Three Cars Tangled—Fenders of three automobiles were banged up in a triple mishap in front of the McKay Chevrolet company building yesterday afternoon. According to reports made to police, a car driven by J. H. Hardin, 545 Chemeteta, struck a parked machine belonging to F. W. Mahoney, Gervais, shoving it against another parked machine belonging to R. T. Ure, Eugene. Other mishaps reported involved: Harold D. McMillin, route five, and an unidentified motorist, at Trade and Front; V. A. Wenzel, 570 North 14th, and Knute H. Anderson, 557 South 23rd; Andrew F. Schmidt, Gervais, and Bertha King, Sublimity, at Court and Commercial. No injuries were listed.

Doctor Disappears—Salem police yesterday had given up hope of locating Dr. George McHaffey, Portland, who was reported to have disappeared from his room at the New Salem hotel last Saturday. McHaffey had come here with his housekeeper, Mrs. Nettie Clifton, to seek a certificate to practice in Oregon. Mrs. Clifton, after reporting McHaffey's disappearance, returned to Portland.

Annual Bargain Period. For a limited time The Oregon Statesman by mail to any address in Oregon Only $3.00 per year.

Wife Comes—Mrs. Ruth Grindol, widow of Paul Grindol who died at his residence on route 3 on September 17, is hastening to Salem from her home in Hot Springs, Arkansas. She is expected here Friday where she will make the final funeral arrangements.

Judge Wood Assigned—Assignment of Circuit Judge W. W. Wood of Ontario in Baker county in which Judge C. H. McCulloch has been disqualified, was announced by Chief Justice J. L. Rand of the state supreme court.

Scio Man Fined—Municipal Judge Paulsen yesterday imposed a $5 fine upon John H. Parsons, Scio route three, who was arrested by city police on a charge of driving recklessly. Parsons paid $3 down and promised to send in the balance October 10.

Visiting Schools—County Superintendent Mary L. Fulkerson and Wayne Harding, rural school supervisor, were visiting schools in the far eastern section of the county yesterday.

COMMITTEE PICKS COMPLIANCE BOARD

Selection of the local Compliance Board, work of which is enforcement of the NRA code, was made late yesterday afternoon by the committee designated by General Johnson. The Compliance members chosen are:

Charles F. Davis, representing employes in industrial labor; Loyd A. Warner, representing employes in retail and wholesale trades; W. W. Rosebraugh, representing industrial employers; E. W. Acklin, representing retail and wholesale trades; Mrs. David Wright, consumers' representative and William P. Ellis, representing the bar.

These six members will meet today and select a seventh member of the board, who will serve as chairman.

With selection of this board, all future complaints will be submitted to it.

"Anyone now displaying the Blue Eagle is presumed to be complying with NRA regulations until the eagle is taken away," William P. Ellis, "general" of the Salem NRA campaign stated yesterday. He urged against spreading unfounded rumors injurious to NRA members, as such may be based on suspicion rather than fact.

"Those persons who feel they have just complaints against NRA members should bring supporting facts to the NRA headquarters where they will be referred to the Compliance Board."

This new NRA board's function will include regulation, education, conciliation and mediation in:

1. Complaints of non-cooperation.

2. Petitions for exceptions under paragraph 14 of the general code.

3. Petitions for permission to operate on longer hour schedule of existing union contracts in president's agreement.

The board will convene when necessary to take testimony and to hear sides of both employer and employee in disputes which come before it.

Planned Scheme Prohibited Here Says Van Winkle

Attorney General Van Winkle issued an opinion Wednesday against the operation in Oregon of the Idaho Benevolent society and similar societies having for their purpose the protection of families of members. Each member would contribute $1.10 when a death occurs in the group of a hundred, sending $100 to the family and $10 for expenses.

Van Winkle stated this type of insurance is prohibited under the Oregon statute. The opinion was requested by A. H. Averill, state insurance commissioner.

Bone Is Broken In Car Collision

Mrs. A. A. Gersch of Scotts Mills suffered a broken collar bone and bruises yesterday morning when the car in which she was riding collided at Lonesome Pine corners with a machine driven by E. F. Hubbard of Corvallis, says a report filed with the sheriff. The accident occurred at 6:30 a. m.

Ambrose Gersch, 22, driver, and Leo Gersch, 15, also received injuries, including a scalp wound and bruised knee, respectively.

Deadline on Wheat Signup Approaches

September 25 Final day for Joining Three-Year Program, Word

September 25 is the deadline for the wheat sign-up. This definite information from the wheat administration is now being broadcast to every section of the state by the Oregon State college extension service, in charge of the wheat campaign under the farm adjustment act, in order that no wheat grower who would profit by the terms of a government contract will not have an opportunity to join in this voluntary movement to boost the wheat farmers' income.

Special emphasis is being laid on the fact that while the present wheat plan is a three-year program, this is the final opportunity for a grower to join, as after September 25 the lists will be closed until the expiration of the contracts after the harvest of the 1935 crop.

By "deadline" the government means that applications for allotments under the plan must be made by September 25, and not that the actual contracts must be signed. The final contracts themselves need not be in Washington on 11 December 1. Furthermore, final county organizations and actual allotments need not be completed till after the deadline date.

Latest reports to headquarters at Corvallis show that in the principal wheat counties in eastern Oregon the actual sign-up included 50 to 60 per cent of the growers a week ago, and that by the final day next Monday most of the real wheat counties will show more than 90 per cent sign-up.

In some of the western Oregon counties where wheat production is more incidental or where much of the wheat produced is used locally for feed, the interest is not as great, though even there farmers are finding that they can profit by signing up and getting the assured cash benefit payments in return for taking 16 per cent of their average wheat acreage out of that crop.

Schramm Okehs Plan at Albany For New Bank

The application of Albany citizens for establishment of the Bank of Albany was approved Wednesday by A. A. Schramm, state superintendent of banks. This will be the first bank to be organized under state charter since the March moratorium.

The capital stock of the new bank will be $50,000, representing 500 shares, and a list of 96 subscribers was submitted to the banking department. The application for the charter was signed by Fred H. Foster, T. B. C. E. and E. B. Williamson.

Schramm said that "since the purpose of the organization is to take over a part of the assets and liabilities of the Albany State bank, which is now operating under restriction, the statute provides that legal publication of the application is not necessary." The next step is the filing of articles of incorporation and the perfecting of the new organization.

The application was endorsed on behalf of residents and citizens of the city of Albany by the following: F. H. Pfeiffer, W. M. Cook, D. S. Holloway, J. J. Newman, R. R. Cronise, T. D. Spilde, B. F. Kirk, J. L. Stuart, J. H. Allison, J. Deo McClain.
