in the activities. Among our great baseball stars are McKay, Downs, Busick and Gutekunst.

Rich Chambers gets all the hard luck. First he gets the hives, and then he gets hit by a baseball bat. However, he's a tough guy and "he can take it."
