turmoil that had gripped Jackson county for several months. Llewellyn A. Banks, former Medford editor and orchardist and organizer of the "Good Government congress," was convicted in Eugene several weeks ago of second degree murder for the slaying of George Prescott, Medford constable. Banks was one of the 20 or so indicted in the ballot theft case, and it was while Prescott was attempting to serve the resulting warrant at the Banks home that he was shot to death.

Tom Brecheen, Oliver Martin and J. Croft, all Jackson county residents, were scheduled to go on trial here Monday on similar charges.

the unusually low mark of $105,000,000.

February, 1933, was the low mark in Salem business in many years, bank debits going down to $5,704,000. November, 1929, was the highest bank debit month in local history, totals reaching $17,494,967.

Business leaders here yesterday said 1932 totals would be exceeded this year, notwithstanding the exceedingly bad showing of the first four months, if the rate of increase of the last three months was maintained throughout the remaining five months of 1933.

tending, the gift of Parker's Capitol street grocery.

Second and third places in the funniest girl division went to Ardis Thomason as Sis Hopkins and Barbara Badger, who was the "fat lady in the circus." Virgil Mason took second place in that division for boys, while Dickie Mason in a Lord Fauntleroy suit was second in the best looking section. Lila Murray as a gypsy and Shirley McKay in cowboy outfit placed second and third in the girls' most original division.

Laura May Hoss dressed as a Russian ballet dancer and Suzanne Small as a little Dutch girl were awarded second and third places in the prettiest division.

Other children in the parade as they were costumed were as follows: Elaine Murray, boy; Roberta Rodgers, kewpie; Jacqueline Vicary, lady; Eileen Lester, Irish; Georgietta Thomason, bat; Ardela Vicary, old fashioned lady; Doris Harrington; flapper; and Madeliene Keene, Japanese girl.

Your picture fare for the year will not be complete unless you have seen Mae West in "She Done Him Wrong", the weekend feature opening today at the Capitol.

While the acting is excellent on the part of the entire cast, yet the play is Mae West. She dominates it and creates an atmosphere of realism which makes the story become a choice acquaintance of each person who sees it.

The theme is one that must be clever in production in order to be permissible, and cleverly presented it is, with lines that are fast and at times highly spiced.

My advice is don't miss it.

Boys and girls there is a new theatre club at the Hollywood. Manager Stumbo tells me that today for the first time will meet the "Buck Jones Ranger club" for a matinee this afternoon.

This club is a national one, having been organized about 1½ years ago and now having about 200 clubs on the coast. Buck Jones is the big chief.

There have been organized two bands, one a harmonica band and the other a regulation band. Those in the band will wear a cowboy uniform of chaps, vest, cufflets, hat and such equipment. The bands will be known as the "Cowboy" bands.

It is being planned at the present time to present one or both the bands at the state fair as a feature.

cerations but was not believed to have received a fractured skull. No X-ray had yet been taken.

Operator's licenses of John Miller, Portland, and Max Dwain Morrow, route seven, were each suspended for 10 days when the two pleaded guilty in municipal court to charges of reckless driving. Harold Baker Sappington, Salem, charged with speeding, was likewise penalized.

Five dollar fines were paid by Charles A. Walin, 2025 Market street, Salem, and Eugene McCarthy, Independence, both arrested for speeding, while B. B. Wood, Portland, paid $1 for passing on an intersection. C. J. McGinley, 334 East Miller, and G. C. Dixon, Woodburn, both arrested on charges of speeding, are to appear in court today.

be legally sold unless the proper revenue stamps are affixed to the containers and the license committee has asserted that the law will be enforced. License applications of beer dealers received up to noon Monday will be passed upon by the committee and submitted to the council that night. Late comers, it was declared, will have to wait until the council session two weeks later, unless a special session is called.

City Treasurer C. O. Rice estimated that 30 applications had been submitted up to last night. Application was delayed for a time when he ran out of the proper forms.

Salem hardware dealers Friday swung in line in the N. R. A. program, announced they would shut shop at 6 p.m. each weekday and would put five more men to work because of the shorter day.

Barbers, a checkup shows, lead other crafts in agreeing on N. R. A. provisions although several local barbers deny there is any shortage of workers here and say that trade has not yet picked up enough to keep a barber more than 50 per cent busy.

Wage increases to comply with the national recovery plan are impossible in state departments because of the salary reduction law passed by the last legislature, and adding workers appears likewise out of the question because of budgetary limitations.

These views were expressed Friday by Attorney General I. H. VanWinkle in reply to a question by Jerrold Owen, secretary of the bonus commission, as to how far state departments and agencies can go in compliance with the federal program to raise wages, and create employment.

