Steel Workers Idle in West Virginia; Claim Code Violation

In the same city acid was hurried through a window of the home of a foreman of the Pennsylvania Sugar company where employees are on strike. Bakeries delivered bread under police guard against striking truck drivers.

Silk Plants Continue Operation
Paterson, N. J., silk plants operated in defiance of picketing. At Hazelton, Pa., silk workers on strike protested against Mayor Alvan Ryan's orders forbidding picketing.

In Belleville, Ill., employees of an electrical appliance factory returned to work after a one-day walkout. Unionization problems were composed by the NRA mediation board.
One of Philadelphia's strikes was settled when 400 employees of a ball bearing manufacturing plant won demands for a one-day week, union shop and a 20 per cent minimum increase in pay.

DISTRICT BOARD MEETS AT BAKER

Local compliance boards which will be urged to handle all cases requiring adjudication wherever possible to prevent "jammings" of the district office with complaints that can be settled locally.
The members were guests of Leo Adler, president of the Baker chamber of commerce at luncheon this noon and were guests of the chamber at dinner tonight. Later tonight a mass meeting was to be held in the library auditorium to present NRA plan to local residents.

place. Due to the sudden change in prices, the corps, unformed, was unable to play a farewell number.

A full schedule of public appearances will face the corps upon its arrival in Chicago Sunday morning. That day will be spent in having the new uniforms, underwritten by Salem men, fitted. Monday and Tuesday it will make numerous appearances, including the convention parade and playing at the Century of Progress Tuesday. Manager Tom Hill said last night it was expected the corps would play several times over national radio networks, possibly giving local folk an opportunity to hear it. The program at the world's fair is scheduled to start at 7 p. m., PST, Tuesday. Wednesday night the corps will defend its title against the 11 best of some 400 corps competing. After two days' sightseeing, the Salem players will begin the return journey, one week from Saturday.

The auxiliary trio is composed of the same women as last year, Mrs. Wyatt, Mrs. Bernice Bove and Miss Grace Zosel with Miss Lena Belle Tartar as director. The fourth member of the quartet is Mrs. Arline Brown, while Edith Findley, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. M. C. Findley, is accompanist.

FORD WILL REVISE PLANT WORK WEEK

The Ford company's Edgewater assembly plant.
A five-day week, a seven-hour day and a daily minimum of $5 are among the demands of the strikers who voted to walk out this afternoon.

Their number is estimated by Finley MacDonald, secretary of the Edgewater Soc. of United Automobile Workers' union, at 600. Ford officials still maintain not more than 100 of the plant's 2200 workers are on strike.
James Dunphy of Philadelphia, who led the throng which came here in automobiles from Chester, said it was the intention of his followers to "tie up every Ford plant on the eastern seaboard."

CHESTER, Pa., Sept. 28 — (AP) — Strike leaders at the Ford assembling plant in Chester tonight said they would attempt to organize a motor cavalcade of pickets to "march" on the main plant at Detroit.
About 1200 of the strikers and others in 200 automobiles today motored to the Edgewater (N. J.) plant, and claim to have persuaded 500 to 600 workers there to strike.

Various Taxes Proposed to Raise State's Portion Of Relief Fund

A proposal that a capital levy of 2 per cent be made as a means of raising funds was defeated by a vote of 17 to 4.
The committee suggested, in addition to its other proposals, that the legislature consider the advisability of referring legislation to the people in the May primary. On motion of C. A. Howard, state superintendent of public instruction, school relief was also recommended to the lawmakers for consideration.

About one-half of the anticipated revenues from the special relief taxes would be raised under the plan submitted by the subcommittee charged with investigating means of meeting relief needs.
A tax on beer and wine and on hard liquor in the event of prohibition repeal was estimated to bring in $2,550,000.

