score of 93.98. Marlboro, Mass., took first with a score of 96.15.

Attired in white and gold cadet uniforms, the Salem corps made a dazzling spectacle against the newly laid football turf in Soldiers field, while overhead a full moon cast a silvery light on the scene.

Contest Four Hours Long: Wind bitter at night. The contest required more than four hours and when it was over the crowd hustled from the stadium to escape the chilly north wind that had been blowing all evening.

Miami, Fla., with a score of 92.55 headed the list of 11 qualifiers to compete in the finals against the national American Legion champion drum and bugle corps from Salem, at Soldiers field.

Germantown, Pa., was second high in the eliminations with a score of 92.725, and was one of the four Pennsylvania outfits to reach the finals:

Others to qualify were: La Porte, Ind., 92.53; Marlboro, Mass., 92.47; Greensburg, Pa., 92.33; Danville, Ill., 92.29; Uniontown, Pa., 92.28; Trammitt, Pa., 92.28; Knoxville, Ia., 92.045; Elvira, O., 91.815; Seattle, Wash., 91.846.

Department Commander Harold J. Warner, ranking officer of Oregon legionnaires, will present a blanket woven by Indians of his state to the American Legion's retiring chief, National Commander Louis Johnson, at the order's convention tomorrow.

The blanket carries the legion's insignia. Today Commander Warren accepted for Mayor Joseph K. Carson, Jr., a plaque commemorating the legion's visit to Portland in 1932. Johnson, making the presentation, expressed appreciation of the hospitality accorded the order by the Oregon city.

3 National Honors Come to Salem. The Oregon contingent counted three convention honors tonight. Its women's auxiliary had won the national championships in trio and quartet competition, and the national poppy poster contest.

Both the trio and quartet are from Salem. Mrs. Grace Zosel, Mrs. Bernice Bove and Mrs. Mildred Wyatt compose the trio, and they with Mrs. A. Irene Brown, make up the quartet. The musical groups are directed by Miss Leas Bell Tarter, with Miss Edith Findley as accompanist.

Oregon's 13 votes in the convention election will go to Edward

Tremblors Renew Attack on Los Angeles

One person died of fright and eleven persons were treated for injuries as the result of a sharp earthquake which struck Los Angeles and vicinity Sunday night. Damages to buildings were slight, being confined to the older structures of the city. Above photo shows one of the buildings which received the brunt of the shock at Fifty-fourth and Central avenue in the southeastern section of the city.

CASH BONUS NOT TO GET LEGION'S OKEH

injured or diseased in military service, the plan would restore all benefits removed or reduced under the economy act of last March, which trimmed $300,000,000 a year from such payments.

Widows and orphans likewise would be provided as they were prior to the economy act. The legionnaires at a business session of their 15th annual convention today adopted a child welfare program, selected Miami, Fla., for the 1934 convention and took action that would make more rigid the regulations forbidding legion officials to take part in politics.

"The American Legion shall be absolutely non-political and shall not be used for the dissemination of partisan principles nor for the promotion of the candidacy of any person seeking public office or preferment," declared the amendment adopted for addition to the legion constitution.

National Commander Louis A. Johnson, called upon the legionnaires to line up behind the legion's program of "country before self." He declared there was nothing to be gained and much to be lost in fighting the national economy act. The legion has gained great public favor, he said, because it refused to make attacks on the new administration when the act was passed.

The bonus was disposed of with apparent finality today when a legislative committee turned down resolutions from six states—Illinois, Missouri, South Dakota, Texas, Michigan and Pennsylvania—urging immediate payment.

BRUERE SLATED TO HEAD CREDIT PLAN

As on his appearance in a Park avenue hotel, where he delivered his speech, the president was greeted with cheers and shouts of acclaim as he motored from New York to Jersey City, where his train waited.

With Mr. Roosevelt on the motor trip to Jersey City was Monsignor Edward K. Keegan, president of the national conference of charities, whose concluding session he addressed.

Christie, under questioning by Pecora, disclosed that eleven of the partners in the firm sold to the brokerage house of Dominick and Dominick many thousand shares at less than the market price.

Approximately 74,000 shares of United States and Foreign common were handled through the brokerage firm and 50,000 shares were sold in the open market subsequently, Pecora developed in his conduct of the inquiry.

Christie followed Clarence Dillon, the senior partner and president of the private banking house to the witness stand. Dillon told the committee he favored greater publicity on the operations of corporations and banks. His suggestions on this point adhered closely to the views the administration experts now studying formation of a committee to consider methods of regulating the stock exchange.

Pecora, pushing his questions determinedly at Christie, brought before the committee testimony that 11 of the partners sold common stock in the United States and Foreign Securities corporation at an average of $53 for shares which cost company participants originally 29 cents each.

Christie said approximately 74,000 shares were disposed of.

nunciation of the handling of the $3,300,000,000 public works program with its potential millions of jobs.

The resolution which they asked the convention to approve said that "through the laxity or the inefficiency of those entrusted with the expenditure of the money," thousands of industrial workers "are in suffering and want."

The resolution proposed an appeal to President Roosevelt "for the removal of those public officials who either through their laxity or the inefficiency are responsible for much of the present unemployment unless those now in charge can show their willingness to carry out the intent of congress."

Secretary Ickes, who is administrator of the public works fund, recently said the blame lay in the slowness of state and local authorities and not in federal red tape.

Labor Organizations To Be Blessed, She Says. Asserting "the voluntary organization of labor for mutual help, strength and experience will prove under able leadership to be a blessing," Miss Perkins disclosed for the first time that a division of labor service and labor standards was to be established in the department of labor with the full approval of President Roosevelt.

The department of labor stands ready to carry its responsibilities in enlarging the opportunities for labor to enjoy a fair share of the hoped for national well being," she said. "Not only must it make employers aware of the necessity for providing fully and equitably for the wage earners, but it must be ready to provide information, service and help to labor in its own program of solving problems and improving conditions for workers."

"These things can be achieved," she added, "if industry recognizes that workers must receive increased wages and shorter hours of work in fair proportion as profits increase."

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Oct. 5.—(Thursday) — (AP) — President Roosevelt left on a special train for Washington shortly after midnight today after calling for a redoubling of efforts until recovery is complete in the first speech he has made in New York city since he entered the White House.

The president's party was joined, shortly before the train left, by Henry Bruere, New York banker who is expected to become the coordinator of Mr. Roosevelt's rapidly formulating credit expansion program.

As on his appearance in a Park avenue hotel, where he delivered his speech, the president was greeted with cheers and shouts of acclaim as he motored from New York to Jersey City, where his train waited.

With Mr. Roosevelt on the motor trip to Jersey City was Monsignor Edward K. Keegan, president of the national conference of charities, whose concluding session he addressed.

Couzens, discussing the testimony of Robert E. Christie, Jr., youthful partner and secretary-treasurer of the company, asserted it was "hardly ethical" for those acting as trustees for money invested by the public to engage in speculating and selling the stock short.

Special objection was voiced against those provisions of the act requiring truck owners to post a good faith bond and pay certain fees not prescribed in the previous truck law.

A motion filed in the supreme court recently asking that the officers be restrained from enforcing the law was denied.

"I've kept track of the money it saved us this month"

"HERE it is—all put down. Whenever my telephone relieved me of a trip downtown, I made note of the nickel, dime or quarter saved. They soon amounted to more than the price of telephone service, and I also have the telephone for calling friends, and making appointments. It's true, and I've proved it—the telephone in the home costs so little and does so much that it simply doesn't pay to be without one."
