

NORMAL TOWN GETS $30,000

And More in Sight Under Recovery Program; Organize 'Militia'

MONMOUTH, Aug. 12.—Reemployment is due for a big boost, and soon, according to present evidence. Under the public works provision of the NRA announced this week, Monmouth is to be allotted $30,000 for construction of a sewage disposal plant.

In the state building program, a $50,000 gymnasium is recommended for the Oregon Normal school at Monmouth. If satisfactory in Washington, this building will be erected on land belonging to the state, fronting Jackson street.

H. W. Morlan, president of the local chamber of commerce, states that plans and specifications for the building have been completed by John V. Bennes, state architect, and have received the approval of the state board of education, and of Marshall N. Dana, Portland. Plans have been forwarded to Washington, D. C.

Favors Another Loan
Mayor F. R. Bowersox of Monmouth is in favor of seeking a loan from the federal government to replace the wood pipe water mains in the city with iron pipe. The wood pipe mains have been in use for 20 years.

Organize Under Code
No definite NRA code has been established in Monmouth to date, although grocers have re-scheduled their hours to open at 8 and close at six, daily. Wood dealers are working out a code.

The chamber of commerce, sponsoring a meeting of service clubs, civic and business organizations, has lined the city up in accordance with military procedure under the NRA plan. Ira C. Powell is general of the advisory group; Mrs. F. E. Chambers, vice-commander; Oscar Groves, colonel of sales army; O. C. Christensen, colonel of education; B. E. Swenson, colonel of publicity campaign.

Subordinate officers will be appointed if required by the colonels. Monmouth is preparing to give 100 per cent support to President Roosevelt's reemployment campaign.

Two Unreasonable Men Sometimes Arrive at Reasonable Conclusions

By D. H. Talmadge, Sage of Salem

Some books one reads rapidly, and other one reads slowly, and both may be good. Soda water and beefsteak.

Zolly Volchok is in Seattle looking over the theatrical situation and as an innocent bystander, and Wilfred Hagerdorn is in Idaho sipping up journalistic conditions with the shrewd young eye which has made the Salem Junior Gazette a power in the land. Otherwise, things locally seem fairly normal.

A story is told of a Salem man who lost his temper because another member of the family mowed the lawn. "I don't believe it."

Some folks dislike dogs. Very nice folks, too. But I shall continue to like dogs regardless.

Everybody enjoys telling what he would have done had he been in another person's place. He might and then again he mightn't. However, there's no harm in telling.

I can enjoy reading almost anything which seems to me well written, but I seldom read articles pertaining to crochet work. No prejudice against crochet work, understand, but a line must be drawn somewhere.

There are fires and fires. The bright young man who assisted us, my partner and I, in publishing a Washington state weekly newspaper almost 30 years ago once reported a fire. He said: "Damage was trivial, the blaze having been extinguished before the arrival of our gallant fire-fighters." To fully appreciate this you should have known that volunteer fire company. For that company to go to a fire and not have the satisfaction of chopping and squiring was unthinkable. The item was printed as written and no exceptions to it were taken.

They tell me that buying power is beginning to come back. So that's what it is! And me thinking it was only symptoms of something that might require treatment from the family doctor!

Anyhow, prices are going up.

Occasional reading of sensational newspapers may do little harm, but constant reading cannot but be bad. Everybody is influenced by what he reads, young people especially, and habitually cheap reading must produce cheap thinking and cheap expression of thought, and consequently cheap moral conduct.—Chester S. Lord.

D. H. TALMADGE

R. A. Harris of the Kingwood Herald, an ardent and sincere champion of the "under dog," is so adept at saying kind words gracefully.

Fully 50,000 men and women and children, hundreds of 'em from Salem, have visited the ship Constitution, "Old Ironsides," since her arrival a few days ago in Portland harbor. Patriotic sentiment—a reassuring indication as to the welfare of the nation.

An idol of the silent—Gloria Swanson—has been a talkie feature at the Grand theater during the past week. An English picture, with only the Chicago Gloria in the cast to remind us that our accent is still good in the art maris. She still has enough fans in Salem to make a good showing at the boxoffice in spite of strenuous competition.

There's something sort of sad about a place of business closed for the benefit of its creditors. But it isn't always so sad as it seems. It may be the business man is enjoying the first long breaths he's had in two or three years.

When two unreasonable men get together they sometimes reach a reasonable conclusion or two.

I know a man who always straightens up and smiles when he hears a steam locomotive whistle. Getting old, I reckon.

My Husband Says Its The Best Money He Ever Spent!

Georgetown, California

The Sing Herb Company,
H. S. Low, Herbalist,
1197 Lincoln Way,
Auburn, California

Dear Sir:

In behalf of the wonderful results obtained since doctoring with you, I am writing this letter, as one way of showing my appreciation of your wonderful work and wish to have your friends and patients read it.

For the past twelve years, I have been a sufferer from fainting spells, which have been so much worse the past four or five years, having from one to eleven spells, some days, which would last from five minutes to two hours. I doctored with various physicians, but with no results. Had almost given up all hopes of ever getting well, as I was getting worse all the time and so weak I could hardly stand or walk without aid, when a friend told me of H. S. Low's wonderful work, so I decided to see if he could help me and was taken to Auburn by my husband. After telling of my condition, he said he could help me, so I began doctoring with him at once; and after the first week I saw wonderful results, and in two weeks' time I could walk alone. Have doctored just one month now and my fainting spells are gone. We both are glad to recommend the herb treatments to everybody. In fact, my husband says it's the best money he ever spent, and I want to thank H. S. Low, for the interest he took in my case.

Mrs. William Vaughn,
Georgetown, California.

"It is estimated that more than 12,500,000 people will drive to Chicago during the fair, and the bureau will be equipped to supply complete information on parking, garaging, service, living quarters, restaurants, amusements and route information without charge," Mr. Zosel said.

Car drivers from Salem who will drive to the world's fair will find the headquarters at 2324 South Michigan avenue near one of the main entrances to the Century of Progress.

"This association is the oldest of its kind in the United States and will be able to place a great store of information at the disposal of any car driver who may require assistance while in Chicago."
