Counties Rebel At Tax Levy for Old Age Pension

Revolt of a number of central Oregon counties against attempting to levy a tax for payment of old age pensions was reported here Sunday by James E. Smith, Marion county commissioner. Smith declared that the budget committee of Crook county had refused to levy such a tax and that several other central Oregon counties probably would take similar action. He said the county officials complained that the property owners were unable to pay their existing tax and that any additional levies would force them into bankruptcy. The old age pension law becomes effective next year.

LOCAL WARD STORE TOPS 80 ON COAST

Wins Ward Week Competition, is High in District And Sets Record

First prize for the entire Pacific coast on sales during Ward week, October 5 to 14, was won by the Salem Montgomery-Ward and company store, Barkley A. Newman, local manager, was informed by wire yesterday. Every one of the company's 80 stores on the Pacific coast was a strong contender for this honor.

The Salem store also placed first in the district sales, there being 11 stores in the district. The award was given for the best showing of sales over the stiff Ward week quota designated by the district offices. Salem store made 53 per cent over its budget quota, and also in the nine days handled by far the largest volume of business to date.

E. L. Barth, district manager, a business visitor at the local store yesterday, declared all the glory for the sales record here goes to the local manager and his personnel. Barth said sales throughout the nine days were good in all lines of merchandise. The prize money which will come to the Salem store as result of its showing will be used for a dinner for the entire personnel at a later date.

Advertising for the local store has been carried exclusively in The Statesman.

Aldrich Returns From First Trip To East Coast

Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Aldrich have returned from a motor trip of several weeks' duration which took them clear to the Atlantic seaboard. They went east on the Lincoln highway, but made northerly diversions into South Dakota.

Minnesota and Wisconsin. Returning came over the southwest-ern route and up through California. The distance covered was 3200 miles. Aside from five days in Chicago viewing the fair, and three days visiting in South Dakota they made very few stops, except for over night.

This was the first time Mr. Aldrich had been east of Oregon so he found the trip quite revealing. He says the country as a whole looked very good, especially in the northern farming districts of Minnesota and Wisconsin.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES

DENSMORE SHUTE—Britons gasped and gaped when he won the 1933 British Open over St. Andrews' deceptive fairways and angry bunkers. Golf prophets say Shute will line up with Golf Immortals. Answering a question, Shute recently said: "I have tried all the brands, and long ago found that Camels are milder, and what is even more important to any golfer, they do not jangle the nerves."

TOMMY ARMOUR—Often called "Wizard of the Irons," Armour has won a flock of championships, including the U. S. Open in 1927, the P. G. A. in 1930, the British Open in 1931. Tommy knows his golf and his cigarettes. "What do I think of Camels? They are my brand and have been for years. I smoke a lot but I must be sure that my nerves are healthy and my head is clear—that's why I prefer Camels."

GENE SARAZEN—This great golfer began his winning ways in 1922 when he became U. S. Open Champion. He has been a consistent tournament winner ever since. This year he won his third P. G. A. Championship. On the subject of cigarettes Sarazen says: "I agree with Shute and Armour—I smoke Camels, too. They always taste good—and they never interfere with my nerve control."

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

Men and women whose work and play demand healthy nerves and level heads prefer Camels. Active people agree that they can smoke these fine-flavored, milder cigarettes without fear of jangling their nerves.

Another thing about active people—they are pretty generally steady smokers... And, as anyone who smokes Camels will tell you, you can smoke as many of these cigarettes as you want—and never have a "cigarette" aftertaste. The last cigarette at night tastes as good as the first in the morning, if you smoke Camels.

Try a package of Camels today... Enjoy the superior flavor of their costlier tobaccos. If you are a steady smoker you will appreciate the fact that Camels never get on your nerves, never tire your taste.

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW
Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. You will find Camels rich in flavor and delightfully mild.
