

Boyer and Campbell Fall; Leal Reaches Quarter-Finals

5 CALIFORNIANS STILL IN RACE

One of Co-Medallists Drops Out Along With N. W., Canadian Champ

EASTMORELAND MUNICIPAL COURSE, Portland, Ore., Aug. 3.—(AP)—California seemed to enjoy the northwest's famous rain today as five "native sons" took over a controlling interest in the national public links golf championship, leaving room in the quarter-finals for only Robert Lee Miller of Jacksonville, Fla., the defending champion, and two Washington boys, Bud Ward of Olympia and Leslie Leal of Bellingham.

Henry Batista of Altadena, Charles Ferrera of San Francisco and three Los Angeles stars, Don Erickson, Stanley Seymour and Bruce McCormack, had little regard for favorites, title holders or medal winners as they zoomed to victories in drizzly weather through the first and second 18-hole rounds.

Seymour started the California rampage with a smashing and surprising victory over Albert "Scotty" Campbell of Seattle, amateur champion of Canada and the Pacific northwest, and nothing could stop the big men from the south afterward.

Leal, however, lost through playing yet. He has to play off with Leal Sunday for the medal trophy.

Three Los Angeles Team Men Remain

When the quarter final survivors were checked over, it was discovered that three of the four boys who won the Warren C. Harding inter city team trophy for Los Angeles in the qualifying play, were among the select eight.

The draw for the first of two 18-hole rounds tomorrow saw Batista pitted against Erickson, Ward matched with Miller, Seymour paired with McCormack and Ferrera teamed with Leal.

This put the two Washington boys up against the defending champion and a former titlist. Ferrera won the crown in 1931.

WACONDA, Aug. 3.—Logan berry picking in most yards here will be finished this week. In spite of damage done by cold last winter a fair crop was harvested. Nearly 12 tons of logans were sold to Hunt Brothers taken from A. W. Nusom's three acre tract on the Wheatland ferry road.

WEST SALEM'S SHOW TONIGHT

McGuire Gets No Setups; to Meet Otis Clingman on Legion's Program

Mickey McGuire is West Salem's home town wrestler and according to all traditions, the promoters would be, at this early stage in the promotion of wrestling across the river, "building up" the home boy by pitting him against setups whom he would be sure to defeat, thus enhancing his prestige among the home fans.

Instead of that, Matchmaker Herb Owen last week sent McGuire against the tough "Bulldog" Jackson and the home fans saw him take a defeat, though the match was once awarded him on a foul which he refused to accept.

And tonight McGuire will oppose Otis Clingman from Oklahoma, regarded as the king pin of the length list of middleweights who habitually appear on Owen's cards here and there. But the West Salem fans know these fellows are good, and they'll think none the less of their home boy in case he bites the dust again.

Jackson will be back again, this time meeting Dorry Detton who also appeared on last week's card and Tesura Higman will oppose Hal Cox, a newcomer from Texas. All three bouts are one-hour affairs and listed as of equal rating on the triple main event card which starts at 8:30 in the newly built open air arena on Wallace Road.

E. K. Piasecki, who has represented the Spokane Land bank for many years in the valley, will address a gathering of farmers at Silverton next Monday night at 7:30. He will explain matters of farm loans from the bank and from the new loan commissioner who is an agent of the bank.

CURT COMMENTS

The business world is all hopped up over the N. R. A. Sport, as you have read in innumerable critical newspaper and magazine articles, is a business. Well, this five-day week thing may help to spread employment for baseball players, of whom there are thousands out of work. And think what a boon it will be to the footballers.

The late lamented Paul Schiller's trouble was that he was absent of the world. He had this work-sharing thing refined further than Hugh Johnson ever dreamed of requiring; Paul had them going and coming all the time. Now under the blue eagle, all the coaches will have to follow suit. It will be a great year for the fifth string men.

Seriously though, the N. R. A. is going to make some new jobs, some of them part-time jobs, and we hope that some employers who have suitable types of work available, will just keep in mind that two or three hundred Willamette boys will be back in town soon, looking for ways to keep the wolf in bay; athletes and non-athletes. Young fellows going to college are already doing something to leave full-time jobs for others, and they deserve some consideration.

We read nearly all of the papers trying to find out just what caused Tab Boyer to be charged with an extra stroke in the second day of the public links qualifying round, but our A. P. report shed the most light and that was too much. It's rather odd for a player's score to be raised without a disqualification accompanying it. In this involved game of golf, Bear in mind that an umpire accompanied each pair of qualifying aspirants, and that whatever happened is no discredit to Boyer.

We rather got the impression that the Portland writers tried to gum up the account of the affair to leave the impression that Tab got a raw deal. But as the A. P. described it, Boyer hit a provisional ball because the original was in a dry creek bed. Now, he couldn't hit a provisional ball if he considered it a water hazard, a matter which should have been decided beforehand. Presumably therefore he decided the ball was unplayable, a question on which the player alone is judge. Maybe somebody who was there can enlighten us.

FASTEST

Jack Lovelock, Oxford University, England, track star, had good reason to smile for he set a new world record for the mile run at the Oxford-Cambridge vs. Princeton-Cornell meet at Princeton. Lovelock is shown finishing in 4:7.4, nearly 2 seconds better than the old mark.

Housing Program Delayed Pending Feasibility Word

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The public works administration today deferred action on housing projects in more than 80 cities to await reports from its engineers on the feasibility of many of them.

Public works administration officials declined to make known the cities to which engineers are to be sent to study projects.

Secretary Ickes, public works administrator, indicated definite action by the board on some housing projects may come at the board's meeting Tuesday as well as possible action on the army housing program.

Driver Snoozes; Idaho Woman is Killed in Crash

VENTURA, Cal., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Mrs. J. B. Bistline, of Pocatello, Idaho, was killed and her grandson, Claude Bistline, 17, injured when the automobile young Bistline was driving left the highway five miles from here early today and crashed into a parked state highway department truck.

Bistline was treated at the county hospital for shock and bruises and released tonight. Sheriff's officers who investigated the accident expressed belief Bistline must have gone to sleep. The truck, they said, was parked well off the highway.

Pola Negri and McCormick Not Engaged, Claim

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Harold F. McCormick tonight made the brief comment, "I know nothing about it" to dispatches from Europe that he was engaged to marry Pola Negri.

His secretary, however, added: "There definitely is nothing to the story." When asked concerning the possibility of an engagement in the future between the pair, the secretary said: "There's nothing to deny or affirm except that the story published today is untrue."

Ducks Shake Losing Habit As Rain Aids

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 3.—(AP)—While rain fell steadily throughout the game, Portland defeated the Missions, 12 to 2, here tonight. The visitors finally triumphed and the contest was called after the visitors failed to score in their half of the sixth inning. The Missions lead the series, 2 games to 1.

The precipitation apparently was too much for Al Moore, Missions' left fielder, who covered his territory through one inning under the welcomed shelter of an umbrella.

Phebus, on the mound for the visitors, lost control of the wet baseball, and the Beavers collected six runs before they were retired. After getting one run in the fourth inning, the Beavers added five more in the fifth on another damp outburst of batting.

Turpin had little trouble with the slippery pellet, striking out five players, mostly in the pinches. The Missions were able to get only one run in the second and another in the third.
