starting to march their opponents into Yakima, to be met by police and deputy sheriffs who had been notified by telephone. By 3 p. m., the laborers had reached town, and were marched to the county jail.

In another section of the city, 10 men, carrying I. W. W. cards, police said, were found in a truck, armed with clubs and other weapons, and they were placed under arrest. They were charged with "unlawful assembly."

All Laborers Found To Have Money in Pockets

Many of the laborers were searched after being arrested, police said, and all had money, one of them having $28.

Tonight, a hurried conference was called by city commissioners and the city attorney, to discuss steps to be taken.

Sheriff's officers received word tonight from William Cole, head of the state police at Olympia, that a detachment would be sent to Yakima to assist in keeping order and to relieve national guardsmen called out.

No trouble occurred in Selah, as persons planning a meeting there decided not to go counter to orders from Mayor Gus Remington, not to meet on the streets or school grounds, as first planned.

Should injuries to J. C. Young, elderly rancher whose skull was fractured by a blow from a club, prove fatal, murder charges instead of assault charges will be filed against the men held in connection with the riot, Prosecutor Sandvig said tonight. The stockade planned will be large enough and stout enough to accommodate 150 men.

Boy Farmers Cheer F. D. R.

President Roosevelt and his mother, Mrs. Sarah Delano Roosevelt, are given a rousing reception by the boy farmers on the Children's Aid Society farm at New Hamburg, N. Y. The boys, all between the ages of 16 and 20, are mostly from crowded city tenements. They are being trained at the 300-acre farm as part of the President's "back-to-the-farm" movement.

Five farmers, leaders in the battle near Congdon's orchard, told their stories at a meeting with Sandvig.

On reaching the scene after the alarm, they said, there was no indication violence was planned, and the agitators were debating with farmers over wages, the latter maintaining they could not pay more with pears selling at such low prices.

"While we were talking, somebody cut loose with a club," one of the farmers said. "Then the rocks, clubs and blood began to fly. Young was the second farmer struck down. He dodged one blow and two agitators struck him from behind."

Agitators First Have Upper Hand

The agitators held the upper hand at first, as they had piled rocks along the highway and picked these up to throw as they retreated. When these were gone, the farmers charged, and the pickets were marched the five miles to the county jail, men armed with rocks, railroad spikes and pieces of auto top staves reinforced with bolts, continued to fight but were herded along with the rest.

In Yakima later, ten men beating exhorting by W. I. Fisher, one of the I. W. W. leaders, were arrested by city officers as they started to go to reinforce the group being brought to Yakima by the farmers.

Salt Lake Concert Of Choir Heard on Air by Fans Here

One of the most welcome radio programs of the year for many Salem families was the KFL Columbia network broadcast from Salt Lake City last night featuring Willamette university's Philharmonic choir. An half-hour concert of two groups of three and one group of two numbers was given by the choir which is en route home following a concert tour through the middle-west and a visit to the Century of Progress exposition in Chicago as official representatives of Oregon.

Salem friends who tuned in on the Salt Lake concert were enthusiastic over the music and the introduction given the choir. Reports had been received here earlier in the week that members public roads funds was also made by the commission and the bureau of public roads during the session today. The allocation, subject to change, would give $220,000 to the central Oregon highway between Drinkwater pass and Nigger flat, $65,000 to the Warm Springs highway between Agency and the Deschutes river, and $50,000 to the Idaho, Oregon and Nevada highway from McDermitt north.

Fred H. Slats of Portland was awarded the largest contract, that for the North Fork - Humburg mountain section of the Wolf Creek highway, 1.34 miles grading in Gatsop county at $124,950.

Other large contracts were awarded to Lindstrom & Feigenbaum, Portland, for approaches to the bridge over Loug's bay near Astoria at $118,680; Fisher Brothers of Oregon City for the Odell lake section of the Willamette highway in Klamath county, 4.26 miles grading at $95,752; and Theodore Arenz, Portland, the Dixie-Lime section of the Old of the organization, traveling by stage during the day and appearing in concert many of the evenings, were growing weary of the trip; listeners last night declared that the university musicians camouflaged their weariness well.

Oregon Trail, 4.09 miles grading in Baker county at $91,937.

14 Miles of Surfacing Let on McKenzie Road

Babler Bros. of Portland were awarded the contract for the Doyle hill-Nimrod section of the McKenzie highway, 14.24 miles bituminous macadam wearing surface in Lane county at $43,045; J. F. Forbes of Olympia, the Biggs-John Day river and Dillon sections of the Columbia river highway, 11.19 miles bituminous macadam wearing surface at $49,083.

Bullis & Reese of Corvallis were awarded the state highway project in Benton county known as the Summer creek-Lobster mountain secondary highway, one-half mile grading and 1.72 miles surfacing at $4667. Robert I. Wright of Jefferson will resurface the highway shops at Salem for $599.

1500 Pickers to Start Hop Work; Fuggles go First

Hop picking in the large Lakebrook fields north of Salem will get under way this morning, with about 1500 pickers employed. Harvest in the Russell and Jerman yards north of Salem started yesterday, and many other small yards over the valley are swelling into action on the fuggles and early clusters.

The late hops will not be ready for harvest until around September 1, and as the bulk of the hops grown around here are of that variety, the hop harvest will not be at its peak until that time.

STATE

Today—Warner Oland, June Collyer and Lloyd Hughes in "Drums of Jeopardy".
Saturday—Ken Maynard in "Texas Gunfighter".

Continuing to follow the newspaper headlines in the way of strong story material, Warner Bros. again presents a picture of timely interest in "The Mayor of Hell," the James Cagney starring vehicle which comes to the Elsinore theatre today.

In this picture, which is a startling revelation of the cruelties practiced upon boys in a reform school, abuses that match those of chain gang prison camps, James Cagney has his finest and strongest role up to date. The picture is an intensely human document with pathos and tragedy intermingled and scores of thrilling incidents in the picturesque background of a reformatory where half starved boys revolt and battle tyrannical guards.

Cooler Weather To Stay, Report

The cooler weather which Salem enjoyed yesterday will not change materially today and the humidity will continue low, according to the weather bureau forecast. Yesterday's maximum dropped to 85 degrees, eight below that of Wednesday and the minimum was down two degrees to 48.
