

ANDERSON DEFIES REMOVAL OF TAGS

Holds P. U. C. Plates Issued By Commissioner, State Police Powerless

Replying to demand of Lieutenant Walter Lansing of the state police for a surrender of his P. U. C. plates, A. C. Anderson, president of the Truck Owners and Farmers Protective association, yesterday advised Lansing by letter that he would not surrender the plates because "they are issued to me by the commissioner of public utilities, that the same have been paid for . . . and are properly and legally attached to my trucks and are my property . . ."

At the same time, Anderson said the association is getting many inquiries as to what its next move will be on the P. U. C. plate situation and that "the feeling has reached such a point that if this law should be enforced by the police department, I am afraid to predict what might happen."

Anderson says probably a state meeting will be called shortly to let members decide what action they wish to take if the police department tries to make arrests of operators and drivers.

Hope that the present law will be repealed at the special session of the legislature and replaced with a fair, reasonable road charge for maintenance of highways, was again expressed by Anderson.

Contrary to reports, the association has not become affiliated with other organizations to start a central committee in Portland, and the executive meeting voted not to affiliate with other organizations, feeling that to attempt to establish another central body so close to the coming legislative session would be impracticable.

In his letter to Lansing, Anderson points out: "It is the position of the members of the Truck Owners and Farmers Protective association that the commissioner has a legal right to issue those plates and the permits accompanying the same and that the permits are still in full force and effect and that any act seeking to remove the plates is unauthorized and illegal."

EUGENE PROFS ASK NELSON TO RESIGN

The meeting was attended by 144 members of the faculty and university staff.

In a statement issued immediately after the meeting, Dr. Gilbert, dean of the college of social science, said: "The practical unanimity of the faculty on the resolution of protest should serve as a standing refutation of the claim that the faculty is divided in the ratio of 99 to 1. There are more 'catalines' and 'maggots' than Mr. Nelson imagines. Never in many years has the university faculty exhibited more solidarity of interest and esprit de corps than during the past few trying days."

"The action of the faculty, it should be made clear, is in no sense related to the inter-institutional rivalry. The university faculty has no quarrel with the faculty at Corvallis, many of whom are known to resent the type of partiality and bias shown in Mr. Nelson's two addresses at the university and state college."

The resolution challenged the imputation by Mr. Nelson that the dissatisfaction on the Eugene campus is due "to implacable opposition to unification," and stated that the plan of unification had originated on the Oregon campus and that there never had been any opposition to it, but "on the contrary, a wholehearted endeavor to make such unification a success."

The resolution continued that "the whole tendency of his (Mr. Nelson's) address at Corvallis was to fix in the imagination of his audience debasing pictures of the university by describing its activities as 'burrowing faster than a man can build' and by stating that 'it does not take intelligence to find down; maggots can do that.'

U. S. May Oust Spanknoebel

The storm center of a heated controversy between opposing factions of the United German-American Societies, Heinz Spanknoebel, reputed head of the American branch of the National Socialist (Nazi) party, is threatened with deportation. Designating him as a "faker," Representative Samuel Dickstein, of New York, chairman of the House Immigration committee, is investigating charges, made by Victor Ridder, German-American publisher, that Spanknoebel's mission is to spread seeds of religious hatred and racial prejudice as Nazi propaganda. Dr. Hans Luther, Reich Ambassador to Washington, asserts Spanknoebel has no official connection with the Nazi Government.

Governor Julius L. Meier said he had no statement to make yesterday on the weekend flareup on the higher education front. It was learned officially that he had been implored to remove Roscoe C. Nelson, his own appointee, from the board.

The governor called William D. Marks of Albany into conference here. Marks, who has acted as governor on several occasions, is vice-chairman of the board of higher education. Neither man would state what happened at the meeting although it was reliably understood the existing situation in higher education was thoroughly canvassed.

Governor Meier returned to his home at the Benson hotel in Portland yesterday afternoon.

STREETCAR STRIKE SOLUTION SOUGHT

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 6. (AP)—An attempt to avert a strike of Portland streetcar employees will be made tomorrow by the United States bureau of labor, William Cooper, president of the Portland streetcar men's local, disclosed tonight.

Cooper said E. T. Marsh of Seattle, commissioner of conciliation for the bureau of labor, wired that he will arrive in Portland tomorrow to try to mediate the differences between the employees and the Portland Traction company.

Meanwhile, plans for the strike, voted by a more than 4 to 1 majority of the employees last week, were delayed pending the decision of Detroit headquarters of the international streetcar men's union on the action of the Portland local.

inclination I would retire at once and thereby remove myself from a field of controversy which is distasteful to me. However, I do not regard myself as a free agent in this matter, and the action that I finally take will be that which I deem to be in the public interest.

Referring to the next meeting of the board, scheduled to be held at Eugene, Nelson said: "I don't think it will be changed. I feel perfectly safe in going to Eugene without a body guard. If I am a member of the board at the time, the meeting has been tentatively scheduled for December 13."

EDWARD CROISAN TO RETURN TO SALEM

Says Home Here; Farewell Dinner Given Customs Man at Portland

Edward M. Croisan, who retired recently after serving seven years as collector of customs in Portland, was a Salem visitor yesterday. Mr. Croisan still calls Salem home and expects to return here to live. He served Marion county as sheriff and state senator.

The October issue of the "Customs Service News" gave the following account of a dinner honoring Mr. Croisan on the occasion of his retirement from office: "The farewell dinner to Mr. Croisan was given by the Oregon branch of the National Customs Service association. Mr. Fred C. Butler, assistant collector, presided and proved himself a most acceptable toastmaster.

"Short talks, in which pleasant reminiscences of days gone by were recounted, and tributes of praise paid to the retiring collector, were made by R. F. Barnes,

J. W. Mills and Mr. John A. Beard and Henry R. Patterson, retired members of the force who were present.

"Vocal selections were rendered by Jacob Madick, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Charles Henny. "The principal address of the evening was made by L. W. Hartman, customs broker, and former president of the Portland chamber of commerce. Mr. Hartman praised the collector for his loyal and efficient efforts devoted to the Port of Portland and the customs service.

"In a brief but very fitting address, Mrs. Allene Kellogg presented to Mr. Croisan a pair of field glasses, a gift from the employees in the service. She said the token carried with it the respect and admiration of every member of the force for his retiring chief. "Mr. Croisan responded briefly, but in a most affectionate manner, in a few well chosen sentences, expressing his appreciation of the effort and loyal services rendered by his co-workers and friends.

POWER FAILS DUE TO AUTO ACCIDENT

Business in Silverton and Mt. Angel was conducted by candle light for an hour Saturday when electric power was temporarily cut off as the result of an automobile accident just south of Mt. Angel on the Mt. Angel-Silverton road. Linemen found the car badly damaged leaning against a high tension line pole. Its occupants were gone. Police here had no report of the affair.

The impact broke the crossarm on the pole loose, causing a short circuit that threw out breakers at Mt. Angel and Silverton. W. M. Hamilton, district manager for the Portland General Electric company, reported here. The short circuit was of such severity that it jammed the oil switches at the company's Salem station that was connected Silverton power lines with the Salem supply and Mt. Angel with the River Mill plant at Estacada.

Power service was temporarily disrupted as far south as Pratum. Only a flicker was noticed in the local service.
