

Oregon Normal Defeats Stagg's Eleven by 12-0 Score

TALKIES MADE BY AIR ROUTE

Teachers Score on Pass of Their own and Another Tossed by Pacific

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 22.—(AP)—The Pacific coast debut of Amos Alonzo Stagg, veteran coach, was turned into a rout for his College of the Pacific team when Oregon Normal school put over two touchdowns for a 12 to 0 victory. Both scores were by the air route, the latter by way of an intercepted pass.

The team from Stockton that Stagg took under his direction after coaching 41 years at the University of Chicago displayed a well planned offensive that made it a constant scoring threat, but the closest they could get to the goal line was 14 yards, in the first quarter.

In the final period, with the score 6 to 0 against them, Stagg's boys unleashed a passing attack that brought them within 20 yards of a touchdown, but as they tried for the final pass, an Oregon Normal player intercepted, and ran 60 yards for his team's second score.

The Teachers earned their first touchdown. At the start of the third period, Scroggins, Oregon Normal right halfback, returned Hamilton's kickoff from the 24 yard line to the 34. After Graham was held twice for no gains, Scroggins picked up 14 yards on a fake reverse. On the next play Scroggins passed 20 yards to Phillips, who raced the remaining 25 yards for the score. Allen's kick was blocked.

As the final period started, College of the Pacific opened up with a passing barrage that carried them quickly from their own 25 yard line to the Teachers' 20. Then Wilson shot a pass to one of his men who was standing, apparently alone, behind the line of scrimmage and at the extreme side of the field.

Scroggins dashed up, gathered in the pass, and raced 60 yards for a touchdown. No College of the Pacific man was in front of him as he grabbed the ball, and he had a clear path to the goal line.

Wilson stood out for the visitors and Scroggins and Graham for the Teachers.

Fair Outlook For Football At Woodburn

WOODBURN, Sept. 22 — In preparation for another season on the football field, athletes at Woodburn high school have been out limbering up for a couple of days. Although the turnout that has greeted Coach Gil Oddie so far this season is not large, there are a number of veterans out, so that prospects for the season are fairly good. Oddie has been getting his men through training routines of blocking, tackling, kicking and running, and is already beginning to mold his 1933 first string.

There are a number of lettermen back this year. With four seasoned half-backs and blockers in the backfield, Oddie needs only to polish up these men for their season's work. There are Skiller and Bobby Boyle at half-back, both fast and capable men. Halter, tough little fullback, will be back, as will Jackson, alternate quarterback of last year.

The center of the line will be plugged by Mel Block, two-year letterman. At either side of Block will probably be Chrisman and Conyne, although there are several other candidates. Pete Larson, a big tackle, is on hand. George Koch probably will be worked in at the other tackle, although he may retain his former job at guard. The ends are still a matter of conjecture. Gustafson and Brachmann seem to be the most likely candidates so far. Sinram, a speedster wingman, has not yet returned to school, although it is thought that he will report soon. Beckman, McCord, Livesey, Babe Boyle, and Arlie Skiller, are all promising candidates.

The schedule of games has not yet been finished, but it is quite definite that the first game of the season will be with West Linn, at West Linn.

Presenting California's Golden Bears of 1933

Coach "Navy Bill" Ingram of the University of California at Berkeley isn't saying much about his team chances this year, but keen observers have pointed out that they're just the kind of an outfit to step out and beat the best eleven on the coast. A few of the stars pictured above, left to right: Joe Verdunco, quarterback; Howard Christie, center; and Charles Bertoli, fullback, who is pointed for places this season. Lower, from left: John Kamsome, who captains the squad and plays left tackle; Arleigh Williams, left half; Howard Morris, left guard; and Will Boone, right tackle.

CURT COMMENTS

Three rather prominent members of the Astoria high school football squad have turned in their suits because, according to Jack Routh who writes a column in the Astorian-Budget and used to live in Salem, they disagreed with the coach about the hours they should practice. Jack doesn't say who they are, but we have a notion we could mention the name of one of the three. Anyway the impression appears to be that these boys thought they were indispensable and could dictate to "Honorable John" Warren. And we also could make a pretty fair guess on how far they got with that.

Salem high has a fair chance to resume its string of victories over Albany high, broken last year after—well, how many years was it? Thirteen or so. It won't be easy, so long as Coach Carl Ellingson is on the job at Albany, but we observe that he has only seven lettermen to start the new season. Among the missing are Dick Barnes, quarterback; Lewis Bayne, fullback; Paul Bates, halfback, and from the line: Holloway, Van Nuy, Kieblock, Patterson, Baker, White, Moule, Watson and Johnson.

Frita Kramer at Eugene also claims to have a green team, with no lettermen in the front wall. Eugene is playing Jefferson high of Portland, state title claimants for the last two years. One of the odd things about the game is that the Mercer brothers, well known here both for football and basketball prowess, will be playing against each other. One stayed at Eugene and the other moved to Portland and earned himself a place on the Jefferson eleven.

It seems that Harry Plant has handed us a job. It's nice to see our name blaring forth in fairly large type from posters around town, just as though we were important, so we'll accept the job even though Harry didn't ask us beforehand.

It's this way, Al Karasick and Ted Thyre are announced as the main events at the army wrestling show next Tuesday night and Bob Philpot and Tuffy Davis will provide the 30-minute fracas, but Harry won't tell who the one-hour boys are. He asks the fans to make a guess; and if anyone guesses correctly he gets four ringside seats for this show. Guesses are to be handed to us; that's where we get the publicity. If so many fans pick the participants correctly that there are no ringside seats left to be sold for cash, Harry will be out of luck. But then there are so many wrestlers who might be placed in the one-hour spot, that we doubt whether Harry will be embarrassed in that manner. He hasn't taken us into his confidence, so don't ask us for any tips.

While on the subject of wrestling, we beg to differ with those fans, not numerous but noisy, who objected to Onas Olson's work as referee last Tuesday. We thought Onas did an extraordinarily good job; but he was under a handicap because the fans knew him too well. An arbiter is just like a prophet in that respect; it takes a stranger to command the respect of a crowd.

It has been four years since Willamette scored on the Orangemen and longer than that since they held the big school to less than four touchdowns, though last year the first half was scoreless.

This year, however, Oregon State is taking on a bigger assignment, playing both Willamette and Southern Oregon Normal the same afternoon. The Sons' game is at 1:30 and that with Willamette at about 3:30. Coach Lon

The capacity of the park is about 18,000 and after 20,000 had crowded through the turnstiles, ticket-selling was stopped.
