14 Killed in World Fair Excursion Wreck

Rescuers are pictured removing the bodies of victims from the smashed wooden coaches of the Erie excursion train, in which 14 people were almost instantly killed and 75 others seriously injured, when it was run down by a fast milk train near Binghamton, N. Y. The passenger train was homeward bound from Chicago, loaded with excursionists returning from a visit to the Century of Progress exposition. The crash occurred as the passenger train was halted by a warning block signal and the milk train piled into its rear end. The terrific impact of the milk train's engine drove eight steel coaches forward, telescoping the only wooden coach and reducing it to kindling and crashing onward into the steel coaches ahead. Most of the dead were found in the debris of the wooden coach. This photo was taken at night while semi-panic still gripped the passengers and spectators. International Illustrated News Photo.

NEED HOP PICKERS AT INDEPENDENCE

With growers rushing to complete picking of cluster hops, J. E. Coater, special agent for the U. S. employment service, yesterday broadcast a hurry call for approximately 100 families who own camping equipment including tents and are prepared to go to work in the yards around Independence within the next two or three days. He advised single men not to seek the jobs since no camping facilities are available for them.

To obviate the necessity of applicants going to Independence, Mr. Coater announced that prospective pickers could obtain information regarding the jobs by telephoning 67-J at Independence. He said applicants properly equipped would then be directed to the yards most convenient to them.

Mr. Coater estimated that 500 pickers would be employed at once in the Independence yards due to departure of many during the rain early this week and to growers' desire to harvest the cluster crop as speedily as possible.

GRADS RETURN FOR PRACTICE TEACHING

1930 Valedictorian one of Three From Salem High Chosen for Tasks

Three Salem high school graduates will return to Salem high as collegiate practice teachers this fall. All three were graduated with the class of June, 1930, and one held the highest scholastic honors in the class. That Savilla Phelps, the valedictorian of her high school class, has maintained an excellent standing as a Willamette university student is emphasized in her selection as one of the twelve practice teachers this year.

Since Oregon high school teaching requirements were revised a few years ago to include supervised practice teaching, applicants for practice teaching opportunities in Salem high school have been far beyond any possibility of acceptance. Selection of students to do this work is made by Dean F. M. Erickson of the university in conjunction with the heads of the various university departments and high school authorities and is based upon grade records and personality of applicants.

In addition to Miss Phelps, Edythe Glaiyer and Dorothy Dalk of the 1930 high school class here will be teaching this fall in the local school.

Other practice teachers appointed include Luggie Miles, Margaret Morris, Carolyn Schneider, Mrs. Virginia Kaiser, Alice Wiens, Kathleen Skinner, Herbert Hardy, Claud Cooke and Marie Ledbetter. Twelve others will be appointed to carry on the work during the second semester.

Laundrymen of City Gather to Talk Over Code

Half a dozen Salem laundrymen met at the chamber of commerce last night with T. A. Windshar, local NRA officer, and E. L. Weider, Oregon representative of the national laundrymen's association, to discuss desired features of a code of fair competition for the industry. Mr. Weider is obtaining similar information over the state to submit at Portland when suggested points for the code for this region are drawn up to be sent to the national officers. It is expected the national officers will submit their code to General Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, at Washington, D. C., within two weeks.

Rough Bumps at Fairground Fail To Conquer Reid

Despite having been thrown against a fence corner and flag pole when he attempted to ride a Brahma steer on the rodeo program at the state fair Thursday night, Ned Reid from near Hopewell probably will be able to return to the fairgrounds today, the attending physician reported last night. He said Reid's injuries consisted solely of severe bruises and two cracked ribs.

L. L. Lake, Medford buckaroo, who suffered a brain injury as the result of being thrown from a bucking horse Monday night, was last night on the road to recovery, his physician believed.

The prickly pear or Indian fig is the only wild cactus found in Michigan.