Many Measures Are Proposed
Other measures suggested included: An increase in the state's share of pari-mutuel betting from 2 1/2 per cent to 10 per cent, estimated to raise $500,000; a tax on prize fights, wrestling matches and similar athletic exhibitions, revenue not estimated; amendment of the state income tax law to confine consideration to losses to the current year in which the loss is reported, estimated revenue, $100,000; amendment of the intangible and excise tax laws by cutting exemptions to 50 per cent of the present amounts, estimated revenues, $100,000; a graduated automobile license fee which would take into consideration age and value, estimated revenue, $500,000; repeal of house bill 519, passed at the last legislature, thereby returning accounts receivable to be classified as personal property, provision for a nominal severance tax on timber, ores and rock from mineral revenues; unestimated; provisions for installment paying of taxes; recommendation for issuance of state highway bonds to finance revenue relief in event other revenue measures fail to meet the need, the bonds to be retired from revenues from liquor taxes, a plan in which county roads would be eligible for highway work; a vigorous but inoffensive campaign for the payment of taxes; a request that the state tax commission study the possibility of raising additional money for adjusting the property offset features of the intangibles and excise taxes; a recommendation that the legislature refer a constitutional amendment next May to carry out the grant idea for issuing warrants to counties by the state against delinquent taxes.

STATE BAR MEETS
BEHN, Ore., Sept. 28. — (AP) — The annual convention of the Oregon State Bar association is scheduled to open here tomorrow. It is expected that at least 200 attorneys, from all parts of the state will be here for the meeting.

EXTRA SESSION IS NOT LIKELY
taking the lead, of the $6000 to $8000 extra expenditure involved in the one week's deliberations. This time it is apparent the executive office will seek proof positive that there is overwhelming public demand for a special session, a demand which will approve the expense involved and will put the impetus of emergency behind the usually slow deliberations of legislators.
It was clear yesterday that there would be a special session and it was equally definite that the governor thinks the need of the state for new taxes to handle relief this winter and a law to provide for disbursing the relief funds, were both pressing. But there must be more discussion, more crystallization of sentiment, more unification of views before the expense to the taxpayer begins.

"Modern Medley" Is Play Choice For First Show

"Modern Medley," prize-winning comedy-drama of the national play-writing contest conducted by Johns Hopkins university "playshop" two years ago, written by Diana Rogge of Baltimore, Md., has been selected as the opening offering of Chemekeka players, Salem's own play producers, which group reorganized Wednesday night in Nelson auditorium.
Casting of parts for this production will be the business of this evening at Nelson auditorium. Salem's intimate theatre. Young men and women and older persons suitable for character parts are cordially invited to come.
"Los Gringos," a three-act historical romance of early California, written by Wesley Dexter Gordon, former Willamette student, is scheduled for the second production, and casting on this play will be taken up at once.

FORMER PRESIDENT VISITS BIRTHPLACE
DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 28 — (AP) — With a conspicuous smile which Iowans did not see a year ago when he visited Des Moines to make the initial speech of his campaign for reelection, former President Herbert Hoover returned today for a brief visit with friends.
Arriving shortly after noon, Mr. and Mrs. Hoover, together with Arthur Hyde, former secretary of agriculture, had luncheon at the home of N. Darling, cartoonist, and left for Trenton, Mo., Hyde's home, later.
The former president maintained his air of detachment from public affairs with the remark, "I am making no statements, granting no interviews, and expressing no opinion on any public matters."
He inquired into general conditions in Iowa cities and agricultural centers and repeated the opinion he has expressed frequently before that "agricultural prosperity is the basis of all other recovery."
Mr. Hoover added he was an "interested observer" and is "occupying his own watch tower."
He declared that "after 50 years of active life, I'm taking up seriously the business of enjoying myself." He added he had particularly enjoyed his visit today to his birthplace at West Branch and the renewing of old friendships there.
When complimented on his general appearance of heartiness as compared with conditions a year ago, Mr. Hoover replied with a smile that "there is a tremendous amount of responsibility" connected with the office of president.

Big Lumber Bill For 3 C Camps

One of the largest single orders ever placed for lumber will be made when the forest conservation corps accepts a bid for the 250,000,000 feet of lumber which it will use to construct winter camps for the corps workers. Robert Fechner, conservation director, stated that this order was expected to give an added stimulus to the lumber market.
1,466 winter camps which will house the 250,000 corps workers will be constructed in the northern states with this lumber.
