OREGON BEATS BEAVERS 13-3 AND TOPS COAST

O. S. C. "Iron Men" Battle Bravely Against Webfeet; "Breaks" are Bad

Oregon Only Unbeaten Team of Conference; Mikulak, Temple Aid Victory

By FRANK G. GORRIE
MULTNOMAH STADIUM, Portland, Ore., Nov. 11. (AP)—Oregon State's famous "iron men" football machine was melted to scrap today when a fiery, crushing University of Oregon team swept to a 13 to 3 victory, to take an unchallenged position at the head of the Pacific Coast conference.

The "iron immortals" of Corvallis, who had previously played through three battles with only two substitutions, and who had held the mighty Trojan team to a scoreless tie with only 11 men, wilted under the relentless onslaught of the Webfoots and all were replaced in the fourth quarter.

The defeat of previously undefeated Southern California team today by Stanford, placed the unbeaten Oregonians at the top of the conference standings.

A capacity crowd of more than 30,000 frenzied spectators watched the dizzy battle which saw Adolph "Tar" Schwammel, giant tackle, kick a field goal for Oregon State in the first period, and two smashing, whirlwind drives sent the "Mighty Mike Mikulak" and "Roundup" Mark Temple, plunging to touchdowns, the former in the second period and the latter in the fourth. "Stew" Milligan missed the first try for point from placement, and Temple booted his own to add the last digit of the contest.

The score failed to indicate the closeness of the battle as Oregon State drove close to touchdowns several times, and Oregon ploughed within striking distance on other rough shod trips.

The longest run of the battle witnessed Johnny Biancone, Oregon State sub halfback, headed for a certain score in the closing minutes of play, but a heart-breaking stumble over one of his own men cut him down on Oregon's 15 yard line. He had taken a pass from Acheson on his 21 yard line, and the Beaver back skirted down the sidelines for a total gain of 64 yards. He tried to step around a Webfoot tackler who had caught up with him and he stumbled over his own interference.

Oregon State tallied its field goal early in the first period when Norman "Red" Franklin, as slippery as a back as the north-west has seen in years, reeled off 15 yards around right end to reach Oregon's 50 yard line.

When a pass failed and two line smashes moved the Webfoots back only 8 yards, Schwammel dropped back to the 25 yard line and booted a field goal straight and true.

The early score failed to impress the Lemon-Yellow gridders and they came back in the second period with a ripping, running attack from the yard 29 (Turn to Page 8, Col. 6)

LITVINOFF BUSY WITH STATE DEPT.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—Pleased with the trend thus far, state department officials and Maxim Litvinoff, the Soviet's foremost diplomat, today continued their methodical work of building a foundation on which to establish Russian recognition.

The meeting was arranged for the afternoon in the office of Under-Secretary Phillips was the fourth at which the Soviet foreign minister and state department officials have reviewed the questions on which there must be an understanding before restoration of diplomatic relations.

The Soviet representative, unaccompanied save for the usual detail of secret service men, arrived at the state department shortly after 4 o'clock. He remained in Phillips' office only about 45 minutes.

Lindbergh Flies To Santa, Spain

MADRID, Nov. 11. (AP)—After a flight from Geneva that Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh described as "uneventful" despite "difficult flying conditions," he and Mrs. Lindbergh arrived today at Santa, 16 miles from Santander on the Bay of Biscay.

Santa, a city of 10,000 people, greeted the American flier and escorted them to the home of Jose Albo, one of the wealthiest men in northern Spain, where they planned to spend the night before leaving for Lisbon early tomorrow.

Find Masterpiece in Convent

One of the world's most famous paintings, "The Melon Eaters," the work of the great Spanish Murillo, in 1665, has been located in the galleries of the Ursuline Convent and College in Santa Rosa, Cal. There are only three originals from the brush of Murillo in existence and the third has been missing more than a century. It was found in the Ursuline convent. The famous "Beggars" painting is considered by art connoisseurs to rival Murillo's famed painting of the Virgin. The Ursuline nuns were the first order of Catholic nuns to establish themselves in America. The painting has been taken to San Francisco and locked in a vault for safe keeping. Bernice O'Rourke, a student at the college, is shown with the painting. —Central Press Photo.

