COUZENS OUTLINES CAUSE OF FAILURE

Loan Would not Have Saved Detroit Banks, Senator Tells Grand Jury

DETROIT, Aug. 17, (AP)—Before a jammed courtroom, Senator James Couzens, (R. Mich.), today related his own "inside story" of events that preceded the Michigan and National bank holidays, and charged that banker witnesses before an investigating jury here had not "told all they know."

The jury for several weeks has been investigating the closing of two large national banks in Detroit.

At one point, the Senator veered from the Michigan bank-ruled situation to say that during the last national political campaign former President Herbert Hoover asked him to issue "for political purposes" a statement approving the Reconstruction Finance Corporation's $90,000,000 loan to the Chicago bank headed by Charles G. Dawes, former R. F. C. president.

Banker critics of the Senator came in themselves for sharp criticism. In blunt, terse phrases, he let it be known that he was displeased with bankers' handling of the national crisis.

Yesterday Wilson W. Mills, former chairman of the First National Bank, accused Couzens of blocking an R. F. C. loan to the Union Guardian Trust company of Detroit that would, he said, have prevented the Michigan bank holiday, declared February.

Couzens retaliated today with a statement that not only himself but every possible government official opposed the loan because of insufficient collateral and declared the loan would not have prevented the closing of the banks.

He suggested that his questioner, Prosecutor Harry S. Toy, ask Mills to tell "of the millions in default by employees and officers and of the loans to favored ones."

He started the courtroom by charging that as early as last November the federal government told First National officials that the solvency of their bank was a matter of serious doubt. He declined to give the name of the federal officials, saying the matter was "confidential."
