face-down, saw that he was dead and put in a police call from the E. F. Glover home nearby. S. A. Pitney, constable, testified that although it had rained, he found Hage's clothing to be perfectly dry.

Ed Hanson Hage, a brother, with whom the dead man had lived, testified that Hage had left home between 4 and 5 o'clock with the expressed intention of going to the Osborne home. The brother also testified that to his knowledge the dead man had no valuables of any kind other than the remainder of $18 or $20 which he had received for work done for Rex Russell.

Knute Digerneis testified that he had seen Hage walking down First street with a young man at 11:25.

Harold Burke testified that he had seen the dead man at both the Club and Mac's Place. He had also seen him leave with DePiero, whom Burke said, had said, "Come on, Matt, go home with me."

Tom Wells, who had also been with Hage at the billiard hall, said Hage had told him he had received $18 from Miss Maulding and $22 from Russell for work done.

June D. Drake told the jury he had seen the contents of the dead man's pockets removed by the officers and that there was some small change, pencils, nails, some papers and a receipt for a safety box at the Coolidge and McClaine bank dated October 13. There was also a bloody handkerchief in the dead man's pocket.

S. E. Osborne said Hage and Albert Grinde had been at his house between 4 and 5 o'clock and that Hage had a pint bottle of liquor from which all three drank. Erwin Smith said Hage had been at his home at 8 o'clock and had remained probably an hour. He said he had seen that Hage had two bills and some silver. He also testified that Hage had pulled out a half bottle of moonshine and that they each had two drinks. The bottle with the remainder in it had been left at the Smith home.

Lloyd Kennedy, night officer, reported that the pavement was wet when he left downtown to answer the call to the north side. It had rained rather heavily early in the morning, and was sprinkling at 6 o'clock. Kennedy also testified that he had seen Hage leave Mac's Place and that he thought "he walked straight" but he could see that he had been drinking. He had seen Hage walk down Oak street and had also seen another man leave the billiard hall shortly after Hage had left. Kennedy said he did not know the man's name but someone in the court room spoke up and said that his name was Lov-Hen and that he came from the country.

Willard Norton reported on the small amount he had seen Hage spend at the Club Pool hall. Norton who also lives on the north side said that as he crossed the tracks he heard sounds of footsteps walking down the track. He testified that it "sounded like two people walking."

Testimony, as brought out Thursday afternoon, indicated that Hage had been in both Silvertown billiard hall and that he had left Mac's place shortly after 12 o'clock and had apparently started for his home in the company of Louis DePiero. Testimony also showed that Hage had been drinking rather freely.

Mrs. Mary Miller of 508 Whittier street told about the sound "like a groan" she had heard between 2 and 4 o'clock upon questioning. The groan, according to Mrs. Miller had come from back of the house. The tracks where Hage was found dead are immediately back of the Miller house.

Louis DePiero, employed at Vernonia, was brought in as the last witness of the afternoon. Mr. DePiero, who is 21 years of age, said he came down to Silvertown Thursday night and returned again to his work Sunday morning. He had left Mac's place between 12 and 12:15 Saturday morning and Hage had accompanied him. He said Hage was too drunk to know what he was talking about and talked a lot of silly things. Hage, according to DePiero, had held onto his arm almost the entire distance to the latter's home. Hage had also stumbled once or twice, DePiero said, but had not fallen. He had left Hage on the railroad track and started him in the right direction home. He testified that he himself had gotten home at 12:35 and that his mother had let him in.

Hage was found dead several feet up the track in the opposite direction from which DePiero testified he had taken when they started. According to testimony this morning by physicians, Hage could not have moved after he had been struck in the head.

One of the strangest stories of a triangular love affair is told in the Warner Bros. picture "Mary Stevens, M. D.," which comes to the Elsinore theatre today. The triangle involves Kay Francis, the star, Lyle Talbot and Thelma Todd.

"Mary Stevens, M. D.," is a powerfully emotional drama of a woman doctor, an unwed mother, who saved other children during an epidemic aboard ship, but could not save her own. The story is based on the well-known novel by Virginia Kellogg and adapted to the screen by Rian James.

Others in the cast include Glenda Farrell, Una O'Connor, Charles Wilson, Harold Huber and Hobart Cavanaugh.

One hundred former high school and prep school football stars are candidates for Duke university's freshman team.

TRUCKMEN WIN MAJOR VICTORY

Only $10 Fee and Mileage Charge Will Be Paid, Is Agreement.

A. C. Anderson, president of the state group, urged every truck owner to immediately apply for the permit and make the $10 deposit. Present blanks will be used with a waiver of all but the temporary demands attached.

A resolution was passed by the truckmen urging that each member of the legislature be contacted to remedy the bus and truck law. Suggestions from Thomas and many of the truckmen themselves were that legislation be enacted at the special session to relieve truckmen of the mileage fee from October 20 back to last July, when the act went into effect. Thomas, in his early talk, advised new legislative enactment with a retroactive clause regarding refund of fees.

Responding to rounds of applause from the truckmen, Thomas said of the emergency measure: "We have made the law just as elastic as human hands can make it. . . . The only theory solely based is that I recognize that a lot of our people are in distress."

The committee which conferred with Thomas in evolving the compromise was composed of Clarence R. Wagoner, Portland; W. B. Yates, attorney Independent Fuel dealers, Portland; E. C. Bunker, Corvallis; Ed Lewis, Eugene; Kirkham, Oregon City; Griffin, Roseburg; Millen F. Kneeland, Portland; Hickman, Salem; Holman, Molalla; Percy Cupper and Carl Pope, Salem.

Universal Finger Printing Coming, Joe Murray Says

It is just a matter of time until finger printing will become universal, Joe Murray, Bertillon expert at the state penitentiary, told members of the Lions club here Thursday. He said there was no other method of identification so positive as the finger print. Murray said many wealthy persons had resorted to finger prints

WHEAT MOVING AS GUARDSMEN CALLED

BISMARCK, N. D., Oct. 19. (AP)—Wheat-laden freight cars trundled out of North Dakota tonight in defiance of Governor William Langer's embargo, aimed at producing higher prices for the grain. The governor ordered mobilization of the national guard to prevent shipment of wheat out of the state but without word which would send them into action until he had studied further the legal phases of his edict.

Railroads openly disregarded the proclamation barring out-state shipments and carried on business as usual. Their executives said the next move was up to Langer. They expressed the opinion the issue was headed for the courts.

Langer, just as positive the embargo should be effective, told the adjutant general, Earl Saries to prepare the state's 1300 national guardsmen for action. Saries said all would be ready to move on short notice.

Asserted Widow Gets No Part of Canfield Estate

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Oct. 19. (AP)—Superior Judge Carl Stutsland, today admitted the will of the late Byron H. Canfield, millionaire publisher of the Scripps-Canfield league of newspapers, to probate. The chain is of their children as a matter of protection.

Fingerprints are classified in three divisions, Murray said. He referred to the loop type, whorl and arch.