GERMAN PASTOR IS SUSPENDED

Ex-Submarine Captain is Ousted for Opposing Anti-Semitism

BERLIN, Nov. 11. (AP)—Because he opposed anti-Semitism in the church, the Rev. Martin Niemoller, a former submarine captain and long a member of the Nazi party, was summarily suspended from his pastorate today by the Rev. Joachim Hoesenfelder, president of the Nazi German Christian movement.

The Rev. Mr. Niemoller, who won the Iron Cross for bravery in the World War, urged members of his congregation every Sunday to vote "yes" in tomorrow's plebiscite on the government's foreign policy, but opposed anti-Semitism in the church on the grounds that it is incompatible with the teachings of Christ.

In his congregation are Count Schwerin von Krosigk and Professor Julius Curtius, former minister of foreign affairs. Niemoller also was president of the Pastors' Emergency federation which comprises 3,000 ministers who endorsed the new political regime but opposed attempts of "the German Christians" to "regiment" the church.

His suspension comes at the very moment when, through the efforts of the Rev. S. McFarland of New York, Chancellor Hitler agreed to meet the leaders of those opposing the German Christians.

Friends of the pastor believe his suspension is a move by Dr. Hoesenfelder to make Hitler's reception impossible, as the chancellor cannot very well receive a suspended man, they said.

Another popular pastor, E. F. Rabernus, who also belongs to the opposition group, was likewise suspended tonight.

News of the removal of these two clergymen spread rapidly by telephone through the Reich, and the possibility of a schism through the protestant church was envisaged in some quarters.

LA GRANDE, Ore., Nov. 11. (AP)—Raymond C. Griffin, 25, of La Grande was fatally injured and four others were seriously hurt when a truck, traveling along the Old Oregon Trail highway six miles east of here today struck an automobile from behind, police said they were informed, in a dense fog.

Jack Fariss Jr., manager of a La Grande store (Montgomery Ward & company) and driver of the car, sustained internal injuries. Elsie Toombs and Mrs. Lynn Hannefield, both of La Grande, received leg fractures. Carl Stoddard, driver of the truck, suffered several fractured ribs.

Hospital attendants said her condition was not serious. Details of the accident were unavailable at a late hour.

WALLACE ASKS IOWA'S SUPPORT FOR AG PROGRAM

Secretary Tells Home Folks Corn-Hog Deal Will Bring Money to Corn Belt

Farm Strike Fails to Cut Off Supplies; Wisconsin County Calls Off Strike

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 11. (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace tonight pleaded with a responsive home-state audience for support of the administration's corn-hog program and predicted such support would mean higher farm income.

Greeted before the start of his address in the coliseum, with the singing of Iowa's "corn song" by the crowd which included delegations of "dirt farmers," legislators, and business men, the cabinet member was accorded frequent applause throughout his formal speech and another outburst of handclapping as he finished.

Asserting that the administration's program for wheat and cotton states had provided farmers with "money to spend for the first time in many months," and started "the circuit flow of prosperity," Secretary Wallace said:

"Two or three months from now I believe it will be possible to say the same things about the corn country, if the people here wish it to be so."

"The farmers cannot be defeated in this program unless they defeat themselves," he continued. "If we do not make the corn and hog program succeed, we are in for worse times than we have ever seen."

The corn-hog program, Wallace said, "will bring $350,000,000 in benefit payments into the corn belt—about $75,000,000 in Iowa alone—between January 1, 1934, and the spring of 1935."

The corn-hog program, coupled with the president's monetary policy, offers the way for the corn belt farmer to enjoy increased farm income, he asserted.

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 11. (AP)—Although a sporadic disorders were reported as pickets in the national farm strike sought to prevent movement of farm produce to market, little diminution of receipts was noticed as the third week of the Farmers National Holiday association strike ended tonight.

Outside Iowa, Nebraska and Wisconsin, where the association's strength was most noticeable, livestock, produce, and dairy receipts were reported "about normal." In the three states where the strike has attained most momentum, no serious shortage of foodstuffs was reported.

Farmers in Bureau county, Wisconsin, at a meeting voted to call off the strike entirely.

BANK PROBLEMS UP AT MONTEVIDEO

(Copyright 1933, by the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (AP)—Through diplomatic channels came word today that a proposal to link the federal reserve bank of the United States with the national banks of Latin American nations is under consideration. Secretary of State Hull mails for Montevideo to the Pan-American conference.

