REID, MURDOCH TO OPERATE BY CODE

Any Wage Increase Will be Retroactive to August 1, Madden Asserts

Employees of Reid, Murdoch and company cannery here will no longer be in the dark on what the Recovery act will do for them, for announcement has been made that any wage changes adopted will be retroactive to August 1, 1933. This word was given yesterday by Frank B. Madden, northwest manager now located here.

Pending final determination, whether under the blanket code or the national canners' code, the 27 1/2 cents established for Pacific coast states is being paid.

The following information will be posted for benefit of employees this week:

"For 80 years Reid, Murdoch and company have complied with every state and national law and will always continue to do so.

"Our wholesale houses in Chicago, Boston, Los Angeles, Pittsburgh, Jacksonville, Fla., San Francisco and Tampa, Fla., are now operating under the wholesale grocers' code.

"Our factories located at Rochester, Minn.; Salem, Ore.; Ellsworth, Mich.; Pierceton, Ind.; Laporte, Ind.; East Claire, Wis.; and West Chicago, Ill., will operate under their respective codes to be approved by the administration and any wage changes will be retroactive to August 1, 1933."

The local plant has a crew of women busy pitting maraschino cherries but is through with seasonal canning, save for some blackberries, until the pear crop comes on.

First pears will arrive by the end of this month, Mr. Madden says. These will come from Yakima and Wenatchee districts. A large number of women are employed during the pear pack.

Members of Bridge Crew Entertained

VICTOR POINT, Aug. 8.—Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Robl were pleasant hosts Saturday night to members of the county bridge crew, with which Robl has worked for a number of years. Families of the bridge workers were also guests.

The visitors brought as a wedding gift to the Robls a lovely dinner set. Early in the evening the men of the party helped to raise the framework of the new barn that Robl is building on his farm. About 30 were present.

Wind Aids Test, Tear Gas Pistol

When Superintendent Charles P. Pray of the state police, Dr. O. A. Olson, special Salem civil service examiner, and other officers went out to Bush pasture Monday afternoon for a tear gas demonstration, they, wrongly guessed the vagaries of the breeze. A sudden puff of wind blew the cloud of fumes the wrong direction and sent them scurrying, coughing and eyes streaming. It was decided tear gas was effective.

W. O. W. TO PICNIC

SILVERTON, Aug. 8.—J. H. Bietham, district manager of the Woodmen of the World, and W. D. Judson, district clerk, both called at Silverton this week to make arrangements for the annual district picnic to be held Sunday at Hager's grove near Salem. Mr. Bietham is from Portland and Mr. Judson lives at Salem.

CHAMPIONS STEEL WORKERS

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins takes up the cudgels for steel workers as she speaks before the iron and steel industry hearing in the Department of Commerce, Washington. Mrs. Secretary suggested a 35-hour week for steel workers. General Hugh Johnson, NRA Administrator, is shown at left.

DATA ON CANNERY WAGE HELD FALSE

Statements relative to wage scale issued this week in Oakland, Calif., by J. R. Dunsenath, secretary of the International Canners' union, are false alarms, local canners indicated yesterday.

Dunsenath, while admitting with C. H. Gram, Oregon labor commissioner, that the tri-state 27 1/2-cent wage agreement had not been supplanted by the Roosevelt blanket code, said canners of Oregon, Washington and California should at once adopt a 30-cent wage schedule.

The union secretary holds that the wage agreement reached this spring by the three states was based on a one-cent lower selling price for canned products than is now being received. But this statement is incorrect, local canners declare.

The national canners' code has not yet been adopted.

PACKING OF BEANS NEAR SEASON PEAK

Packing of beans at the Cleary and Hillman cannery in West Salem will reach a good stride the end of this week or the beginning of next, Grover Hillman said yesterday. The plant is using mechanical snippers for the first time this device has been used in Salem. The tryouts this week have indicated they will be entirely successful throughout the run. The snippers are being used in Eugene also this year.

While the mechanical operator does away to some extent with women workers, a good force will be on the job when the bean crop reaches its peak. Beans have been coming in in small quantities the past week.

Cleary and Hillman are running the bean crop for the West Stayton Growers' co-op, and will also can tomatoes for the farmers in the irrigated section. Between 25,000 and 30,000 cases each of beans and tomatoes will be packed.

A heavy prune run will follow the vegetable packing, the prunes to be handled for Cleary and Hillman themselves. The cannery will be operating full blast from now until about October 5, Hillman estimates, particularly if weather conditions continue warm and produce a good prune crop.

FAIR GRANDSTAND PRAISED BY KYNE

S. F. Promoter to Send his Horses Here; Pleased At Local Setup

The Oregon state fairgrounds had the best grandstand on the Pacific coast, declared William P. Kyne of San Francisco, nationally-known horse race promoter who was a fairground visitor yesterday. Kyne is now conducting the racing meet at Grusham which ends Saturday. A string of his horses will be seen at the six-day state fair racing meet to start here on Labor day.

"She certainly is beautiful," Kyne said when shown the grandstand by Max Gehlhar, state fair director. "It's without a doubt the best on the coast. I'd certainly like to have such a grandstand at every place where I run my horses."

The size of the local fairground racing plant was a surprise to Kyne. He asked Gehlhar if there were accommodations for more than 50 horses.

"Surely," the state fair director replied, "we've got room for all your can bring. We can take care of many over 300."

Then followed a tour of the paddock and barns.

More than 150 horses will be entered in the racing meet, starting at the state fair on Labor day.

NUT PRICES WILL RISE, INDICATED

Filbert and walnut prices this fall will show a nice increase over last year, according to W. H. Bentley, general manager of the North Pacific Nut Growers' association, who was in town yesterday in company with Ira Powell of Monmouth.

Filbert prices have increased five cents per pound in the last three months, and walnuts this fall should be up at least three cents over last year, he said. The filbert crop is most promising, while walnuts look like only a 50 per cent crop. Filbert prices will be announced about August 23 and walnuts early in October.

Nut industries will probably have an N. R. A. code adopted by the end of September, which will include manner of handling for crop surpluses.

Flying Bat Strikes Hubbard Girl in Nose

HUBBARD, Aug. 8.—Miss Frances Friend suffered a painful injury Sunday at Jantzen Beach when a bat hit her in the face. Miss Friend was standing about 15 persons away with her back to the ball players when a man hit and threw the bat. She turned her head to see why the people were screaming as they got out of the way and the bat hit her in the nose, breaking it and mutilating the flesh. She is in a Portland hospital.

It won't be long now when you will be saying—
