The nomination and election of officers required only 15 minutes. The name of Mrs. Honeyman of Portland was presented by Mr. Baker, Portland, who paid tribute to her work in the repeal campaign.

"It required a lot of courage to head the prohibition repeal campaign as long as four years ago," Mr. Baker declared, "Mrs. Honeyman has labored day and night in an effort to bring about a better understanding among the citizens of this state. The campaign originally was launched with the thought that the country had drifted into a state of chaos and there was defiance of law and order. The effects of home brew have been felt in the homes as well as on the street. We are through with hypocrisy. What we

Widening Plans

The council Monday night received and filed remonstrance petitions signed by 53 local taxpayers who protest against the proposed widening of North Capitol street between Court and Erickson streets. The remonstrance was formed after the state highway department gave press notice it was considering the widening of the street. One of the signers was wind. Sheds, trash, shrubbery and Roy A. Klein, formerly state highway engineer.

The council granted 37 licenses for the sale of non-intoxicating liquor, all the applications being accompanied by the required license fee. Nine licenses were approved but withheld, pending