From these sources it was learned that the establishment of an inter-American investment bureau to solve the economic problems of the Americas was under consideration. The bureau would be under the American and that, apparently, the project had sympathetic support of the administration in Washington.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (AP)—A "good neighbor policy" for all nations of the new world continents, Secretary of State Hull and other members of the American delegation said today for the seventh Pan-American conference at Montevideo, Uruguay.

Under instructions from the White House to avoid at the time any discussion of economic questions, the secretary of state declared:

"If at Montevideo we can deal soundly with some of the basic problems of good relations, we shall have laid the ground work for permanent achievement. We shall attempt, therefore, to do the things that can most intelligently be done in a time of unsettled conditions. In this way, we hope to build for the future."

Gov. Meier Endorses R. C. Drive

Workers in the Red Cross roll call in Salem and Marion county will start out Monday morning on their intensive membership drive with the support of Governor Julius L. Meier, who has issued a proclamation calling for their support, and of J. N. Chambers, who as chairman of the Marion county relief committee, has been in close contact with work of the Willamette Red Cross chapter here the past year.

Governor Meier's proclamation reads:

"To the people of Oregon: "The annual nation-wide roll call of the American Red Cross will be conducted this year from Armistice day to Thanksgiving day."

"During the past years when widespread unemployment has brought hardship and suffering in its wake, the Red Cross has met greatly increased demands and responsibility with cheerful courage and efficiency."

"I hope that every citizen of Oregon who can possibly do so will respond to this annual appeal, knowing that every dollar invested in Red Cross membership will yield a large return in service."

Mr. Chambers praised the Red Cross' work in the following statement:

"The efficient handling of relief in Marion county is in large measure due to the fine co-operation of the trained personnel of the Red Cross chapter in this county."

"The amount of flour and clothing furnished by the national Red Cross when figured in dollars and cents far exceeds the amount of money raised in this county for Red Cross relief. In other words, for every dollar subscribed, the national association has more than matched our offerings."

ICKES RULING MAKES OUTLOOK BAD FOR OREGON

Coast Bridges Out in Cold if Secretary Withholds PWA Funds

Marshall Dana Asks Ickes to Clarify Statement on Oregon Participation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—The outlook to tonight was that Oregon would have no coastal highway connected with bridges if it awaited public works funds to carry on the construction.

While representatives of the Pacific coast and Rocky mountain states hoped Public Works Administrator Ickes had not entirely turned his back upon their recommendations, his positive statement that Oregon will not get any more public works funds until other states' needs have been cared for seemed to block their efforts for the time being at least. His assertion pushed five bridges, estimated to cost more than $5,000,000 into the background and left the Oregon coastal highway in a secondary position as compared with other north-south thoroughfares between the Pacific northwest and California.

Although the bridges are big items in the requests of that state, it was said here that the greatest objections to Ickes' ruling will come in the combined voices of the smaller communities which have small projects averaging a few thousand dollars pending before the public works board.

The only comment of Senator Bone (D-Wash.) was that Ickes is inclined to believe the far western states have received more public works funds than their population deserves.

Senator Pope (D-Idaho) continued plans to press for action before Ickes, the reclamation bureau and the R. F. C. on projects totalling close to $12,000,000.

The administrator was not quoted as picking any state except Oregon as an example of having received more than its quota if allotments were made on the basis of population, but Representative Martin (D-Ore.) said Ickes told him both California and Washington were far above the amount they deserve.

Martin quoted Ickes as saying the populous centers of the east were complaining about the pouring of money into the west.

It was the general opinion of (Turn to Page 3, Col. 1)

JOHNSON SNIPES AT FORD RULING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—Although the comptroller general of the United States today held Henry Ford eligible for government contracts, all indications were that the motor manufacturer would get none until the question of his taxes was worked out. President Roosevelt's council table.

The ruling was that the automobile code is law; that Ford therefore must comply with it; that no evidence shows he is not complying, and in the absence of such evidence it must be assumed that he is.

Hugh S. Johnson, the NRA executive, from Fort Worth, Texas, expressed disagreement with the comptroller's ruling, voicing a belief that this official, J. R. McCull, had misinterpreted the President's orders on the subject of giving government contracts only to NRA cooperators. Other officials here kept silence.

