Einzig said he immediately informed all members of the board of control. Friends of Maizels raised $2052 and placed it in trust to make up the defalcation. Mr. Trindle said yesterday afternoon that Maizels' friends would advance more money if the defalcation proved more than $2052.

Maizels is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Malzels, 776 North Commercial street, Salem. His father is the proprietor of a second-hand store. His mother is said to be stunned by her son's ac-

Maizels is a graduate of Oregon State college. His job at the statehouse was his first position since he graduated, His scholastic record is said to have been high. He started to work at $100 a month, replacing a $175 man.

When he was married, Maizels' salary was raised to $120.

Maizels was employed in the board of control offices in June, 1932. He succeeded Ben Wing of Portland, whose resignation was Treasurer Holman. Maisels was put in charge of collecting funds for the state from counties and individuals for maintenance of insane patients at the two state hospitals. His records show he increased the volume of collection. Four months after he was appointed, Maizels said in his confession, he started taking money for his own use, intending to pay pressing obligations and then to repay the money.

Maizels said the practice continged until the amount owed was beyond his control. He was not under personal bond.

It was on the night of October 11, 1492, that Columbus stood on the bow of his paship while the banners of Aragon furled about the mast and saw a weird light on an island. He called it San Salvador and there he later planted the banners of Castile.

His discovery was not made really until the next day—October 12—when his men saw birds and trees and a new land.

PRIZE RULES ARE GIVEN FOR BRIDGE

Grand prizes at the contract bridge tournament will be determined by the lowest aggregate of the positions won in each section each night. They will not be awarded by total scores. The reason for this, Mrs. William H. Quinn explained Wednesday. Some evenings north and south evenings east and west may have stronger hands. There is no exact even balance in strength between the north-south and east-west holdings. Tuesday night north - south holdingsi n each section were considerably weaker in scoring possibilities than the east-west cards. This situation, however, does not effect the evening's play nor the grand prize results. For the evening, winners are chosen for best rank in east-west and north-south in each section. These players in turn receive ing their position in the winning compared to all other players in

For example: if one couple won third place the first night in their section, and the next night takes second place, their score towards the grand prize is "3" plus "2" "5." The scores towards the grand prizes will be available Saturday at the Marion hotel. Tuesday night's scores are available there now.

Players can utterly discard, if they wish, the rankings received the first two nights of the tournament and enter only six scores towards the grand prize. Or they may enter any six they wish, irrespective whether the scores were made the opening nights or any following evenings.
