

Local News Briefs

Would Quash Order—Ladd & Bush Trust company as executor, has asked the court to quash execution issued July 28 in suit of W. W. McKinney vs. George A. Larson. The motion sets out plaintiff got judgment against Oka Larson in 1928, but the attorney at foreclosure was set aside on grounds that the property was a homestead and entitled to exemption. When Oka Larson died last month, plaintiff caused execution to be issued and the property has been advertised for sale Monday, July 28. However, the trust company asks that this be quashed as the former ruling relative to a homestead still holds.