VanWinkle declared the recovery act was not compulsory upon the state or its agencies and stated further that "chapter 451, Oregon laws 1933, fixes the salaries of all state officers and employes for the present biennium, and it would not be possible to increase the same without violating this law. As to whether hours of employment could be reduced and additional employes added, would depend upon the funds available. In most of the state departments, owing to the limitations of the appropriations therefore, such a procedure is not possible. Of course it is desirable to cooperate in this respect, insofar as it is possible to do so, but the matter of such possibility rests with the respective departments, in view of their budgetary limitations."

Mickey Mouse NOTES

"Boots" fell down the stairs this morning—laugh!

M. M. C.

After Mickey Mouse today I'm going to Seattle and see what kind of Mickeey Mouse clubs they have there. Just so you'll know, we have 2600 members in our club.

M. M. C.

Your little friend Miss Patsy Holt is still a big hit. She sang last Saturday, and we'll have her again soon. Others on the program were Hattie Coons, Edith Thomas, Fay Scott, Vivian Aspinwall, and David Smith.

M. M. C.

Today we're going to have some more new talent.

M. M. C.

Tom Mix will also be on the program in "Hidden Gold."

M. M. C.

Would you like to join "Boots'" Mickey Mouse orchestra? You would! Come down any Saturday morning at 10:30 when they rehearse.

M. M. C.

I don't know whether it was funny or pathetic when the balloons wouldn't blow up in the balloon blowing contest. Well, it was rather confusing — but it turned out all right.

M. M. C.

We'll have a different kind of contest this afternoon.

So Long,

ZOLLIE.

O'CONNELL AFTER RELEASE

© Albany Times Union

Safe at the Summer camp of his politically powerful uncle, Daniel P. O'Connell (left), John J. O'Connell, Jr., is shown as he appeared a few hours after his release by kidnapers who had held him captive for 23 days. It is believed that $42,500 was the amount of ransom paid for the young man's freedom.

HAILSTORM, FLOOD AT YAKIMA SEVERE

YAKIMA, Wash., Aug. 4—(AP)—An hour's hailstorm and a heavy rain late today practically destroyed fruit crops on half a dozen ranches in the Pomona district northwest of Yakima, and sent a two-foot wall of water rushing down the small valley in which the farms are situated.

The county road was washed out in several places, top soil was washed off portions of the orchards and the Selah-Moxee irrigation ditch, below the ranches, was broken in several places.

The water was dammed up along the Yakima-Ellensburg highway, forming a large pond, and coursed through the siphon under the road with a rushing roar. The highway was not damaged.

One rancher estimated his loss at 4,000 boxes of apples; another said he would lose 1,500 boxes of apples and 25 tons of pears, and others estimated damage at 1,500 to 2,000 boxes of apples and various tonnages of pears.

CAMPBELL RESIGNS AS HUSKY MANAGER

SEATTLE, Aug. 4—(AP)—Earl F. Campbell, graduate manager of the Associated Students of the University of Washington since 1928, tendered his resignation and it was accepted today at a joint meeting of the student board of control and members of the executive committee of the board of regents.

He was granted his salary in full up to Sept. 1. He had declined to accept his recent discharge by Charles Frankland, new overseer of athletics, as effective August 1, maintaining his contract ran another month.

A committee also was appointed to investigate proposed improvements in the editing and management of student publications, but it was announced there "would be no censorship." An issue of the summer school journal appeared belatedly today, with an editorial criticising Frankland for his action excluded.

Hoss to Return Here Soon, Plan

THE DALES, Ore., Aug. 4. —(AP) — Hal E. Hoss, secretary of state, who has been convalescing at the state hospital here folowing a recent illness, left today for a short vacation trip before returning to his regular duties at Salem.

Hoss declined to give information as to where he planned to go for the vacation.

K. F. MILLS RESUME

GLAMATH FALLS, Ore., Aug. 4—(AP)—Twelve lumber mills which had been idle for the past two weeks because of walkouts by workers, resumed operation here today. Union pickets failed in their attempt to persuade the workmen to remain on strike.

BROWNING DEFEATS LARGE OREGON FOE

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Jim Browning of Joplin, Mo., defeated Howard Cantonwine of Portland, two falls out of three in the main event of tonight's wrestling card here. Browning weighed 220, nine pounds less than his opponent.

Browning took the first fall in 14 minutes with what he calls a leg turnover scissors. Cantonwine evened the match 9 minutes later with a body slam. Browning needed only 5 minutes to execute the deciding tumble, another leg turnover scissors.

Ed "Strangler" Lewis, 240, Glendale, Calif., defeated George Nelson, 215, Logan, Utah, in the scheduled five-round semi-windup. Nelson won the first fall in the second round, but was unable to return to the mat after Lewis won the second fall in the third round with a body press.

Scotty Dawkins, 202, Monroe, La., took one fall and the match from Walt Sirois, 191, Vancouver, B. C., George Bennett, 155, Tulsa, Okla., won from Pat Anderson, 157, Sacramento, taking one fall in the preliminary.
