NEWEST FALL STYLES DIFFERENT AND GAY

Knit Wear Reigns Supreme in Sporting Ensembles For School

Now is the time when all girls of college age are turning speculative eyes on their new fall wardrobes. Perhaps it won't be greatly augmented, but a few new gowns or accessories will blossom in practically every girl's closet this school season. To the entering freshman, this clothes problem is often a very real one. What do girls wear on the campus? How many of each type of dress do they need? What is being worn this fall and winter in materials, lines, and accessories?

To the gay, eager little freshman entering college this fall these three articles are dedicated, in the hope that they may be of assistance in making her a well-dressed Willamette, Oregon or Oregon State coed.

Satin Popular

Let's first attack the general problem of fabrics, lines and types of collegiate attire. Satin in glossy black and rich fall colors is the prime fabric this fall for informal and formal wear. It monopolizes the evening dress field, has a solid standing with afternoon dresses and even appears as trimming on suits or in jacket form over woolen dresses. Primarily, though, satin is dressy. Sheer crepes stand next in silk preference, often combined with woollens.

And speaking of woollens, knit suits of strikingly new design are walking away with the sport honors this fall. Beautiful, heavy bouclés, long-haired finishes, in a lighter tone than the woolen itself with a fuzzy frosted effect, the latter often appearing as shoulder or sleeve trimming. Cheeks, woven pla dots, and small crossbars will be very popular in subdued colors. Tweeds, some in large plaid designs that require only three stripes to a back, make up a delightful range of sporty group of swaggar suits and the like.

The Figure Is Slim

General lines haven't changed much since last fall. The figure must still be slim, with emphasis on sleeves and high necks and plain straight skirts. As to the skirt lengths, eleven to twelve inches from the ground is accepted for daytime wear, active sports a bit shorter and evening at the instep or heel. Formals that sweep the floor are stunning but highly impractical on a crowded college dance floor. The hem is soiled before the evening is half over and very often torn. The shoulder line which points slightly upward and outward is very good, and appears in dress wear, suits and coats. It is both youthful and slenderizing.

Very often entering freshmen are taken aback at the strictly sports clothes worn to classes. Flat heeled shoes, woolen dresses, little if any jewelry may seem drab at first. But they are practical, sturdy ideas and after a few months dress clothes in the classroom look completely out of place.

(The second article of this series deals with actual ensembles found in Salem shops.)

Miss Margaret Batchelder of Washington county won high honors in the dollar dinner contests which were held each day of the state fair. Miss Margaret Cypher, Washington county, was second; Miss Lavon Sayre, Sherman county, third; Miss Olive Steen, Portland, fourth; and Miss Barbara Jacoby, Lincoln county, fifth. In these contests the girls prepared the menu for four persons, within a maximum cost of one dollar.

Kingwood. — Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Emmett entertained at dinner Wednesday honoring the birthday anniversaries of their son Wendell and their house guest, C. W. Emmett of Los Angeles, who is a brother of this host.

Covers were placed for the honored guests and for Mrs. C. F. Emmett of Salem, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Coffel, Miss Hattie Emmett, Roy L. Jenks, Melbourne Jenks, Corval Binegar, Lyle Lutz and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett.

The descendants of Samuel Solomon and Isaac Allen met at Hazel Green park, six miles north-east of Salem, last week for their second annual reunion. About 50 members attended. The next meeting will be at Dallas in the city park, the first Sunday in September, 1934.

Miss Sidwell Married To Mr. Crow

One of the prettiest of early fall weddings this season took place Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock when Miss Louisa Sidwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Sidwell, became the bride of Melvin Crow of Lostine.

The ceremony was read before a pink and white floral altar flanked with stately candelabra burning seven white tapers, at the home of the bride's parents in Portland.

Rev. D. A. Thompson of Portland officiated in the presence of friends and relatives.

The bride was lovely in an afternoon frock of eggshell pebble crepe with long sleeves and pearl accessories. She carried a bouquet of roses and sweet peas. Her sister, Miss Edith Sidwell, attended her and wore a green crepe afternoon gown and carried pink sweet peas. Warner Crow acted as best man for his brother.

Miss Nova Hedlin played the wedding march and Prof. Cameron Marshall sang "At Dawning" preceding the ceremony.

The rooms of the Sidwell residence were decorated profusely with palms fern and greenery intertwined with pink and white ribbon streamers. Baskets of gladioli and chrysanthemums were placed artistically about.

For a going away ensemble Mrs. Crow chose a brown swaggar suit with brown accessories. Following the wedding a reception was held with Miss Florence Marshall, Miss Margaret Purvine, Miss Helen Boardman and Miss Nova Hedlin serving. Mrs. F. A. Elliott and Mrs. D. A. Thompson poured and little Louise Knauff helped serve the wedding cake.

The table was covered with an exquisite lace cloth and was centered with a huge wedding cake made in the shape of a ring. It was covered with silver sparkles and had a bouquet of roses in the center. White tapers were at either end of the table.

Following a short wedding trip the couple will make their home in Lostine, where Mr. Crow is in business.

The bride is a graduate of Willamette university and is a member of Beta Chi sorority and Alpha Kappa Nu honorary.

Mr. Crow also attended Willamette and is affiliated with Alpha Psi Delta fraternity.