Johnson will be back Tuesday, and the President's executive council will meet the same day. Directors of the emergency units of the government John cabinet members in the council.

MANY THEORIES IN HART MYSTERY

SAN JOSE, Calif., Nov. 11. (AP)—Varying theories today complicated the hunt for the supposedly kidnapped Brooks Hart, 25, son of a wealthy San Jose merchant. A search of the liner Lurline at San Pedro by a swarm of San Francisco and Los Angeles police failed to develop the clue that turned up in San Francisco last night with the finding of young Hart's wallet on the guard rail of an oil tanker that had been alongside the passenger ship a few hours before it sailed for the southern metropolis.

Chief of Police J. N. Black of San Jose, it was learned, was checking a report that young Hart had incurred debts of which other members of his family did not know. Officers said there was no verification of the report but it would be run down.

Capital Post Carries Out Program in Salem With Parade And Address by Harold Warner, State Commander of American Legion, Who Denounces Tyranny and Reminds Hearers of Disabled Vets

The days of '17 and '18 were recounted, the tunes chanted anew and that fellowship born of being shoulder to shoulder through gun fire and suffering revived by scores of World War veterans who gathered at the American Legion "dugout" downtown last night to close a day that brought marching once again to martial airs and solemn commemoration of that 11th hour on the 11th November day in 1918.

The celebration arranged by Capital Post No. 9 was worth the effort, Commander Claude McKenney declared.

The perpetual peace and growth of democracy envisioned for the world following that 1918 day are lacking today, Harold J. Warner of Pendleton, state commander of the Legion, declared at the exercises at the armory yesterday morning. Warner depicted a world in which democracy is being displaced by dictatorships, a world in which the league of nations, political embodiment of those 1918 ideals, has deteriorated into a debating society and has not settled one world problem.

"Today we are confronted," Warner asserted, "not by autocracy but by tyranny, the form of government most peculiar, dangerous and antagonistic to democracy."

In addition to paying tribute to soldiers sacrificed in the World War, Warner called attention to the thousands of veterans still lying in hospitals throughout the land, "for whom the war is not and never will be ended."

Warner cited the American Legion as an organization standing for preparedness and the preservation of its constitution as one of the greatest documents of its kind. He declared its members should not be regarded as treasury raiders but as peace-time as well as war-time defenders of the nation.

Heading the parade yesterday was the Salem drum corps, making its second public appearance here since its return from the Chicago convention. The corps and the national champion trio and quartet of the Capital Unit auxiliary provided musical numbers for the armory program.

SCHOOL HEADS MUM AT GAME

PORTLAND, Nov. 11. (AP)—Interested but neutral spectators at today's football game between the University of Oregon and Oregon State, which Oregon won 13 to 3, were Dr. W. J. Kerr, state chancellor of higher education, and Willard Marks of Albany, vice-president of the state board of higher education and acting head of the board since the resignation this week of Roscoe C. Nelson of Portland as president.

Dr. Kerr and Marks sat side by side at the game, but so far as could be learned they did not discuss the involved affairs of higher education in Oregon. A report that board members in Portland for the game might meet informally to discuss what action they would take at their next meeting toward reorganization apparently failed to materialize.

The chancellor left tonight for Chicago where he will attend educational organization meetings.

BIG MAN DRUNK

One of those big Portland policemen, it may have been, was dragged into police headquarters here last night and locked in the "cage" in the jail, there to cool off from an overdrat of strong drinks. City officers said the man claimed to be a Portland policeman; and refused to give his true name. He was booked as D. H. H. It required two Salem officers to take him to the station from a downtown confectionery in which he was arrested.

Here's Your Bag, What's Your Hurry

"To the retiring members from the 'gals' is the inscription on the placard hanging above three fine leather lined traveling bags standing together in the back room of the postoffice building. The bags, gifts from other postoffice employees here to Arthur Welch, Frank Baker and U. S. Rider, are said to be in keeping with the plans of the three men for the near future.

Retired November 1 under the combined pension and economy system of the civil service, the three are planning trips, Baker to California and Welch and Rider to destinations yet unknown by their former "buddies."
