McDowell meat market will be installed in its new location, 171 South Commercial, Tuesday morning, with removal to the new plant to be completed Sunday and Labor day. The new location will give the McDowell market the largest meat curing plant in town, and will more than double the capacity in the packing end of the plant.

A fireproof smokehouse has been constructed at the rear of the new building, which is just one door north of the old lecation. The curing department has been greatly enlarged, and all upto-the-minute equipment added, including a large separate cooler for bacons and an ice machine with five times capacity of the one which has been used. Three brothers, R. L. McDow-ell, Clay McDowell and O. C. Mc-Dowell, are proprietors of the market, which was founded 14 years ago when their late father was also one of the proprietors. The new plant is in the building recently purchased by Dr. E. G.
