FALL FASHION WEEK

Miller's Fall Opening windows for men will feature the newest fashions in "SAWYER-SPUN" suits. A correct fashion story.

SAWYER-SPUN SUITS for Fall

SAWYER-SPUN is an exact duplication of the famous North Carolina homespun, marvelously similar in texture, rich colorings and hand-loomed appearance. It even has the rugged, long wearing "double-twist warp" construction. The principal difference is that Sawyer-Spun is power loomed.

Sawyer-Spun suits are precise reproductions of New Haven custom tailors' models—even to the "soft tailoring" that assures the casual, custom-look.

Year after year men who patronize the expensive custom tailors wear suits of Carolina homespun... and year after year men who want the same smart appearance and the same long wear, but whose incomes are more modest, wear Sawyer-Spuns.

We're proud to sell them. Miller's men's and boys' departments may be depended upon for reliable qualities in clothing, furnishings, shoes, etc.

Answering Your Clothes Queries with Paris Authority

Fall Fashion Week clears all perplexities. Our parade of Paris copies is the answer in a glance to all your fashion questions. Are skirts longer? Yes, one or two inches longer depending on previous lengths. Are sleeves still big? They may be wide or plain, but shoulders must look wide. What about necklines? Necklines are even higher than last year, but strangely, they are more wearable. Any change in silhouette? It's slimmer than ever with fullness low placed, and it's called the sheath silhouette. Are there any new fabrics? Yes! Bengaline and faille are new, and there are several new velvets and woolsens. What colors are smartest? Eel gray, oxford, black, rhumba brown, olivette and rust. Is it a wearable mode? Decidedly! Try on some new things and see for yourself.—MILLER'S.
