BLAME ALL PLACED ON ADVISORY BOARD

McNary Receives Report on Matter From Secretary; Speed now Demanded

Responsibility for delay in obtaining federal action on public works act loans and grants to finance the five bridges on the Oregon coast highway, was placed squarely on the shoulders of the state advisory board, in a telegram received by Senator McNary from his Washington office Friday.

The telegram quoted Colonel Clark, deputy public works administrator, as declaring that the public works administrators in Washington were ready to act upon the Oregon applications as soon as they were received and that any delays up to this time were occasioned by failure of the advisory board to transmit the applications to Washington.

Clark also advised McNary's Washington office that he would send a telegram to the state advisory board demanding that the applications be rushed to Washington without further delay.

Senator McNary, while in Washington three weeks ago, was informed that the state advisory board had been asked to forward the bridge proposals to the national board, and he returned to Oregon with the understanding that they had been placed in the mails.

Designs for the five bridges were completed by the state highway department several weeks ago and were sent to C. C. Hooley, federal public works engineer for Oregon. Since that time the applications and plans for the Alsea bay bridge have been forwarded to Washington, but reports here indicated that these were being held up pending receipt of applications involving the other four bridges.

The purpose of the government, highway officials said, was to include funds for all five of the bridges in one blanket loan.

Specifications for four of the bridges were said to have been checked by the federal bureau of public roads while work on the plans for the fifth structure was in progress.

The cost of the five bridges was estimated at 5,200,000. Of this amount 30 per cent will be obtained as a direct grant while the remaining 70 per cent will be borrowed from the government.

PROPERTY FIGURES IN DIVORCE ACTION

Suit to recover a one-half interest in real property, allegedly taken from her by collusion, was begun Friday here when Gertrude C. Brown of Woodburn filed suit against Joseph A. Brown, her husband, and William A. Brown, the latter's brother.

Mr. Brown, who was married June 2, 1923, claims her husband, from whom she seeks her freedom has a vicious, ungentlemanly temper and on some occasions beat her.

On a pretext, she asserts, he Speak at First Church—In the absence of Dr. B. Earle Parker, pastor, Dr. D. H. Schultze of Willamette university will preach Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock; and Dr. Carl G. Doney, president of Willamette, will have the pulpit at 11 o'clock Sunday morning.

Bassett Reports—Ray Bassett, guardian of the estate of Jessie Haynes and Josie Haynes, incompetents, filed his periodic report yesterday, showing income of $706 and outgo of $381. Property owned by the two girls has an estimated value of $1500.

Dance tonight with Nate's popular new 10-piece band and entertainers. Mellow Moon, 25c.

Short Measure Trial—Trial for W. F. Brown, accused of selling short measure of wood, was held before Judge Hayden yesterday. The judge took the matter under advisement and will give his decision later.

Fox Breeders Meet—Directors of the Oregon State Fox Breeders association will meet at the chamber of commerce today, starting at 10:30 o'clock this morning, to lay plans for the second annual pet show.

Decree Granted—A decree for the plaintiffs was granted in circuit court here yesterday in the case of N. E. Essey against C. D. and Maud V. Adams. Principal of $1500, interest and costs were allowed in the decree.

Bynon Named—Fred S. Bynon yesterday was named administrator of the estate of the late Freeman A. Sargent who left assets which have an appraised value of $850. All of the estate is in real property.

Prime Gets Permit—G. E. Prime was granted a permit at the city hall Friday to erect a service station at 845 Commercial street. The estimated cost of the new structure is $1000.

permanently to end her interest in his real property to the brother-in-law, Mrs. Brown alleges that the transaction was a blind to take her property rights away, although at the time her husband claimed the deal was one to keep the property from being attached. She says the brother-in-law serves only as a trustee, not an owner in fee, of the realty. In winning separation from her husband, Mrs. Brown wants her share of the real property.

HOME COMING TO BE NOVEMBER 3 AND 4

Annual Willamette - Pacific Grid Game, bag Rush and Play are Features

Willamette university's annual home-coming festivities will be held November 3 and 4, with about 200 graduates expected to witness the annual football game between Willamette and Pacific university, the traditional freshman-sophomore bag rush, and the homecoming plays.

At the initial meeting of the student body executive committee this week William Mosher, Salem, was appointed homecoming manager. He has started plans for the entertainment of the returning graduates. The cast of the homecoming play has been selected and rehearsals are under way. The play, "The Servant in the House" by Charles Rann Kennedy will be presented by Theta Alpha Phi, national dramatic fraternity. It is being directed by Professor H. E. Rahe, head of the speech department. The cast includes Bill Miller, Bob Anderson, Leo Ellmaker, all Portland; Sherwood Nicholas, Roseburg; Ralph Barber, Renton, Wash.; S. A. Willa Phelps and Dorothy Keeton, Salem.

The play will be given Friday night, November 3, in the Salem high school auditorium. Saturday night at 8 o'clock Willamette gridsters will meet the Pacific university Badgers on Sweetland field. Between the halves of this game the freshmen and sophomores will tangle in the annual bag rush. The losers of this will take a dip in the cold waters of the mill stream.

A special edition of the Collegian, campus weekly, will be dedicated to the returning alumni, and pre-prepared copies of this will be sent to all alumni as an invitation to the homecoming activities.

JOB AGENCY HERE TO REGISTER MEN

Registration of men and women under the new federal re-employment plan will be started at the re-employment agency at 250 court street Wednesday, October 18, it is anticipated by E. T. Barnes, agent, and D. D. Dotson, office manager. Barnes said last night that the registration of all unemployed men and women would be begun then, provided improvements to the building were completed and government supplies received. Definite establishment of the starting date will be published early next week.

The unemployed will be registered in alphabetical order of their names, those having names beginning with A and B being received the first day and so on. It is expected the task of making the new list will require over a week.

The re-employment office will be closed today for alterations, which will include improving the heating, partitioning off the waiting and reading rooms, enlarging the inside office and whitewashing the inner walls of the structure.

SHORT COURSE FOR BERRY MEN LOOMS

October 26-28 at College; Improved Varieties of Special Interest

With Oregon one of the major berry producing areas in the country, and with growers still undecided on plantings to replace the heavy freeze-out of last fall, the short course for small fruit growers to be held at Oregon State college, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 26-28, will be of especial interest to berry growers of Marion county.

The progress being made in finding better strawberries of the northwest to meet needs of the preserving trade and attempts being made to develop varieties resistant to crinkle and other strawberry diseases will be considered.

Developments in raspberry breeding, possibilities for Oregon in youngberries, blackberries, blackberries, gooseberries and grapes are among other subjects on the program.

Subjects to be treated Thursday are: Morning—Soil types suitable for small fruits; installation and operation of an irrigation plant, effects of irrigation upon yield, quality and cost of production of small fruits. Afternoon—address, "Dividends from Agricultural Research," William A. Schoenfeld; crinkle and rhizoctonia of strawberries; tour of experiment station farms.

Friday program: Morning—insect pests of small fruits, illustrated; small fruit variety and breeding problems of the Pacific northwest; importance of healthy planting stock and its certification. Afternoon—quality of fresh fruit as it affects grades of cold pack and canned fruit; cut-out demonstration of frozen and canned small fruits. Evening—
