Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS
Satin is the biggest news note of the moment. In sleek black or one of the lustrous fall shades, this model would make up snugly for the matron. Its lines and details flatter and slenderize... note particularly the pointed seams and semi-belted waistline. A chic rever of contrast, novel sleeves and a front skirt panel claim distinction, too.

Pattern 1539 is available in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 takes four yards. 29-inch fabric and 5/8 yard contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with this pattern.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

THE ANNE ADAMS PATTERN BOOK features a charming collection of afternoon, sport, golf, tennis dresses, jumpers, house frocks, special business patterns, styles for juniors, and lovely clothes for youngsters, and instructions for making a chic evening dress. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Address orders to The Oregon Statesman Pattern Department, 248 West 17th St., New York City.

FARRAR MAY SERVE OUT TERM, IS VIEW

Democratic leaders here yesterday said they felt certain there would be no change in the Salem postmastership until July 1, 1934. Postmaster John Farrar's commission expires then. Farrar, under civil service for 10 years, will be eligible for a postal job. His retirement time is not far away.

Democrats most talked for the post are W. A. Delsell and Henry Crawford. Both have been active in their work for the party. Delsell recently won a position under Collector of Internal Revenue Maloney in Portland. Whether Delsell still wants the local post is not known. He served several years as secretary when Walter Pierce was governor and is very friendly with the congressman.

September 15 is Date of Douglas Harvest of Prune

The Douglas county prune crop, a bumper one this year, is quite late and will not see harvest until September 15, reports Earl Pearcey, Pearcey and H. R. Jones returned recently from British Columbia where they handled the dried blackcap and loganberry deals, respectively.

The blackcap harvest there was large and many were dried, but logans were short due to winter kill. Only a small amount of logans went for wine purposes this year, as the 1932 crop is still being aged for wine uses.

Child Army Aids Soviet War on Famine

Despite official denials of a threatened food shortage, Soviet authorities have taken extraordinary precautions to conserve the current wheat crop in Russia. An army of 100,000 children has been mobilized to aid the harvesting and to protect the crop against thieves. Stories are current of children causing the arrest of their own parents in line with their duty to the state. For this the children are rewarded with books and clothing. They are housed and fed on the Soviet collective farms, where their principle duty is to garner the kernels of wheat left behind by the reapers. It is significant that in the face of official denials of food shortage, the price of bread recently increased 100 per cent in Russia.

CONTRASTS VIEWED ON TRIP TO PARK

Bright patches of flowers blossoming within eight feet of a snowbank, blue heather, scarlet Indian paintbrush beside a stream—these are pictures stamped on the minds of Ed Daugherty, superintendent of mails at the Salem postoffice, and his son, James, age 15, after their recent visit to Jefferson park.

Over the 12 mile pathway, "well-cleared and good, for a mountain trail," Daugherty says, they hiked from Skiff's camp at Breitenbush where the Daugherty family was spending its vacation. After three hours in the federal preserve at the foot of Mt. Jefferson, the two returned by way of the same trail: a 24 mile trip by foot in the mountains and three hours in the park all in one day.

This was the sixth trip into the park for the elder Daugherty, who found it no less beautiful and interesting than his son who viewed it this year for the first time.

The Daugherty family returned Monday from Breitenbush, where they reported both camps to be doing a splendid vacation business.

County Plant To Handle Big Pack Tomatoes

A huge quantity of tomatoes will be put up by the county's portable cannery following a shutdown over Labor day, it was announced at relief headquarters yesterday. Quotas for individual families will be raised above the bean quotas when the tomatoes are preserved and the heavy canning schedule may call for night operation.

The string bean pack probably will be finished Thursday or Friday at Stayton where the cannery is now operating.
