Pickell - Haggard Nuptials in Portland

A quiet but impressive church ceremony this afternoon at 2:00 o'clock will unite in marriage Miss Yvonne Pickell and Claude C. Haggard. Vows will be exchanged in the First Christian church in Portland with Rev. Claude Neeley officiating.

The bride will wear a becoming gown of yellow net over eggshell taffeta, made with a taffeta cape. She will carry a shower bouquet of Talisman roses and bouvardia. The couple will be unattended, only members of the immediate families being present.

The bride and groom will leave immediately after the ceremony for a wedding trip to Seattle, Victoria and Vancouver, B. C. For her going away ensemble Miss Pickell has chosen a brown suit with brown accessories. The couple will be at home after October 23 in North Bend.

Miss Pickell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Pickell of Salem and Mr. Haggard the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Haggard of North Bend. He is connected with the Mountain States Power company there.

"Modern Medley" is Prize Play

Because Diana Rogge, author of "Modern Medley," wrote about home life and the dramatic story of a clubweman who neglected her family to chase after newspa-per headlines and radio broad-casts, she won the national playwriting contest conducted two years ago by N. Bryllion Fagin, director of "The Playshop," Johns Hopkins university. It will be the Statesman, page ten, Sunday, Oct. first production of the Chemeketa Players.

Director Fagin, in the September, 1932, number of "The Author at the classes and at the tournafor the Junior Guild of St Paul's and Journalist," commenting on ment Tuesday, October 17. the contest, says:

neighbors. "The idea of the winning play is quite simple, but it is vital to us today. In its very unusualness lies its vitality. And the characters that this story molds are keenly interesting to us, because we are they."

Judges of the contest were Director Fagin, president of the old-est and best little theatre in Maryland and dramatic critic of the most prominent and best newspaper in Baltimore.

"Modern Medley" was produced by "The Playshop" and as a result Diana Rogge has received national recognition. Rehearsal of the second act of this play was begun has assembled an exceptionally competent cast.
